LILIENTHAL LAYS 'SERIOUS' LEAKS IN ATOM SECURITY TO U.S. SCIENTISTS

Cites Publication of Data — Asks Senators for Secret Hearing on Spying by Foreign Agents in This Country.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (UP)—David E. Lilienthal, chairman-designate of the Atomic oCntrol Commission, today blamed American scientists for many "serious breaches" of atomic security. He asked for a secret Senate hearing on atom spying by foreign agents in this country.

He told Senate members of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy that most of the security breaks came through scientific publications open to public scrutiny.

He said the worst violation occurred in an official Government (Smythe) report, released shortly after the first bomb was dropped on Japan in August, 1945, which described four ways of splitting the atom.

He refused to be drawn into public discussion of foreign atomic spying. But he expressed concern and asked the Senators to discuss it with him only in closed session.

His statement injected a new note of uneasiness into the complicated question of atomic security shortly after Warren R. Austin, United States delegate to the United Nations, warned against any premature disclosure of this country's secrets.

Austin declared after a conference with President Truman that, until atomic warfare is outlawed by all nations, the United States must remain fully armed, hang on to its atom bombs and maintain a large standing army through universal military training.

Makes Commission 'Ludicrous.'

Lilienthal said the publication of some of this scientific material made the commission's position "ludicrous."

Senator Brien McMahon (Dem.), Connecticut, asked whether publication of the Smythe report had brought some countries tow or three years nerer" the secret of making atom bombs. Lilienthal said he could not answer that.

"There have been relaxations and serious breaches of security which raise the question of the authorization of certain publications," Lilienthal said.

Lilienthal said publication of the report was recommended by Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, head of the Wartime Atomic Manhattan project, and approved by President Truman.

He added that the whole question of publication of scientific information on atomic energy needs to be gone into, declaring that "you can't maintain security if you are a laughing stock."

Meanwhile, Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson characterized

CIO UNION FOR PEACE BOARD MODELED ON TOLEDO PLAN

First in Area to Indorse Idea — Clerks Oppose Stand Taken Against Proposal by Industrial Union Council.

The St. Louis joint board of the CIO United Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employes of America indorsed unanimously last night an industrial peace plan similar to the one proposed by Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann and modeled after the successful Toledo plan.

It was the first indorsement by a CIO or AFL union in this area for any plan along the lines of the Toledo organization.

The resolution, voted by 300 shop stewards representing more than 6000 members, was in opposition to the action taken last week by the chief CIO body, the Industrial Union Council, which rejected a proposal to explore various peace plans, including the mayor's. The shop stewards meet at 1722 Washington avenue.

"There are certain merits in the solution of industrial disputes on a community basis," the resolution said, "and there are good reasons why labor should consider such a plan, provided certain safeguards are incorporated and certain measures taken to see that it is neither an 'ornament' nor 'paper' organization.

"Our union welcomes mediation and fights for voluntary arbitration."

Harold J. Gibbons, director of the United Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employes' Union, said the resolution authorized the union's officers to participate with other unions, public officials and civic representatives in working out an industrial peace plan.

It was specified in the resolution that the unions and management should name their own representatives on the arbitration board under any plan, with the public's representative to be chosen by agreement of the first two members. This is a variation from the plan suggested by the Mayor, who proposed to invite the three members to serve on the board.

A. L. SCHWEITZER DIES; ALDERMANIC BOARD PRESIDENT

Suffers Heart Attack at His Home — Formerly Was Prosecuting Attorney of St. Louis.

Albert L. Schweitzer, president of the Board of Aldermen and former Prosecuting Attorney, died last midnight after suffering a heart attack at his home, 3227 Hawthorne boulevard. He was 58 yeas old.

Mr. Schweitzer had been under treatment for high blood pressure for several months. In recent weeks he appeared in improved health, and had started an active speaking campaign for re-election April 1. He conferred with political associates last night at his home, and was preparing to retire shortly before midnight when he collapsed in his bedroom.

An inhalator was summoned from City Hospital, and Dr. John J. Connor, who had been treating Mr. Schweitzer, was called. Dr. Connor, who is the Coroner's physician, said death was due to a coronary attack.

Served in World War I.

Born in St. Louis, Mr. Schweitzer was a graduate of McKinley High School and, in 1911, of the University of Missouri, where he was a star athlete. Following Navy service in World War I, he was an Assistant Circuit Attorney three years, then from 1923 to 1930 he was Prosecuting Attorney for two terms, through most of the prohibition era. As Prosecuting Attorney he consistently refused to issue misdemeanor warrants in the numerous police liquor raids on homes and other private places made without search warrants.

The following 15 years were devoted to private law practice, with offices in the Title Guaranty building. In 1945 he was elected president of the Board of Aldermen to fill the unexpired term of Aloys P. Kaufmann, who had previously succeeded the late William Dee Becker as Mayor.

Kaufmann's Tribute.

Mayor Kaufmann today made the following observation on Mr. Schweitzer's service to the community: "He was a tireless worker on behalf of our city, for which his enthusiasm and love knew no bounds. I am deeply shocked at his untimely passing. St. Louis has lost a valuable public servant." City flags will be at half-mast until after the funeral.

In a campaign statement, after filing Jan. 11 for Republican nomination for re-election, Mr. Schweitzer pledged continuation of full co-operation with Mayor Kaufmann "in his efforts to make St. Louis an important center of commerce, industry,

LAMBERT FIELD WILL INSTALL RADAR SYSTEM

Plans Set for Adding Ground Control Approach to Guide 'Blind' Landings.

A radar system which will enable commercial planes to land "blind" will be installed at Lambert-St. Louis Field by the Navy, the Post-Dispatch was told today by Capt. R. P. Kauffman, commanding officer of the Naval Air Station at the field.

The system, known as Ground Control Approach—or GCA—will be primarily for use of Navy planes. However, Capt. Kauffman said the system will be available for commercial and private planes, as well.

An officer and eight enlisted men will operate the new system. They are now in training at a Navy school at Olathe, Kan. Crew and equipment will arrive at the field sometime soon after Feb. 15 and the system will be in operation this spring, Capt. Kauffman said.

One Crash in GCA Landings.

The GCA radar system has been used in more than 76,000 landings by the armed services. Only one crash has occurred in such landings. That was at Oakland, Calif., last week and the Navy later announced the GCA had not failed, but that the pilot had taken control of the plane away from the blind landing mechanism.

Capt. Kauffman said a Navy air transport coast-to-coast plane service which has been using GCA has demonstrated that it can make such flights regardless of the visibility. For some months, he said, this service has never been stopped by visibility conditions.

FORMER VICHY SECURITY CHIEF CHALLENGES LAWYER TO DUEL

Col. A. Groussard, Who Also Was Resistance Leader, Says He Was Insulted in Court.

PARIS, Jan. 28 (AP)—Col. A. Groussard, former inspector general of the Vichy government's security section and later a resistance leader, has challenged Maurice Garcon, prominent Paris lawyer, to a duel, seconds of both men said today.

Groussard maintained he was insulted by Garcon in the lawyer's remarks to a jury during the trial of a French resistance hero. French law does not permit an attorney to be sued for statements made in court. Duels are illegal in France.

New Orleans Women on Buyers' Strike and Price of Bacon Drops

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 22 (AP)—New Orleans women have banded together to bring home the bacon—when the butcher meets their price.

The group, "United Women to Combat Inflation," says it includes about 154,000 women whose purpose is not to fight business but to avoid the adverse conditions of inflation. It is made up of representatives of women's clubs.

The first meeting stemmed from the remarks of two mothers shopping for groceries.

"I think we should go on a buyer's strike," one said as she fingered a pound of 80-cent bacon.

"A two-woman strike wouldn't get us far," said the other. "Let's bring it before our Parent-Teacher Association."

When the members heard the proposal, they voted not to buy high-priced goods. The pioneers got a list of 50 women's clubs and invited the presidents to a meeting. The idea spread and women are still joining.

First moves were aimed at bacon. The ultimate goal is 45-cents-a-pound bacon. It is nearing that price in many shops, and some meat dealers are meeting it.

Grocers have been requested by the organization to carry United States No. 1 grade of apples to sell at about 10 cents a pound rather than extra fancy grades.

Part of the program is the education of housewives. When a product is scarce, the women are asked to substitute another. When a product is plentiful they are urged to avoid buying it until the price is reasonable.

EAKER SAYS ARMY 'ALL-WEATHER' FLIGHTS MAY HELP PREVENT CRASHES

Equipment and Methods to Be Made Available for Civilian Use When Perfected, General Tells Senators.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Ira Eaker told Senators today that an Army Air Force experiment in "all-weather" flying may help prevent civilian airline crashes.

"We have an airline operating from Dayton (O.) to Washington and landing at either terminal in any kind of weather," the deputy commander of the A.A.F. told a special air safety subcommittee of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

"This is an experiment and a test proving ground for equipment and for operational procedure," he said. "When our equipment is fully tested and when our system is fully perfected, we will make them freely available to civilian commerce."

Airline's Financial Condition.

At another hearing, before the House Commerce Committee, William M. Burden, assistant Secretary of Commerce, said the civilian airlines are not able to finance modernization of the nation's airways system and it must be done by the Government.

In the interest of safety, Congress should not delay provision of adequate appropriations, he said in a statement. Burden is in charge of aviation affairs for the Commerce Department.

As things now stand, Burden said, the Government is making a profit on airmail while airlines' earnings in 1946 "were very low."

"Figures for the first nine months of 1946," he said, "showed a fall in earnings of almost $30,000,000 from $33,378,040 in 1945 to $4,186,026 in 1946, and it is probable that the domestic industry as a whole will show a loss for the entire year 1946. The idea of imposing charges for airways facilities under such conditions is obviously impossible."

Both the House and Senate committees are seeking the causes and cures of plane disasters in the hope of finding the basis for a long-range safety program.

Eaker Tells of Hazards.

Gen. Eaker told the Senate group that the Army's all-weather flights are round trips five days a week with aid of radar and other electronics equipment developed in the war.

Questioned about directing the bombardment and air attacks on German zones from England, Africa and Italy, Eaker said there is a vast difference between civil and airline operations.

"The military must accept safety factors which are much lower than the civil operators can afford

Appeals Court Holds Up Injunction That Might Scrap Industrial Program.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The United States Court of Appeals today granted a stay of a District Court ruling which OPA attorneys said might result in the scrapping of the entire industrial sugar rationing program.

The action of Chief Justice D. Lawrence Groner was announced by William R. Ming, associate OPA general counsel. Ming said a hearing on the agency's appeal of the lower court's ruling was set for Feb. 7.

The ruling holds that OPA's "historical use" system of rationing sugar to producers of sweetened condensed milk is illegal.

Judge F. Dickinson of the District Court earlier denied a defense motion for a stay of execution, saying: "It seems improper that I should authorize the invalid order to be used for any period of time."

While the ruling specifically applies to the rationing system used for allocating sugar to producers of sweetened condensed milk, Auerbach told the court the decision will "require complete abandonment of the present system of rationing sugar."

WHOLESALE EGG PRICES DROP

Butter, However, Goes Up on St. Louis Market.

Egg prices dropped 2 to 3 cents a dozen on today's St. Louis wholesale market. Extras were 40 cents; standards, 36, and current receipts, 35. Price of pullets' eggs remained unchanged at 28 cents a dozen.

Wholesale butter prices were up ½ to 1 cent a pound.

B-29 Grounded by Arrow.

ROSWELL, N.M., Jan. 28 (AP)—Capt. Chester H. Bohart, B-29 pilot at the Roswell Army airfield, said he thought the shooting was all over. Now he's not so sure. Taxiing toward the runway, Bohart noticed a tire going flat. Inside the tire mechanics found an Indian arrowhead.

SCHWELLENBACH ATTACKS BALL'S PROPOSAL TO BAR INDUSTRY-WIDE BARGAINING

MURRAY URGES CIO TO 'GO SLOW' ON NEW DEMANDS, TO 'REASSURE' PUBLIC

Asks Unions to Extend Contracts Where Time Is Needed for Study, to Promote 'Real Collective Bargaining.'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—CIO President Philip Murray disclosed today that he has asked all CIO unions to "go slow" on new contract demands to "reassure" the public and "promote real collective bargaining."

Murray said in an interview he had urged other CIO unions to follow his lead in the steel industry and grant contract extensions when more time is needed for discussion of wage and other issues.

He made it clear he hoped to allay some of the fears voiced in Congress and elsewhere concerning organized labor's bargaining methods.

"I would like to see industry and labor organizations take time to do some real constructive collective bargaining," Murray declared.

"If both sides participate in that type of collective bargaining it will lead to sound labor-management relations and to industrial peace.

"I hope that the action of the United Steel Workers of America in extending their agreement until April 30 furnishes ample opportunity to both sides to achieve that objective."

The CIO claims a membership of more than 6,000,000, mostly in the mass production industries. Last week Murray agreed to extend the steel industry contracts for 2½ months beyond their Feb. 15 expiration.

Murray came here from the Pittsburgh steel negotiations to attend a meeting of the advisory committee of the Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion. The committee plans a discussion of its pending study of the guaranteed wage plan and of the housing situation.

The guarantee wage plan is one of Murray's demands on the steel industry. The idea contemplates a pledge to workers that they will be paid for a certain number of weeks' work every year, whether the plant actually operates that length of time.

Murray Latimer, former chairman of the Federal Railroad Retirement Board, already has filed a preliminary report with the OWMR advisory committee indorsing the guaranteed wage principle. Latimer is about ready to submit a final report.

Murray, who heads the United Steel Workers as well as the CIO, said his union's demands on the steel industry contain no specific figures because these "are subject to bargaining." The union has asked for a "substantial" pay boost and a health and welfare fund to be administered jointly by union and management.

SOME OF STUDENTS EARNING MORE, SO TEACHER RESIGNS

Veteran Says Barbers, Brick-Layers and Painters Are Paid More Than He Was.

DALLAS, Tex., Jan. 28 (UP)—A Dallas high school teacher, R. R. Newson, resigned Monday because, he said, his salary would not meet the cost of living and is less than what many of his students are earning.

Having served four years in the Navy, Newson was teaching a social science course for veterans, receiving $250 monthly.

He said that his four years in college were "wasted . . . when I could earn more money as a shoe salesman, a barber, a brick-layer or a painter."

HENRY L. STIMSON REPORT ON 'THE DECISION TO USE ATOMIC BOMB' ON PAGE 1C

COMPLETE text of "The Decision to Use the Atomic Bomb," by former Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, begins on Page 1C. This important article, written for the February issue of Harper's Magazine, and by that magazine made available for general publication, constitutes a report to the nation by the President's senior adviser on the issues involved. "My chief purpose," Stimson writes, "was to end the war in victory with the least possible cost in lives of the men in the armies which I had helped raise."

MOVE IN HOUSE FOR INQUIRY INTO STATE DEPARTMENT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The House Foreign Affairs Committee today asked for sweeping powers to investigate American diplomatic policies and to study the international organizations in which this country takes part.

In its first action since the Republicans took control of Congress, the committee coupled with its formal request a pledge of co-operation with the Democratic administration "in the formulation and execution of a bi-partisan foreign policy."

A committee resolution asked the House for the right to:

1. Make a detailed study of the State Department, its organization, personnel and policies.
2. Review the execution of laws affecting the relations of the United States with foreign nations "generally."
3. Study the international organizations of which the United States is a member.
4. "Invite" Gen. George C. Marshall, the new Secretary of State, to "co-operate with the committee . . . and to furnish all necessary information as to the organization, the personnel and the policies of the Department of State and international agreements to which the United States is a party."

For its part, the committee promised tot keep secret such information it obtained if its publication would be "incompatible with the public interest."

Simultaneously, it suggested that other committees of the House be barred from similar investigations. The committee said, however, that it would invite "duly appointed subcommittees" from other House groups to sit in on any question within their jurisdiction.

Presumably, this would include representatives of the Appropriations Committee on the question of funds for diplomatic purposes, Judiciary Committee on immigration affairs, and Ways and Means Committee on foreign trade policies.

BRITISH BANKER AND JUDGE SET FREE BY JEWS

Underground Note Says Kidnapings Achieved Aim of Stopping Execution of Extremist.

JERUSALEM, Jan. 28 (AP)—A government source said tonight that Judge Ralph Windham of the Tel Aviv district court had told Tel Aviv police in a telephone message from Ramat Gan that he had been released by his abductors.

(The United Press said that H.A.I. Collins, a British banker in Jerusalem, had been released on the outskirts of Jerusalem and picked up by searching police cars. The U. P. quoted a government suorce as saying Collins was being questioned by police and Army intelligence officers.)

It was reported that Windham said: "I've been near a factory in Hamat Gan."

Meanwhile, police searched roads about Jerusalem for H. A. I. Collins, British banker abducted Sunday night. An announcement of the Jewish Agency which said the agency learned that Collins had been freed in the Jerusalem area was not confirmed by police.

Underground Note.

Earlier, a note delivered to Tel Aviv newspapers in the name of Irgun Zvai Leumi, a Jewish extremist group, had promised hostages against the execution of Irgunist Dov Gruner, would be released soon. British authorities yesterday stayed the execution, which had been scheduled for today.

The note was read to reporters by the Palestine government's public information office. It said the two abducted men were being released "not because of threats of the head of the occupation forces to impose martial law on the occupied territory, but because the practical aim has been achieved."

"Dov Gruner was not executed," it said. "If a crime will be committed against him or any other soldier (a term the underground uses in reference to its members), we shall not withdraw from any reaction which will prove to the subjugator that the price which they will have to pay for executing a Jewish warrior is too high."

U. S. SAFE FROM ATOMIC ATTACK 5 TO 10 YEARS, GEN. GROVES BELIEVES

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 28 (UP).

MAJ. GEN. LESLIE R. GROVES, who was in charge of Army development of the atomic bomb, said today the nation has a "breathing spell" of five to 10 years before it need fear attack by an enemy with the weapon.

"If I were asked to guarantee it I'd say five years," Gen. Groves said here. "If I were just plain betting, I'd say 10."

Gen. Groves, relieved of duties in connection with the atomic program when the civilian commission took over this year, is here for a physical checkup at Pratt General Hospital.

"What we are protecting is the know-how," he said, "the thousands and ten thousands of scientific and industrial secrets, and American methods of management. The big secret of the bomb was that it would go off—and that had to get out when it did go off."

EXPORTING MEAT ALLOWED; 115,000,000 LBS. FOR START

Five Pounds More Beef for Each Person in U. S. Is Outlook for 1947.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Meat exports, halted in the shortage last summer, will be permitted again.

The Department of Agriculture announced today it has allocated 115,000,000 pounds for commercial exports in the January-March period.

The United Kingdom and British services overseas were allocated 25,000,000 pounds, and France, French North Africa and French colonies, 23,000,000.

The Department of Agriculture predicted meat production in 1947 will total 23 billion pounds, or 150 pounds for each civilian after military requirements and exports.

Production last year totaled about 21,900,000,000, or a per capita civilian supply of 145 pounds. Output for the 1937-41 period averaged less than 18 billion, while the highest on record was 24,700,000,000 in 1944.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28 (UP)—San Francisco had its first snowfall since 1932 today. Rain and snow fell over Northern California in a moist interruption of an unusual winter drouth.

Missouri U. Magazine Jibe at Red Teaching Charge Ordered Deleted

COLUMBIA, Mo., Jan. 28 (UP)—The University of Missouri's monthly humor magazine, Showme, scheduled to appear on the campus today, will be delayed for several days because of an "objectionable" cartoon satirizing recent charges of Communistic teaching, directed at the school.

Decision to delete the cartoon and delay publication was made last night by Sigma Delta Chi, journalism fraternity, following a meeting with university officials.

Sy Weintraub, the magazine's business manager, announced his resignation in protest against the action. He said publication would be delayed at least a week.

The cartoon was displayed around the campus yesterday to promote sales. It depicted a university professor, resembling Joseph Stalin, speaking to students who also resembled the Russian premier.

Entitled "one man's interpretation of a government at the university," the cartoon was in answer to charges in Washington by a Missouri Congressman that Communism was being taught at the school.

TAFT SAYS UNIONS MUST HAVE MORE DEMOCRACY OR LOSE CLOSED SHOP

Cabinet Member Criticizes Most of Pending Labor Bills — Urges Senators to Back Truman's Study Plan.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach urged Senators today to approve President Truman's proposal for creation of a commission to study labor problems. He criticized most other pending bills designed to iron out labor-management troubles.

He told the Senate Labor Committee the trouble is that "the art of collective bargaining has been forgotten." Given a reasonable opportunity, management and labor can "re-learn" the process and work out their problems between themselves, he said.

Schwellenbach struck out directly at one bill introduced by Senator Ball (Rep.), Minnesota, to outlaw industry-wide collective bargaining. His prepared testimony took no notice of another Ball measure—one that would permit the firing of strikers. It was introduced only yesterday and drew from Senator Thomas (Dem.), Utah, the description "most reactionary."

Ball and Thomas are members of the Labor Committee.

Chairman Taft (Rep.), Ohio, after hearing Schellenbach vigorously oppose a bar on the closed shop, said the Congress must either outlaw the closed shop or take steps to insure "democracy in unions."

Taft said that in general he had been opposed to prohibiting the closed shop but was concerned because it gave unions "such tremendous power" over workers.

Taft said:

"I think we have this alternative: If we are going to have closed shops, we are going to have to insure more democracy in unions."

10 Points in Testimony.

Turning to the sheaf of legislation before the group, Schwellenbach in a statement:

1. Asserted that creation of a Mediation Board, either inside or outside the Department of Labor, would "impede industrial peace rather than further it."
2. Opposed abolition of the Labor Department's Conciliation Service.
3. Said it would be "a serious blow" to the Bureau of Labor Statistics to force it to make public all agreements and arbitration awards which have been obtained through the voluntary co-operation of employers.
4. Opposed elimination of the checkoff system of collecting union dues through payroll deductions. ("There is nothing immoral about it," Schwellenbach said.)
5. Asserted supervisory employes are entitled to organize and bargain collectively, provided they do not belong to the same union as production employes, or a union dominated by such a production employes' union.
6. Criticized the language of a proposal to make it easier to sue unions.
7. Urged that a provision to outlaw secondary boycotts be modified in line with Truman's recommendations (to exempt boycotts intended to protect wage rates and working conditions).
8. Asked for safeguards in a proposal requiring registration of labor organizations so as not to force creation of a new bureau in the Labor Department to handle them.
9. Said a substantial advance in industrial relations would be "destroyed" by enactment of legislation outlawing the closed shop, union shop and maintenance of union membership.
10. Opposed Ball's bill to bar industry-wide collective bargaining.

Cites His Experience.

Schwellenbach said the bill assumes that local unions and local membership would be less anxious to have a strike than the heads of international organizations and that individual employers would be less anxious to have a strike than a group of employers organized together.

"My experience of this last year and a half has convinced me that that simply is not so," Schwellenbach said.

"Despite the difficulties inherent for labor and management in relearning the free collective bargaining process," he said, "it may be asserted safely that that process is being relearned and that

TASS SAYS BRITAIN FAILS TO FULFILL SOVIET PACT, ACTS WITH U.S. AS BLOC

Russian News Agency Declares Anglo-American Ties Are So Close They Have Assumed Character of Alliance.

LONDON Jan. 28 (AP)—Tass, the official Russian news agency, urged Britain today to live up to the spirit of its treaty of alliance with the Soviet Union and criticized Britain's close ties with the United States.

"One cannot say that British policy toward the U.S.S.R. conforms to the principles and demands of the treaty of alliance," Tass said a few hours after Soviet Ambassador Georgi Zarubin held a long conference with Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin. They presumably discussed Prime Minister Stalin's complaints concerning "reservations which weaken" the 20-year friendship pact.

"Actually there are no few occasions when Britain and the United States have come out in a bloc against the Soviet Union," Tass asserted.

"Character of Alliance."

"Britain has not formally concluded a treaty of alliance with the United States; nevertheless no one can doubt the existence of intimate relations between Britain and the United States, which in fact have assumed the character of a military alliance.

"The time has come to stand by the spirit of the treaty, particularly by that part according to which both countries undertook to work jointly for the organization of the security and economic prosperity of Europe."

Tass called attention to a recent article in the Communist Daily Worker of London, which it quoted as saying that British-Soviet relations were in a "most unsatisfactory state" and that the friendship treaty, signed in 1942, "might just as well not exist for all the meaning it has at the present moment."

Soviet Pressure on Britain.

The Tass statements seemed to indicate there was to be no relaxing of the pressure on Britain which began when the Communist party newspaper Pravda interpreted a statement by Bevin that Britain "does not tie herself to anyone" as a repudaition of the treaty of alliance.

Bevin informed Russia that "it certainly is not my view" that the treaty was dead and Prime Minister Stalin concurred, but said that before it could be extended for 30 more years, as the British have urged, it would have to be pruned of what he termed "weakening reservations."

"It should be said in this connection," Tass commented, "that the problem of allied relations between Britain and the Soviet Union cannot be essentially solved by means of general arguments about prolonging the term of the Anglo-Soviet treaty."

Foreign Office sources said Bevin hardly would miss a chance to try and pin down specifically those "reservations" to which Stalin objects and that the subject probably was discussed during Zarubin's call at the Foreign Office yesterday. It was believed Stalin's suggestion also might have been taken up at a British Cabinet meeting today.

Reds Charge MacArthur Barred Russian Churchman from Japan.

MOSCOW, Jan. 28 (AP)—Tass news agency said today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's staff had refused a representative of the Moscow Patriarchy permission to enter Japan on invitation from a Russian Orthodox consistory and that such refusal was "an unfriendly act toward the Russian Orthodox church."

In a dispatch from Vladivostok, Tass said the Japanese consistory requested the Moscow Patriarch last March to nominate a bishop for Japan. It said MacArthur's staff had been asked for permission for a representative of the Patriarchy to enter Japan, and that request was denied early in January.

"It is not without interest to note that MacArthur's staff some time ago urgently asked for a bishop from the United States for the Orthodox church in Japan," Tass said.

"In order to give at least the appearance of consent to the Orthodox consistory in Japan to accepting an American bishop, MacArthur's staff assigned a special service officer to the consistory, under whose influence 'consent' was made official. Thus did MacArthur's staff dispose of the fate of Japanese Orthodox parishes."

SOVIET ENVOY DENIES HINTING AT RED ATOM BOMB DEFENSE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (UP)—Soviet Ambassador Nikolai V. Novikov today denied a report that he once hinted Russia had a defense against the atomic bomb and perhaps possessed the bomb, too. He made his denial after a 20-minute "courtesy" visit with Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

Novikov was asked by reporters about a statement by Drew Pearson, columnist, that Novikov had said to Robert Gros, a lecturer, "You Americans should not rely too much on the A-bomb. Against France, Italy, Germany, yes. But against Russia, no. You should not depend on it."

Novikov said his talk with Gros had been off-the-record and he did not understand how it had leaked to the press. He said the conversation as reported by Pearson included the "usual distortion by Mr. Pearson," adding, "I said nothing of the kind."

U. S. SAYS POLAND BROKE PLEDGE OF FREE ELECTIONS

State Department, in Statement Approved by Secretary Marshall, Charges 'Coercion and Intimidation.'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The United States today accused the Government of Poland of having "failed to carry out its solemn pledges" to hold free elections in the national voting on Jan. 19.

A statement issued by the State Department, with the personal approval of Secretary of State George C. Marshall, said the United States is not, however breaking relations with Poland at least for the time being. It said "while retaining full liberty of action to determine its future attitude toward the Government of Poland, this Government will continue to keep itself informed of developments in Poland through its diplomatic mission (Ambassador Bliss Lane and his staff) in Warsaw."

The statement accused the Polish provisional government of "widespread measures of coercion and intimidation against democratic elements."

The State Department recalled that it had sent Poland notes of protest against denials of political freedom on Aug. 19, Nov. 22, and Jan. 9. The British Government also protested, but the Soviet Government rejected an American proposal that it do likewise.

The State Department said today:

"The reports received from the United States Embassy in Poland in the period immediately prior to the elections as well as its subsequent reports based upon the observations of American officials who visited a number of Polish voting centers confirmed the fears which this government had expressed that the election would not be free.

"These reports were corroborated by the general tenor of the dispatches from foreign correspondents in Poland.

"It is clear that the provisional government did not confine itself to the suppression of the so-called 'underground' but employed widespread measures of coercion and intimidation against democratic elements which were loyal to Poland although not partisans of the Government 'bloc.' In these circumstances, the United States Government cannot consider that the provisions of the Yalta and Potsdam agreements have been fulfilled.

"The United States Government has made it clear that it has no desire to intervene in the internal affairs of Poland. By virtue of the responsibility which devolved upon it as one of the principal powers engaged in liberating the countries of Europe from Nazi occupation, it undertook together with the British and Soviet governments to secure for the long suffering Polish people the opportunity to select a government of their own choosing.

"It was in connection with this undertaking that this Government agreed to the decisions respecting Poland that were taken at the Yalta conference, including the decision to recognize the Polish provisional government of national unity.

"These decisions with respect to Poland, which were accepted by the Polish provisional government in their entirety, formed part of a series of agreements between the United States, British and Soviet governments. The United States Government considers that the Polish provisional government has failed to carry out its solemn pledges."

The results of the election—a sweeping victory for the Communist-dominated government coalition—are to be announced formally Jan. 31. The new government will take over some time after that.

LILIENTHAL LAYS ATOMIC LEAKS TO SCIENTISTS

as "wholly unwarranted" reports that the War Department feared that the commission would not properly safeguard United States atomic secrets.

"Changes in existing security arrangements incident to the transfer of control from the Army to the Atomic control Commission have not been made," Patterson said in a statement.

Urges Security Committee.

Lilienthal suggested that a four-or-five-man special committee be created to study how to achieve full security "in the light of American ways."

"We need something more effective than we have now," Lilienthal said. "It will not be good enough in the future."

Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan, then remarked: "You talk a little longer about this thing and I'll stop worrying about you and security."

Senator Eugene D. Millikin (Rep.), Colorado, asked Lilienthal if he was "concerned" over breaches of security through operation of foreign agents in this country.

Lilienthal said the subject was of "intense interest" to him but that he would prefer to discuss it in closed sessions.

Lilienthal assured the committee that civilians controlling the government's atomic energy program would attempt to keep no secrets from the Army or Navy. He said there would be no "closed doors or closed files" to the military.

Policy Not Enough.

Lilienthal said it would be impossible to achieve atomic security with a mere policy system and threat of punishment.

"It will take an awareness on the part of the American people of the importance of the issue," he declared.

Committee Chairman Bourke B. Hickenloofer (Rep.), Iowa, recalled that many reputable scientists had said the Smythe report contained "only well-known scientific generalities."

Patterson's statement was prompted by fears voiced by a high War Department source that United States atomic secrets might not be guarded properly by the civilian commission.

BIDDLE NAMED U.S. MEMBER ON U.N. ECONOMIC COUNCIL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27 (AP)—The White House announced today that President Truman is appointing former Attorney General Francis Biddle to represent the United States on the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations.

Biddle will replace John G. Winant, former ambassador to London, who recently resigned from the U.N. post.

Biddle recently served as United States member of the military tribunal which tried the Nazi war criminals at Nuernberg.

PUNJAB GOVERNMENT LIFTS BARS AGAINST MOSLEM MILITIA

LAHORE, Punjab, India, Jan. 28 (AP)—Punjab Government bars against the Moslem League National Guard and the Rashtriya Sewak Sangh, a Hindu youth organization, were lifted today.

The organizations had been declared illegal Friday, when seven Moslem League leaders were arrested for obstructing police in a search of the guard's headquarters.

The Government's action brought a wave of demonstrations in this predominantly Moslem province, during which hundreds of Moslems were jailed. The Government released the seven Moslem leaders Sunday night.

MAC ARTHUR SEIZES JAP APPROACHING HIM WITH PACKAGE

TOKYO, Jan. 28 (UP)—A Japanese carpenter who said he hoped to be shot as a martyr was seized by Gen. Douglas MacArthur Sunday when he rushed up and tried to hand him a package containing a wooden sword, it was disclosed today.

An official announcement said the man was seized by a member of MacArthur's honor guard as he approached the supreme commander outside the headquarters building. An eye-witness said MacArthur grabbed the man's arms and handed him over to the guard.

MacArthur ordered the military police to lecture the man, 58-year-old Ichijiro Adatchi, and release him. The general kept the sword, which he gave to his son Arthur.

A letter attached to the sword said, "I am determined to commit suicide by a shot from the rifle of a United States soldier while making a show of molesting him (an American soldier). I have no intention of committing any crime.

"The Japanese are in a miserable condition, living in dugouts and shacks as the result of the unexpected defeat in the war. I worry for them and wish to petition aid from the United States for these unfortunate people.

"Gen. MacArthur and Americans, I intend to die without fear. . . . I have one child, 19. . . . Please, MacArthur, take him in your care, employ him in any capacity, even as a messenger or janitor."

COMMUNISTS CLAIM VICTORY IN SAO PAULO ELECTIONS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Communist party today claimed a victory in the governorship race in Sao Paulo, Brazil's richest province, where the Progressive party candidate, Ademar Barros, indorsed by the Communists, led the field. Barros announced last week he owed no debt to any political party.

Latest returns in the Jan. 19 elections in the state gave Barros 373,702 voes; Hugo Borghi, candidate of the Laborites headed by former President Getulio Vargas, 324,969; Mario Tavares, administration candidate, 256,665, and Almeida Prado, candidate of the Government's opposition, 84,382.

The Communist newspaper Tribuna claimed victory also in the race for both Senate seats in the state, one for the Communist painter, Candido Portinari, the other for the Progressive candidate, indorsed by the Communists, Euclid Viera.

YUGOSLAV CHARGE THAT U.S. BROKE REPARATIONS PACT

Claims to German Assets Relinquished to Austria, Big Four Deputies Are Told.

LONDON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Yugoslavia accused the United States today of a "flagrant violation" of the 1946 Paris agreement on reparations from Germany.

Mladen Ivekovic, spokesman for the Moscow-favored government of Marshal Josip (Tito) Broz, made the charge in an address to the Big Four foreign ministers' deputies who are laying the groundwork for the German and Austrian peace treaties.

"The U.S.A. abandoned their claims to German assets (in Austria) to the Austrian Government," Ivekovic said, although the Paris pact provided that Allied nations "can relinquish their claims only in favor of the other" allies. He termed the American action, "untenable — juridically morally and politically" and said it could mean that Austria was receiving German reparations "as a reward for her role in the war."

He said Yugoslavia was grievously dissatisfied with the current rate of reparations payments. He called for final determination of the permitted level of German industry. He said Yugoslavia lost $9,100,000,000 in national wealth during the war and that this was 17 per cent of the total losses of the 18 member nations of the inter-Allied reparations agency. He estimated Yugoslavia had received only .04 per cent of losses suffered in the war.

Opposition to Russian Plan.

Earlier, representatives of Brazil and Australia asserted Russia's plan for writing a German treaty would lead to a "big power" peace. The Russian proposal, circulated yesterday by Delegate Feodor Gousev, calls for the Big Four to draft the treaty, submit it to an international peace conference for suggestions and then write the final text.

Spokesmen for Australia and Brazil asserted the plan would defeat their request for full participation in the peace making. The request had support from Britain, France and the United States.

Informed sources said United States Delegate Robert Murphy would ask for amplification of the Russian proposal. They said he would be as much concerned with Gousev's references to a "German state" as with the plan's de-emphasis on small power participation.

Gousev had proposed that the treaty be ratified by "the German state." Murphy wanted to know whether this meant ratification by the German people through a plebiscite or merely approval by the future German government.

Request by Dutch.

The Dutch asked the deputies that they specifically be permitted to discuss Dutch-German border revisions.

Deputies drafting an Austrian treaty received a Czechoslovak Government memorandum asking that the Czechs be permitted to negotiate directly with Austria on relatively minor frontier problems.

Helsinki dispatches said the Finnish Parliament yesterday accepted the Allied peace treaty with Finland without formal ballot yesterday. Many speakers complained that the terms were hard, but expressed hope of future modifications.

SPECIAL U.S. STAFF PREPARING DEFENSE FOR A 'SUPER BLITZ'

Eisenhower Discloses Army Unit to Keep Abreast of Scientific Advances.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower disclosed yesterday that the War Department has a special staff whose sole responsibility is to prepare for a possible "super blitz" against the United States in event of another war.

The Army chief of staff, addressing the Women's National Press Club, said this staff is deemed a necessary part of American preparedness until there is international security.

He said this staff "goes only to one group for its information—the scientists."

Its responsibility is to keep up with developments concerning guided missiles and other scientific applications of warfare.

M'CLOY DENIES REPORT HE HAS AGREED TO HEAD WORLD BANK

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder held a round of private conferences here today, amid reports of an accelerated search for a United States president for the 10 billion dollar International Bank.

John J. McCloy, New York lawyer and former assistant secretary of war, told newspapermen that published reports that he had agreed to accept the $30,000-a-year tax-free job were "not accurate."

There has been discussion of possible changes in the bank's rules of procedure. If such changes were made, it was considered possible that McCloy and others who have turned down "feelers" for the job might reconsider their decisions.

Emilio G. Collado, a member of the executive directorate, has been acting as temporary president of the bank since the death last week of Harold D. Smith, vice president.

EVATT OF AUSTRALIA HEADS SOUTH PACIFIC CONFERENCE

CANBERRA, Jan. 28 (AP)—Australian Minister of External Affairs Herbert V. Evatt was elected president of the South Pacific regional conference today as 40 delegates representing six nations convened to discuss the advancement of natives of dependent territories.

Evatt was chosen on motion of Robert Butler, United States Ambassador to Australia and chief American delegate, after Australian Prime Minister J. B. Chifley had formally opened the conference.

Walter Nash, Deputy Prime Minister of New Zealand, was named vice president. He said the conference hopes "to end gradually for all time the exploitation of native peoples of the South Pacific for the benefit of outsiders." Other nations represented are the United Kingdom, France and The Netherlands.

PLAN FOR BURMA FREEDOM ANNOUNCED BY BRITAIN

Attlee Says Land May Quit Empire if It Wishes—'Dismal Transaction,' Churchill Remarks.

LONDON, Jan. 28 (UP)—Prime Minister Clement Attlee told the House of Commons today that Burma had been given a choice of staying in or getting out of the British Commonwealth of Nations, an announcement which Winston Churchill termed "a dismal transaction."

Attlee said Britain had agreed that Burma should have independence as soon as possible. He said it was for the Burmese to decide whether to remain in the commonwealth.

Britain's loans to repair war damage and otherwise finance the transition period will continue, Attlee said.

"First we pay and then we go," Churchill observed.

"The right honorable gentleman's logical faculty seems to have deserted him," Attlee replied. "There is no decision here to go. There is no decision to pay for the future. There are interim payments in the form of loans. It really cannot be reduced down to a proposition which is entirely inaccurate."

Lord Pethwick-Lawrence, Secretary of State for India and Burma, told the House of Lords that an interim Burma government, similar to that established fer India, would administer affairs during the transitory period for 17,000,000 people of Burma.

He announced that an accord on plans for Burma's independence had been reached with Burmese nationalist leaders who have been in London two weeks for discussions.

An election is to be held in April to choose a constituent assembly which will draft a constitution.

The interim government of Burma, composed of a native executive council and a British governor, "will have the greatest possible freedom in exercise of day-to-day administration of the country," a British white paper said.

Immediate control of all Burmese armed forces was granted to the Burmese government. Britain agreed in principle that Burma should control its own finances during the interim period. The question of retention or use of British forces in Burma will be decided by the two nations after the constituion becomes effective.

The white paper announced that Britain would support a Burmese application for United Nations membership and, meanwhile, would "explore with the (U.N.) secretary-general how far it is possible for Burma to be represented at any meetings of, or under the auspices of, the United Nations organization."

SALE OF GREENLAND TO U.S. REPORTED BEING DISCUSSED

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 28 (AP)—The political commentator of the newspaper Ekstrabladet said today talks had been under way in Copenhagen for several months between "interested Danish and American parties" concerning the possibility of sale of Greenland.

The article said the Danes had mentioned one billion dollars "without frightening the Americans."

Greenland, separated from Canada by Baffin bay, has an area of 736,518 square miles, of which 704,234 square miles is icecap. An agreement relating to the defense of Greenland signed April 9, 1941, gave the United States the right to construct air, radio and meteorological installations there, but explicitly recognized the sovereign rights of Denmark.

KANSAS TO VOTE ON DRY LAW

TOPEKA, Kan., Jan. 28 (UP)—The Kansas Senate today voted 35 to 4 to submit state prohibition to a vote of the people, completing legislative action on the proposal. Gov. Frank Carlson had indicated previously that the vote would be taken in connection with the 1948 general election.

BILL WOULD OUTLAW LEASES IN STATE BARRING CHILDREN

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 28—Statutory protection for tenants against landlords who try to bar children is proposed in a bill offered in the House this afternoon by Representatives Orlie F. Underwood and Edgar B. Boedeker, both of St. Louis county.

Their bill would make it a misdemeanor for an owner or agent for any building used as a dwelling to include in a lease any clause requiring that tenants "shall remain childless or shall not bear children" during the period of the lease.

U.S. ARMY IN EUROPE EXPECTS CUT TO 155,000 MEN BY JULY

FRANKFURT, Germany, Jan. 28 (AP)—The United States Army expects to be down to its permanent occupation strength of 155,000 ground and air force personnel in Europe by July 1, it was announced yesterday.

At present there are 143,000 ground force and 38,000 air force troops in the theater, along with 11,500 American civilians.

ST. LOUISAN URGES AGAINST REDUCING CHEMICAL TARIFF

Francis J. Curtis Before Government Committee, Cites Red Seizures in Reich.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The American chemical industry "must not be forced by tariff reduction to compete with foreign governments," Francis J. Curtis, vice president of the Monsanto Chemical Co. of St. Louis, said today.

Curtis testified before a Government committee that nearly half of the plants of the I. G. Farbenindustrie now are in the Russian zone of Germany, that many of them were greatly enlarged during the war and that most of them suffered less bombing than plants in other zones.

"We conclude the Russians control a modern chemical industry in their zone that is approximately as large as Germany's prewar capacity. From all we hear, Russia's political policies prevent international economic cooperation," he said.

Curtis said Russia could supply all its own needs and its excess production "could be exported to this country under pricing dictated solely by financial and political expediency."

John G. Lerch, attorney for the Synthetic Organic Chemical Manufacturers Association, told the committee:

"Even a small rate (tariff) reduction could put out of business some of the suppliers of chemicals and turn them over to foreign suppliers.

"If you make us dependent upon the foreign supply for any one of te basic chemicals by reducing the rates, then where are we in times of national emergency? . . .

"When the Second World War came along, we had developed the industry to such a degree that we could supply our country with practically all we needed—in fact it put the industry in such shape that the United States could develop the atom bomb before the rest of the world."

P. K. Lawrence, representing E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Co., Wilmington, Del., argued that the chemical industry is so interdependent that lowering the tariff on one item could—by permitting foreign producers to control it—greatly injure the American industry.

Analysis of New Jersey Law Conferring Power on Governor to Cope With Utility Labor Disputes

Negotiation Period, Fact-Finding, Public Hearing on Recommendations Provided — If These Fail, State Can Seize and Operate Plants.

By ARTHUR W. HEPNER
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
(SECOND OF A SERIES.)

TRENTON, N.J.

NEW JERSEY'S law conferring on the Governor emergency powers to cope with strikes in public utilities was passed last March against a background of events resembling the threatened bus and streetcar strike in St. Louis last New Year's eve.

It was advocated by Walter E. Edge, who retired last week as Governor, to meet strike threats against gas and electric plants. Passage followed an assertion by Gov. Edge that "there is no right at any time to strike against the security, welfare and lives of the people—and heat, light, power, transportation and food are the life essentials of the people."

The measure, limited to public utilities, authorizes the Governor to seize and operate plants and facilities, if necessary, to prevent a strike. As is known, Gov. Phil M. Donnelly on Jan. 8 recommended similar legislation to the Missouri General Assembly.

In an interview with the Post-Dispatch shortly before his retirement, Gov. Edge said he urged the New Jersey legislation because public interest demands that the people be protected against any interruption of essential services. Many unions having contracts with the Public Service Co., which controls 80 per cent of the state's gas and electric distribution, he explained, had filed 30-day strike notices as provided by the Smith-Connally Labor Disputes Act. They declared intentions of walking out at the end of the 30-day period unless they obtained satisfactory wage increases and improvements in working conditions. (Bus and streetcar operators by a narrow margin called off a strike set for midnight New Year's eve in St. Louis an hour and a half before the deadline.)

Setting of Interview.

The interview took place in the large, paneled gubernatorial office on the street floor of the state house in a setting of Revolutionary War memories and mementos. Behind the state house flows the Delaware river which Washington crossed to surprise the Hessians. On the walls of the office and its ante-room hung portraits of Gov. Edge's predecessors, many of them dating back to the infant-days of this nation. Numbers of them had set legislative precedents for other states.

Pausing frequently to light a pipe which he puffed at steadily, Gov. Edge spoke directly about his philosophy of keeping an even flow of essential services. "No worker is forced to enter this type of employment," he said. "If he does accept a position with a public utility, which is a state franchise, he must recognize state control. It should be perfectly clear that his right to strike is not an absolute right because the exercise of it would bring hardship upon his fellow-citizens."

The law passed at Gov. Edge's insistence was the first of its kind in the United States. At the outset it stipulates: "It is hereby declared to be the policy of the State that heat, light, power, sanitation, transportation, communication, and water are life essentials of the people; that the possibility of labor strife in utilities operating under such governmental franchise is a threat to the welfare and health of the people; that utilities operating under such franchise are clothed with public interest, and the State's regulation of the labor relations affecting such public utilities is necessary in the public interest."

Following this preamble, the law recognizes the right to bargain collectively and sets up elaborate machinery to keep industrial peace in public utilities. It vouchsafes the right of employes to select their own unions. But, owing to the public interest in these industries, it requires negotiations to take place before a show window through which the public can look in.

Public is Alerted.

Contracts between utilities and unions, the law states, must be made for at least one year. They will then continue in force from year to year unless either party desires to change them. In that case, the party desiring a change must notify the other at least 60 days before the termination date of the nature of the modifications. It must also file a copy of the notice together with the demands with the State Mediation Board, the agency which keeps vigil over the negotiations for the state. The filing alerts the public by calling attention to the fact that negotiations will take place.

Union and management are given 60 days to bargain by themselves. They may seek mediation or conciliation assistance from the State Mediation Board, but they must make the solicitation. If by the end of the 60-day period the union and the utility fail either to reach a new agreement or to refer the disputed issues to arbitration, the Mediation Board moves in. It requires the parties each to name within five days representatives to a tri-partite panel, and it aids in selection of a third panel member, representing the public.

Provision to Get Facts.

The law specifies that, should either union or management fail to nominate its panel member within the appointed time, the State Mediation Board shall designate one, guaranteeing, however, that the panel shall be composed equally of representatives of labor, management and public. Within 15 days after the panel has been composed, the panel members must schedule a public hearing on the unsettled issues. Not more than five days after the end of the hearing, the panel must report with recommendations to the Governor. In effect, the panel becomes a fact-finding agency and its conclusions are made public.

"Should either the utility or its employes refuse to accept and abide by the recommendations made," the law declares, "and as a result thereof the effective operation of a public utility be threatened or interrupted, or should either party . . . engage in any strike, work stoppage or lock-out which, in the opinion of the Governor, will result in the failure to continue the operation of the public utility, and threatens the public interest, health and welfare . . . (the Governor) is authorized to take immediate possession of the plant, equipment or facility for use and operation by the State of New Jersey in the public interest."

The law goes on to say that the Governor may exercise his seizure power through any department or agency he chooses to designate after investigation and proclamation that a threatened or actual interruption exists. This section concludes with a provision that seized plants or facilities must be returned to their owners after the labor dispute has been compromised.

About Arbitration.

When requesting this legislation, Gov. Edge told the Legislature on Jan. 8, 1946: "Without attempting to lay down a hard and fast policy, I suggest the Legislature give consideration to the merits of establishing so-called 'cooling off periods.' Also, compulsory arbitration may well be the only solution for some critical labor disputes directly affecting public interest." However, he emphasized to the Post-Dispatch that he recognized the impossibility of compelling a man to work against his will.

Defending his law before officials of the United States Chamber of Commerce last April, Gov. Edge explained the Legislature proceeded on the belief that public criticism would compel a resumption of service "if the necessities of life were denied." Recently, however, in a farewell address to the Legislature, he found himself forced by experience, he said, to ask for the addition of penalties to the law.

Gov. Edge made two main points in his farewell delivered Jan. 14. First, he asked for, without defining them, penalties against utilities workers who defied the state. Second, he espoused the view expressed last May by Harold Stassen, former Minnesota governor, in the Post-Dispatch. This was that, if the state must engage substitute workers to take places of those refusing to obey orders to remain at work for the state, "such substitutes can in no way be placed in the category of strikebreakers. On the contrary," he added, "they will be patriotic citizens who, in contrast to the strikers, recognize the hardships which might otherwise occur."

Subsequently, Gov. Edge told the Post-Dispatch that suitable penalties might include loss of seniority or discharge. The alternative to this law, he said, would be municipal ownership. But he hastily added he was "unalterably opposed to the state or municipality conducting a business that can be administered by private capital. Therefore, as long as it is our policy to permit private corporations to own and administer utility plants, I emphasize the need for state assurance that service will continue without interruption." Over and over, Gov. Edge repeated the point that, along with regulation of public utilities' managements by the state, there had to be controls over public utilities' workers.

His successor, Alfred E. Driscoll, who was inaugurated last week, indicated he will follow the same path. Both are Republicans. Although the broad labor relations program outlined in his inaugural address covers more territory than Gov. Edge's messages, Gov. Driscoll said succinctly: "There can be no legitimate strike which imperils the public health, the public safety and the general welfare of the community." He specifically asked for strengthening of the bargaining law in public utilities along the lines of the National Railway Labor Act "with such further safeguards and sanctions as experience has suggested." The right to strike in public utilities, he declared, may not be exercised while steps toward settlement of disputes are under way or "at any time against the state."

Gov. Edge said he was confident the law could work in Missouri as well as it had in New Jersey, provided it was written according to a similar prescription. Other chief executives of states, he said, had expressed tremendous interest in it. Former Gov. Frank J. Lausche of Ohio telephoned one night to request an immediate dispatch of a copy of the law. Gov. Donnelly has not made any inquiries about it, Gov. Edge said.

Auto Fenced in, Held for Damages

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

Lowell Horn's Packard convertible penned in the yard in the rear of William A. Shriner's home, 4054 Lincoln avenue. Shriner's sons nailed up the fence, after Horn crashed through it and damaged his porch, to make certain that Horn would pay the damages.

TEACHING BROTHER HOW TO DRIVE, HE SMASHES PORCH

Youth Agrees to Pay for Damages, Hopes to Get Auto Back Tonight.

Lowell Horn, 19-year-old inspector in a carburetor plant, hopes to recover his cream-colored Packard convertible club coupe tonight.

Last Sunday, he was teaching his brother, Leonard, 14, how to drive. Leonard was sitting in his lap as they drove down an alley in back of their home, 4016 Lincoln avenue. Suddenly a brake locked on one wheel. They drove through a fence and crashed into the glass-inclosed rear porch at the home of William A. Shriner, 4054 Lincoln.

The Shriners had just finished their Sunday dinner in the kitchen when they heard the small porch rip apart. Part of the porch roof fell on the automobile, effectively holding it there. The Horn brothers climbed out unhurt.

To make certain that Lowell Horn pays for the damages, which he estimated at $200, Shriner held the convertible. It sat on the porch until last night when Horn agreed to pay for damages to the porch and fence. Then the porch roof was lifted by Shriner's sons and the automobile rolled into the yard. The broken fence was nailed up and the car penned in. If Horn pays the bills tonight, he'll be permitted to drive out the gate, one of the Shriners said.

Horn said he bought the 1941-model automobile two weeks ago for $1500 and still owes about $800 on it to the Empire Finance Co. They'll pay the damages on the automobile, he said, confidently.

CARL J. REINECKE SAYS WIFE MADE HIM SCRUB FLOOR

Nine turbulent years of married life were described by Carl J. Reinecke, lumber firm head, at a hearing in his divorce suit against his wife, Elizabeth, in Circuit Judge James F. Nangle's court yesterday.

Reinecke, who now lives at the Missouri Athletic Club, testified to such indignities as being made to scrub the kitchen floor on Saturdays and being struck on the head with a bronze book end in a quarrel with his wife over a radio program. He said he asked her to get a divorce but she refused, saying she "had a good meal ticket" and was not going to give it up.

The Reineckes, each 59 years old, were married in 1908 and have two grown daughters. He filed divorce suits twice previously, but both were dismissed following reconciliations, when she "promised to do better," he testified. She frequently accused him of intimacies with other women, he said, and filed breach of promise suits against two of them, one of which still is pending.

Reinecke, a former president of the Executives' Club, Midtown Lions Club and Downtown Kiwanis Club, testified under cross-examination that he earns about $30,000 a year. Mrs. Reinecke has lived at the family home, 851 Warder avenue, University City, since their latest separation in November 1944.

$300 BAR ROBBERY REPORTED

Frank Krals, proprietor of a tavern at 2768 Caroline street, reported the tavern safe was robbed of $300 last night by a burglar who entered in an undetermined manner and obtained the combination from a cash register. Police said entrance apparently was gained by a duplicate key.

MUSIC SCHOOLS ANNUAL REPORT SUNG AT LUNCHEON

Teachers, Pupils, Friends, Tune Words to Music of Operettas.

The annual reports of the directors of the Community Music Schools, Inc., were given an unusual twist when they were "sung" today instead of spoken. The reports were made at a luncheon meeting of teachers, pupils and friends of the schools at Bishop Tuttle Memorial, 1210 Locust street. The music chosen was from the Gilbert and Sullivan operettas. Special words were written for the occasion.

The "treasurer's song," sung to the tune of "When I Was a Lad," told, in words by Mrs. Harry Milton, 30 Lake Forest, Richmond Heights, who wrote all the lyrics, why the Schools "Have a future in financial solvency." Wilder Lucas, an attorney, "sang."

Mrs. John P. Meyer of Huntleigh Village sang the president's report, to the lilting melody of "Little Buttercup." Miss Mabel Henderson of 761 Belt avenue sang the director's song, to the comic strains of "I'm a Model of a Major General." Mrs. Harry Farbman accompanied at the piano. Seventeen-year-old Wilbert Smith of 2220 McCausland avenue play a movement from a Grieg sonata for piano as an example of the work the school does.

MAN FOUND HANGED IN HOME

The body of Louis Joseph Widenchek, an oiler, was found early today hanging in a closet of his home, 1035 (rear) Tillie avenue. He was 44 years old.

Ralph Widenchek told police his brother had been under treatment for a nervous condition and had returned home only two weeks ago from a veterans' hospital, where he had been treated after taking poison.

JANUARY'S MILD SPREE ABOUT OVER; NEAR-FREEZING DUE

Much colder weather by tomorrow night was predicted for St. Louis. The temperature will be near freezing by tomorrow morning, Meteorologist Harry F. Wahlgren said today.

Although expecting nothing like the 70 degrees below zero recorded this morning at Snag, in the Yukon Territory, Wahlgren said the mild January weather was about over in St. Louis. Occasional rain or snow was expected to accompany the drop in temperature.

Yesterday's high temperature was 62 degrees at 3:45 p.m., eight degrees below the record high for the date, set in 1944. Coldest spot in the United States this morning was Pembina, N. D., where the thermometer stood at 18 below.

HEARING ON ZONING, PLANNING BILL TO BE HELD FEB. 10

Plan for Public Discussion Announced by Aldermanic Legislation Body.

A public hearing on the comprehensive zoning and planning bill, which woul dimplement the recently-prepared master plan for St. Louis' development, will be held by the Aldermanic Legislation Committee Feb. 10 at 2 p.m.

The bill was referred to the committee by the Board of Aldermen last Friday. There was no discussion of the measure itself at a committee meeting today at which the public hearing was set.

A number of civic organizations have approved the bill, which would give official status to the master plan and modernize zoning restrictions.

BENEFITS CHECKS OF ARMY TO BE MAILED ON SATURDAY

More than a million and a half benefits checks, totaling about $60,000,000, will be mailed next Saturday from the Army Finance Center, 4300 Goodfellow boulevard, in the first full-scale operation of its kind here since the move from Newark, N.J., was completed.

Machines now installed at the center will write the checks at a rate of 150 a minute, and sign 300 checks a minute. The greatest volume of the month's output will be turned out next Friday, the last day of the month.

The large operation will be handled by the disbursal section under Lt. Col. Stilson H. Smith. About half the total volume of checks for veterans and soldiers' dependents was processed here last month, before the last of the intricate machines and key personnel had been transferred to St. Louis.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS FIRST IN 1946 IN CALF RECEIPTS

National Stockyards, on the East Side, was first among all markets last year in total receipts of calves, second in horses and mules, fourth in hogs and fifth in cattle, the Producers Live Stock Commission Association reported today.

Of 67 markets reporting to the Department of Agriculture, the stockyards here were fifth in total receipts, the position held in 1945. Arrivals totaled 4,725,079 head, a drop of 1.8 per cent from the previous year. Chicago reported a 10 per cent drop and Kansas City a drop of 4.2 per cent.

TIME TOO SHORT FOR APRIL 1 VOTE ON DAYLIGHT TIME

Assistant City Counselor Says New Initiative Proposal Could Not Get on Ballot.

The question of repealing daylight saving time will not be on the ballot at the April 1 election because not enough time remains to obtain necessary signatures on new initiative petitions, Frank Neun, assistant city counselor, said today.

Under charter provisions, several waiting periods are required after petitions have been certified, Neun pointed out. Petitions asking for daylight saving repeal, circulated by motion picture theater owners, lacked 2485 signatures of having 5 per cent of the registered voters. If the number of valid signatures had been sufficient, the question would have been voted on at the next regular election, April 1.

To hold a special election on the question, 7 per cent of the registered voters must sign initiative petitions. The signatures must be obtained by Feb. 14 because the original petition for the election was filed 20 days before that date.

The next regular election, at which a vote could be taken on daylight saving, will be the August 1948 primary.

LEE W. TURNER WILL ANSWER TAX INDICTMENT MARCH 15

Lee W. Turner, former Egan gangster, will appear March 15 to answer to an indictment by a federal grand jury on three charges of income tax evasion, it was announced today.

The appearance date was fixed by United States District Judge George H. Moore at the request of George C. Dyer, who entered his appearance as attorney of record for Turner today. Dyer said he wanted time to study an accounting report of his client's books and records before entering a plea for Turner.

Turner, a dealer in juke boxes and other coin machines, was named Jan. 17 in a suppressed indictment, charging that the tax due on his income for 1942-43-44, based on his income reports, was $28,060 less than the actual amount. The indictment was suppressed until yesterday, on recommendation of United States Attorney Harry C. Blanton, who reported that Turner feared for his life if certain facts in the case were revealed to his associates.

MAYOR TO GET PINE STREET MERCHANTS' PLEA TOMORROW

A delegation of Pine street business men will call on Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann at 11:30 o'clock tomorrow morning to present a petition for repeal of the ordinance, lately placed in effect, making Pine a one-way street westbound. The complainants, proprietors of retail establishments and eating places, will tell the Mayor that their business has been impaired by the prohibition of eastbound traffic on the street.

A bill for repeal of the one-way ordinance is being prepared by the City Law Department at the request of Alderman Jasper C. Caston of the Sixth Ward. It will be introduced in the Board of Aldermen Friday.

Motorists and city traffic authorities have reported favorably on the working of the one-way plan on Pine, which was supplemented by making Chestnut-Lawton an eastbound thoroughfare except in the afternoon rush period. The plan was worked out by the Mayor's traffic committee, of which David R. Calhoun Jr. is chairman.

transportation, education and art."

A 20-point program outlined for his campaign included slum clearance, provisions for veterans' housing, adoption of a master plan and improved mass transportation.

Illustrating his pride in St. Louis, Mr. Schweitzer last Saturday personally escorted four visiting aldermen from Milwaukee on a tour of the city. He was Acting Mayor last week, due to the absence from the city of Mayor Kaufmann.

The vacancy resulting from Mr. Schweitzer's death would normally be filled by Aldermanic Vice President Walter H. Boehne, Tenth Ward. Boehne told the Post-Dispatch today that personal business made it uncertain that he could accept the post, and he may suggest that the Aldermen elect a vice president pending the April election. Alderman J. Roy Weinbrenner, Twenty-eighth Ward, was mentioned prominently today as a candidate for president of the board. No other Republican, besides Mr. Schweitzer, has filed for nomination for President of the Board of Aldermen in the city primary March 7. Filings close Feb. 24.

Mr. Schweitzer was a member of the Kiel Auditorium Commission and was on the commission that built the World War Soldiers' Memorial. He was Eighth Ward Republican precinct captain and formerly was vice president of the Fourteenth Ward Republican Club. He was a member of the St. Louis, Missouri and American Bar Associations, Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion.

Surviving Mr. Schweitzer are his wife, Mrs. Eleanor Schweitzer; three sons, Albert L. Jr., James M. and John K.; and a daughter, Gail Janet Schweitzer. Funeral services will be held Thursday at 8:30 a.m. from the Kriegshauser undertaking establishment, 4228 South Kingshighway, to the Church of the Immaculate Conception, 1701 Longfellow place. Interment will be in Calvary Mausoleum.

3 POISONED CHILDREN UNDER TREATMENT

Taken to Hospital After Swallowing Harmful Substances by Accident.

Three small children were under treatment at City Hospital today for poisoning which resulted from swallowing harmful substances in homes yesterday and last night.

Michael, 22-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Milford Ball, [illegible] Union boulevard, became ill after eating a quantity of roach poison which he found in a closet in his home.

Janis Ann, 15-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Jones, 2608A South Seventh boulevard, was taken to the hospital after drinking a quantity of coal oil which she found under the kitchen sink at her home.

Sandra Compton, [illegible] years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Compton, 2715 South Seventh, became ill after playing with a box of roach poison at the home of a neighbor.

TWO EAST SIDE POLITICIANS' RIGHT TO VOTE CHALLENGED

The legality of [illegible] registrations of [illegible] former Street Commissioner East St. Louis and [illegible] Russell W. Wright was challenged today by candidates of the Veterans' Political Association on grounds that [illegible] lost their voting rights when [illegible] ty of a federal conviction in 1933.

In a petition filed with the East St. Louis Board of Election Commissioners, the veterans state that Dougherty and Wright were convicted of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws and were fined $200 each in United States District Court in St. Louis on May 2, 1933. As a result neither is a qualified voter under Illinois election laws, the petition asserts.

Dennis Cochran, attorney for the Veterans' Political Association, said Dougherty and Wright entered pleas of nolo contendere to the conspiracy charge. Cochran said he would ask a board of a presidential pardon [illegible] toration of voting rights for Dougherty or Wright. Veterans candidates filing [illegible] were Norbert R. [illegible] for Mayor in the [illegible] mary Feb. 11, and W. [illegible] and Alvin G. Smith, candidates for City Commissioner. [illegible] erty resigned as City Comptroller last July, and is not a candidate.

ARRESTED FOR BEATING SON

James W. Chinchen, restaurant owner, was arrested yesterday after his wife, Juanita, complained to police that he had beaten their son, William, 7 years old, with a leather belt.

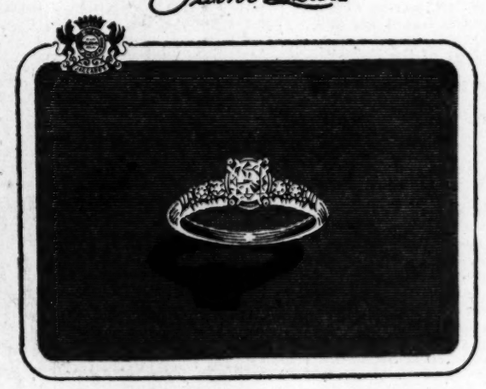

Police took the boy to City Hospital where he was treated for bruises of the back and both arms and returned to his home, 1525 Bacon street. Chinchen, charged with peace disturbance, said he had lost his temper when the boy quarreled with his younger sister Sunday.

SCHWELLENBACH OPPOSES MOST OF LABOR BILLS

the number of stoppages in 1947 will be drastically reduced from the number that occurred in 1946.

"As we entered the new year 1947, work stoppages were at the lowest since V-J day. Not only was the number of strikes less than at any previous postwar period but workers involved and idleness were also well below the early months of 1946 when reconversion problems resulted in widespread labor-management controversies."

Differences on Checkoff.

Schwellenbach and Senator Pepper (Dem.), Florida, took issue with Ball on his contention the union dues checkoff system should be outlawed.

One of the pending measures in Congress, a bill sponsored by Senators Ball, Taft and Smith (Rep.), New Jersey, would rule out the checkoff system under which union dues of workers are deducted from their pay.

"I just can't see anything wrong with the checkoff system" Schwellenbach said.

"If a man belongs to a union, I see no objection to collection of his dues."

Ball contended a worker should have "final control of the wage he earns." He said the checkoff embraced the same principal as deducting a worker's grocery bill from his pay.

Pepper said it should be assumed that dues deduction "is made under a collective bargaining agreement." He said this means employes "act through their chosen representatives and should be bound by their decision."

Provision of New Bill.

One provision of Ball's new bill would authorize the firing of strikers if they turned down an employer's back-to-work offer.

Ball said after introducing the bill that this means any offer to restore a worker to substantially the same job he left.

The penalty for rejecting such an offer would be loss of rights under the Wagner Act, particularly the right of re-employment.

That right, Senator Thomas told a reporter, would be "destroyed" by the Ball amendment.

Terming the proposal "very bad," Thomas said it "makes it possible to employ strikebreakers." He said it would set labor-management relations back 12 years "to the period before the Wagner Act."

Ball defended the measure as one which "puts the brake on hair-trigger strikes and puts some risks back in strikes for both employes and unions."

He said that at present employers are "over the barrel" because they have no way "to beat a strike." He asserted that his proposal "simply gives employers a chance to organize a back-to-work movement."

Ball said that under his amendment an employer could make an offer at any time, even immediately after a strike is called, and workers would have to accept or lose their rights.

Ball's bill would shift to the Department of Justice all enforcement and prosecution activities now carried on by the National Labor Relations Board.

Would Bar Certain Strikes.

Another provision outlaws strikes which are designed to compel an employer to:

1. Bargain collectively with a union which is not certified by the NLRB.
2. Revise practices for which administrative handling already is provided under the act.
3. Violate provisions of the act or any other law.

Ball said the strikes outlawed would be mainly jurisdictional and organizational stoppages. In cases where they occur anyway, employers could petition for an injunction under an exception to the Norris-LaGuardia Anti-Injunction Act.

He said his bill would also:

Assure employers freedom of speech by permitting them to make statements on disputed points so long as they contain "no threat of force or economic reprisals." Under the act as it stands, employers are liable to citation for unfair labor practice if they present their views.

Limit the NLRB's right to determine appropriate bargaining units "so as to protect" independent craft unions.

Make it an unfair labor practice for a union to "restrain or coerce" employes in the exercise of their rights under the act, or to refuse to bargain collectively with an employer in cases where the union is representative of his workers.

Increase the salaries of NLRB members to $12,000 a year. They now receive $10,000.

Dissatisfied With Leaders.

Meantime, in the House Labor Committee the first rumble of discontent over the way the Republican leadership is running things in the House rolled up from party ranks.

Several G.O.P. members didn't like it—and said so—when House leaders decided the Judiciary rather than the Labor Committee should carry the ball on portal pay legislation.

One of the members told a reporter:

"It's a political maneuver and the most disheartening thing that has developed within the party."

Another contended that the leadership is "steamrollering and side-tracking" the Labor Committee. Plenty may be heard about it on the floor when the House meets again tomorrow, he said.

Speaker Martin, Massachusetts, and Majority Leader Halleck, Indiana, gave the Judiciary Committee the "go" sign at a conference yesterday with Chairman Michener (Rep.), Michigan, of the judiciary group and Chairman Hartley (Rep.), New Jersey, of the Labor Committee.

A Senate judiciary subcommittee yesterday wound up more than 10 days of hearings on the portal issue and began drafting a bill for Senate action. There was no dispute in that chamber as to which committee should handle the subject.

Most of the proposals there are to deny courts the right to try portal pay suits. A similar measure was introduced in the House by Representative Gwynne (Dem.), Iowa, and Michener has promised speedy consideration.

Some members of the House Labor Committee contend, however, that the proper approach is amending the Wage-Hour Act to redefine the work week. They say the Labor Committee should handle that matter.

LAMBERT FIELD WILL INSTALL RADAR SYSTEM

enables the operators to view an approaching plane in exact relation to the landing field. By radio, ground operators "talk in" the plane, telling the pilot his exact position from moment to moment, even to the second his wheels will touch the ground.

Crews Being Trained.

Several commercial airlines now are training their crews in use of GCA, it is known. When visibility closed in over New York last Jan. 16, radar operators at Mitchel Field "talked in" a Peruvian Airlines transport with 21 persons aboard, and a private plane carrying two persons. This probably was the first use of GCA by commercial and private planes.

Lambert-St. Louis Field already has an electronic instrument landing system installed for blind landings. This system, developed by the Civil Aeronautics Administration before the war, has proved useful, but is somewhat less dependable under all weather conditions than the radar system. Both systems will be available for planes landing here when the new GCA system is in operation.

Since poor visibility has been given as the major cause of airplane accidents, in detailed studies by the CAB, the availability of both blind landing systems is expected to make Lambert-St. Louis Field one of the safest landing spots in the nation.

Radar landing equipment also will be installed at Scott Field, if funds are available, the Army announced recently. Cost of equipment tentatively planned for that field, presumably similar to that planned for Lambert-St. Louis Field, was set at $150,000.

Plan Use Many Places.

Both the Army and the Navy are planning radar landing installations at "strategic points" throughout the country.

The Navy equipment at Lambert-St.Louis Field probably will consist of two or three vans, housing the apparatus. The vans can be moved about the field to obtain the best possible "view" of approaching planes regardless of the wind direction and the consequent angle of approach.

Installation of the equipment at Lambert-St. Louis Field was authorized by R. Adm. E. C. Ewen of Glenview, Ill., commander of Naval Air Reserve training, Capt. Kauffman said. St. Louis city officials have not yet been notified of the development, he added.

FREED AFTER TERM IN KILLING, GETS BABY-SITTER JOB

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (AP)—Charles Hanson, 74 years old, enjoying his first month of freedom after 39 years behind the bars of Joliet Penitentiary, disclosed today that he had found a job as a baby sitter.

He was sentenced in 1907 for the murder of a Chicago policeman and was freed Jan. 4 on a writ of habeas corpus.

Since then, most of his time has been spent delivering messages from convicts to relatives and friends on the outside. One such message took him to the home of an employed Chicago couple, parents of a 5 months old baby.

"Hang up your hat," Hanson said the couple told him, "take care of the house and baby while we work and you can stay as long as you like."

Hanson declined to name the couple, but, "Boy, do I get a kick out of watching that little baby."

DONNELLY SIGNS FIRST BILL PASSED BY 1947 LEGISLATURE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 28—The first bill passed by both houses of the 1947 Missouri Legislature was approved yesterday afternoon by Gov. Donnelly.

Approval of the measure eliminates any concern of the legislative clerical force about the payroll for January, as it appropriates funds for payment of the contingent expenses of the two houses, including clerical salaries.

The bill provides $200,000 for the contingent fund of the House and $100,000 for the contingent fund of the Senate, for the period from last Jan. 8 to June 30, 1947.

EAKER SAYS ARMY TESTS MAY HELP AVERT AIR CRASHES

to accept," he said. "For example, in wartime we cleared airports with heavily loaded planes carrying tons of high explosives under weather conditions and under operational systems which would be unthinkable for peacetime operations and which certainly could not be adapted to civil aviation."

He said a study of A.A.F. accidents showed the "human factor" caused about 70 per cent of all accidents.

Public Oversold on Air Facilities, Harriman Says.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman said last night that while aviation already was a vital necessity, "the public has been oversold on its present status."

"Confusion and disillusionment" have resulted from leading the people to think in terms of giant, all-weather planes and de luxe ground services, Harriman told about 1000 persons from the industry gathered last night for the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences annual honors dinner.

He said that as a result of disillusionment airline patronage and aircraft sales business had declined.

Harriman had no quarrel with the safety record of scheduled airlines, pointing out that he and his family flew regularly and that safety had improved steadily. However, he said, progress must continue through improved facilities and services, new methods of control, more regularity of schedules and more concentration on human and technical factors.

Meanwhile, the Institute of Life Insurance reported that only 2 per cent of companies in the field refused to write new policies covering travel on scheduled airlines, while 84 per cent place no limitation on such travel and 14 per cent limit either the amount of the policy or the amount of flying. In 1935, it said, only 4 per cent of the companies had no air travel limitations.

BRITISH BANKER AND JUDGE SET FREE BY JEWS

sioner, Lt. Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham, told two members of the Jewish agency yesterday that unless Collins and Windham were returned "unharmed within a stated period," the British would take steps to "withdraw civil administration and facilities from certain areas which would be placed under military control."

The agency voiced a demand "in the name of the entire Jewish people" to the underground to release Windham, kidnaped from his court yesterday, and Collins, who was seized Sunday night.

Tel Aviv Searched.

Jerusalem and Haifa will be under curfew from dusk to dawn again tonight, and all roads will be under curfew rules, the army announced. Troops searched Tel Aviv for the kidnapers today, then lifted the curfew in that all-Jewish city shortly after noon "to assist the safe return" of the kidnaped men.

Police said rioting between Arabs and Jews broke out in the Jerusalem prison again today while rations were being drawn. One Jewish guard was killed and a number of prisoners and the prison superintendent were injured. Many prisoners and two British constables were injured yesterday.

The army ruled Jerusalem out of bounds to all military personnel not on active duty and restricted troops to "essential movements." A few shots were fired into the air to warn persons breaking the curfew in Jerusalem, Haifa and Tel Aviv, the military statement said.

Detailed plans have been made for the protection of British civilians against further kidnapings, it was said.

(In London, Colonial Secretary Arthur Creech Jones told the House of Commons that British women and children might be removed from Palestine and that remaining British civilians might be concentrated for their protection.)

Troops of the British Sixth Airborne Division moved into Tel Aviv in force this morning and began a systematic search for Judge Windham. The nearby city of Petah Tikvah also was cordoned off for a thorough search.

REVOLT BY JUNIOR OFFICERS IN PARAGUAY IS PUT DOWN

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Jan. 28 (UP)—The government announced today that a revolt of officers of minor rank had been smashed.

The announcement said the revolt began Friday night and was climaxed Sunday night when a final attempt by air force officers to seize a military airport was foiled.

Guards at the airport resisted the attack and ended the short-lived revolution, it was said.

LEGISLATIVE SURVEY OF SCHOOLS PROPOSED

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Jan. 28—Appointment of a special committee of the Senate and the house to make a joint survey of the public school system in Missouri, looking toward solution of financial problems and improvement of administrative policies, was proposed today by Senator R. Jasper Smith of Springfield, Republican floor leader.

The proposal was offered in accordance with a decision of Republican majority leaders in the Legislature to make an extensive study of pressing school problems, including demands for higher teacher salaries and increased state school funds.

Smith's proposal calls for a committee of 10, five appointed from the Senate by the president pro tem and five Representatives named by the Speaker. It would be authorized to employ a research staff and clerical assistance, and to call on the committee on legislative research for aid.

The committee would be directed to study public school finances, the need for more efficient school administration, and the responsibility of local school districts in state education programs.

$400 Robbery of Home Reported.

Charles A. Kraft, 8719 Northcrest lane, reported to police today a rear kitchen window at his home had been forced open in the night and clothing valued at $310 and jewelry and household goods valued at $90 had been stolen.

The girl who couldn't forget

• She had adored him from afar—Jim, the gayest, handsomest man in her older sister's crowd. And now he was home, unmarried, and she was grown up—and pretty.

Would he ask her to dance at the party? . . . "He's coming towards me . . . he's here . . . It's me."

And then—the orchestra plays a rumba. She tries to bluff it, but it's no use. She's a dismal failure. Why, oh why hadn't she taken dance lessons?

Why, indeed, when it's so easy to learn the Rumba at Arthur Murray's? A few delightful lessons and you'll make a hit with the best dancers. You're sure of fun and popularity. Come in or phone today. Arthur Murray, 316 North 6th . . . CEntral 4567 or 7742 Forsythe . . . CAbany 4145.

REUTHER-THOMAS FEUD FLARES OVER ALLIS-CHALMERS

Vice President Says Activities of UAW Head Cost the Union Votes in Election.

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 28 (AP)—The activities of CIO United Auto Workers' International President Walter P. Reuther in the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. strike "cost the union votes in the election," R. J. Thomas, UAW vice president, charged today.

Thomas, who yesterday brought the feud between the two union leaders into the open with a declaration Reuther had been the victim of a "successful coup" when he entered the strike picture last week, referred to the bargaining election Sunday in which Local 248, the striking union, barely retained its rights at the company's main plant.

"There's entirely too much being made of this affair," Thomas asserted today.

Asked whether the original statement carried a sentence asserting Reuther's entrance into the negotiations had resulted in "a loss of some votes to the UAW," Thomas asserted:

"If you want to know what I said, it was that these activities cost votes in the election. I have no further comment to make."

The statement given the Associated Press did not contain the sentence.

Discussing Reuther's appearance here last week, Thomas's statement said the president "swallowed the bait" which "was in the form of offering him an opportunity to negotiate on company proposals alone."

"Reuther's entrance into the nine-month strike picture only served to confuse the workers . . . on just what contract terms the top policy committee would entertain for Allis-Chalmers workers," Thomas said.

He asserted the "coup" was performed "by the company, the Milwaukee press and the Rev. (Ensworth) Reisner" and was executed "to the detriment of the Allis-Chalmers UAW membership."

Reuther, in a statement issued at Detroit today, said, "I do not choose to discuss internal union problems in the daily press. Since another officer of the UAW-CIO has unfortunately run to the press with an internal union problem, I intend to report to the membership on the Allis-Chalmers situation through the proper channels of the union."

Reuther entered the negotiations a week ago when he, Thomas and other UAW officers conferred with company representatives at the Rev. Mr. Reisner's home. He later returned to Detroit, conferred with the UAW policy committee, and announced the committee had rejected "unanimously" the company's offer. Reuther had been reported to favor the company proposal.

The Reuther-Thomas squabble followed a collective bargaining election in which the striking Local 248 retained its bargaining rights, despite failure to receive a majority. The challenging Independent Workers of Allis-Chalmers also failed to receive a majority, and the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board, which ordered and conducted the election, ruled that Local 248, which had a plurality, retained its rights.

Thomas said earlier yesterday that the UAW local "demands immediate resumption of negotiations . . . and a speedy settlement of the strike."

Thomas's statement asserted that neither he nor the UAW policy committee, of which he is a member, "ever accepted the company's 13½-cent wage offer" and that "our position is still for the Allis-Chalmers company meeting the national industrial wage pattern."

Thomas, former president of the UAW, was defeated by Reuther for re-election at the last union convention.

CIO Union Lists Objectives in Anti-Red Fight.

WATERBURY, Conn., Jan. 28 (AP) — Leaders of a secession movement aimed at separating 10 Connecticut locals from the CIO International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers announced today the objectives they said they were going to seek "after we are free of the disruptive influence of the Communist party and its fellow travelers."

Eight thousand brass workers are scheduled to meet here Friday night to vote on secession from the union whose president, Reid Robinson of Butte, Montana, was excluded from a wage policy meeting of the union's District No. 1 Saturday night.

Armand Fiorelli, president of a local for employes of the American Brass Co. and several smaller brass firms, and James McGrath, president of a local of Chase Brass & Copper Co. workers, said that if the local seceded from the international union they would then take these steps:

Set up a provisional co-ordinating committee to govern seceded unions until affiliation is achieved with an "appropriate" union within the CIO or a separate CIO charter is granted to brass workers.

Continue collective bargaining negotiations under the CIO banner for "an adequate wage increase for our members, and other benefits."

U. S. CAR OUTPUT TO 85,590

DETROIT, Jan. 28 (AP) — The trade publication Automotive News in yesterday's issue placed last week's car and truck output in the United States and Canada at 90,511 units. Of this volume 62,249 cars and 23,341 trucks were assembled in United States plants, a total of 85,590 units.

Austin Calls for U. S. Adoption Of Universal Military Training

U.N. Delegate Asserts This Must Be Basis for Security Until World Atomic Control Is Created.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (UP)—Warren R. Austin, American representative to the United Nations, said today that until effective international controls of atomic energy are created the United States must place its hope for security in universal military training.

Austin made his statement to reporters after a long conference with President Truman in which, he said, they discussed the U.N. atomic energy control program, the regulation of armaments and possible disarmament.

Austin asserted that effective collective security would come only with effective controls over the use of atomic energy.

"The basis of the whole security in the meantime under our free democratic government must be universal military training," he said. "The world must have the knowledge that we have a body of trained men in the background."

While Austin was at the White House, Chairman Andrews (Rep.), New York, of the House Armed Services Committee announced at the Capitol that the Senate and House Armed Services committees will hear Austin at a closed session tomorrow. Later, Andrews said, Secretary of State George C. Marshall and his predecessor, James F. Byrnes, probably will be heard by the joint group or by the House committee itself.

Austin told the reporters he had no reason to believe that any other nation is constructing an atomic fission plant. Senator McMahon (Dem.), Connecticut, said yesterday that he thought it likely that Russia may be constructing an atomic fission plant, although he had no definite information.

Austin asserted the United States would not exchange atomic energy knowledge with other nations for constructive use until safeguards against destructive use are established.

He emphasized that "we will never, never engage in unilateral disarmament, nor yield to any pressure with respect to the manufacture or production of atomic bombs which must occur before this collective security is established." He said disarmament could not begin until Congress declared effective controls had been set up against destructive use of atomic energy.

MOTHER CONVICTED OF PART IN DELINQUENCY OF BOY, 14

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—A 33-year-old mother was adjudged guilty yesterday of contributing to the delinquency of her 14-year-old son—the first person arrested and convicted on the charge in Police Commissioner Arthur W. Wallander's drive to hold parents responsible for the delinquencies of their children.

Justice Matthew J. Diserio, after a closed hearing in the children's division of the domestic relations court, remanded Mrs. Genevieve Rivera to women's house of detention pending investigation and sentencing Jan. 31.

Her son was committed to the New York State Training School for Boys. He had been taken in custody in connection with three shootings in which two youths and a housewife were wounded.

SEEKS TO CLOSE COUNTY DEAL FOR BARRACKS TRACT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28—Luman F. Matthews, presiding judge of the St. Louis County Court, and Representative Walter C. Ploeser (Rep.) of St. Louis and St. Louis county, tried today to complete arrangements for acquisition by the county of 880 acres at Jefferson Barracks. The county plans to use the tract for airport, hospital and recreational purposes.

Matthews and Ploeser interviewed officials of the War Assets Administration. In previous negotiations, the WAA has not set a price on the tract. Matthews said the county expected to pay a fair price, less discounts. He held that the appraisal should not include the value of buildings now used as emergency housing for veterans, as the buildings will be removed when the emergency has passed.

Matthews said he planned to make formal application for the property before concluding his conferences with WAA representatives.

Several small buildings included in the tract are to be turned over to the City of St. Louis. Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann has stated that the city would use the buildings for garbage disposal purposes.

REPORTS TAXES WOULD RISE UNDER U. CITY CHARTER DENIED

Taxes will not rise in University City on adoption of the new Home Rule Charter despite reports to the contrary, Paul H. Young, a member of the charter-writing commission said today. The new city administration should just about "break even" in its first year of operation, Young estimated, and save money from then on.

"The present aldermen, including those not favorable to the charter, could, if they desired, immediately jump the tax rate," Young pointed out, indicating the upper limit of taxes is set by law.

Economies provided by the consolidation of offices under the proposed charter include abolishing salaries and fees of the mayor, tax collector and treasurer, a saving of $15,200, which would be "more than adequate" to pay the city manager and clerical help, Young stated. Present salaries of six aldermen, totaling $7200, would be replaced by salaries of seven councilmen, totaling a maximum of $2100, Young added.

STRIKE BY FACULTY KEEPS SCHOOL IN ILLINOIS CLOSED

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., Jan. 28—The doors of the West Frankfort high school remained closed for the second successive day today by a strike of the 37 faculty members for higher pay, with no further negotiations scheduled at this time.

Meanwhile, the 61 teachers in the five grade schools, who have a request before their separate board of education for a $300 cost-of-living bonus for this year, voted unanimously against a strike yesterday. The grade school board is exploring new sources of revenue with which to supplement the average $1650 paid the grade teachers.

The high school teachers, members of the AFL American Federation of Teachers, stayed away from their classes yesterday when the high school board of education offered only a $100 annual increase instead of the $400 sought by the teachers for the current year. On rejection of the offer, the approximately 1000 students were instructed by the board not to report for classes. No picketing has taken place and none is planned at this time, according to Edgar Bain, president of the union.

DISPUTE OVER DISCIPLINING OF ONE MAN MAKES 14,000 IDLE

DETROIT, Jan. 28 (UP)—A dispute over the disciplining of one employe kept 14,000 production workers idle at the Hudson Motor Car plant today.

William Hinson, vice president of local 154 of the CIO United Auto Workers, said the men would not return to work until the two-day suspension of Joseph Bommarito was up tomorrow.

The walkout began yesterday after the company had sent Bommarito home for two days for "failure to follow established grievance procedures." The union said the contract called for girls to relieve girls and men to relieve men when a worker leaves his post temporarily. The company ordered a girl to relieve a man and Bommarito, chief shop steward, ordered the worker to ignore the order, the union charged. Bommarito's suspension followed.

UNION ELECTRIC WORKERS TO VOTE ON WAGE OFFER

About 2500 employes of the Union Electric Co. of Missouri, who are members of the AFL Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, will vote at afternoon and evening meetings tomorrow on a company offer of a 13-cent-an-hour wage increase.

Carl C. Mitchell, business agent of Local 1439, said the offer is conditional on acceptance of an 18-month wage contract, and is not acceptable to the membership, which is expected to take a strike vote at the meetings.

A 30-day strike notice was recorded as filed Jan. 2. A strike, if called, would take place within several days following Feb. 2, Mitchell said. The union demanded an increase of 25 cents an hour above wage rates in the old contract, ranging from 87 cents to $1.53 an hour.

MASS PICKET LINE BARS KANSAS CITY STAR PRINTERS

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Kansas City Star remained strike-bound as only eleven printers crossed a mass picket line of a group of contract carriers despite orders from their international officers to report for work. Pickets marched shoulder to shoulder in blustery sub-freezing weather to form a human blockade. No papers have been published since Jan. 17.

A group of contract carriers, members of the International Pressmen and Assistants Union, are striking for recognition of the union as their bargaining agent. The Star contends the carriers are independent contractors and not employes.

4 KILLED IN TRAIN WRECK LAID TO WIRE ON TRACK

(Pictures in Everyday Magazine.)

WALTON, Ind., Jan. 28 (AP)—Indiana state police, investigating a train wreck in which four persons were killed last night, are trying to learn how a bale of fencing wire, which derailed the train, got on the track.

All but two cars of the eight-car Pennsylvania Union, bound for Chicago from Cincinnati, left the rails shortly after 7 p.m. in addition to the four persons killed, 23 were injured, one seriously.

State Police Lt. John R. Fisher and A. F. McIntyre, Pennsylvania superintendent, said that the roll of wire was found jammed into a switch.

Several rolls of the wire were stored in a pile beside the railroad track at the scene of the wreck, Fisher said.

"Apparently one of these either fell or was placed on the track and we want to know which," said Fisher.

"The bale of wire found in the switch was the cause of the wreck. It was either placed there deliberately, perhaps the work of a prankster or a crank, or it was dropped there by some one stealing the wire."

The roll of wire was about two-feet in diameter and weighed about 400 pounds.

FBI Investigation.

W. W. Patchell of Chicago, general manager of the western region of the Pennsylvania, said that the Federal Bureau of Investigation was working with state police.

A roll of wire is missing from the stack along the track and "it is presumed to be the one found wedged in the switch," said Patchell.

The dead were C. A. Wisler of Richmond, Ind., fireman, and passengers Miss Kathryn Marie Kingery, Kokomo, Ind.; Walter Pischke, Kokomo, and H. G. Perkinson, Anderson, Ind.

A report that two other bodies remained in the wreck was proved unfounded.

Engineer's Story.

Engineer N. J. Lamartine of Richmond, Ind., said of the crash which strewed cars the length of this town of 800:

"I could see the station and was blowing the whistle when there was a sudden bump. I immediately threw on the air brakes, then the engine turned over."

Lamartine, who suffered a cut over one eye and a sprained back, directed the work of rescuers in cutting pipes to free him. He was taken to a Logansport hospital.

The big locomotive was torn loose from the train and reversed its direction before coming to a stop.

The cars careened wildly, some of them crashing into buildings alongside the track. The baggage coach was smashed almost flat by the impact with the locomotive tender.

Only a diner and a parlor car remained upright.

Pvt. Andre C. Kerinuk, 19 years old, of Newport, Ky., who suffered a possible rib fracture, was in one of the coaches.

"I saw sparks flying past the window of the third car where I was sitting," said Kerinuk. "Then there was a bump and the car turned sideways. It didn't upset. I believe two were killed and a good many injured in the car."

5 Cars of Panama Limited Leave Track; Two Hurt.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Illinois Central Railroad reported that the rear five coaches of its northbound Panama Limited left the tracks today near Pulaski, Ill., and two persons were injured.

The New Orleans - Chicago streamliner was going through a switch at 48 miles an hour when the accident occurred. Cause has not been determined.

The injured were Mrs. Christine Albi, Gary Ind., who suffered bruises; and E. A. Randall, a flagman, who suffered several rib fractures.

ROME REPORT ABOUT GOLD FOR ITALY IS NEWS TO U.S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Treasury and State Department officials said yesterday they knew nothing about published reports that the United States was either going to sell or turn over to the Italian Government about $30,000,000 in gold.

Italian embassy officials here, however, indicated they thought the information published in Rome newspapers, was correct.

American officials said there had been no detailed discussions of the subject during Premier Alcide de Gasperi's recent visit here. They said the gold in question might be the estimated 22 to 29 tons recovered by Allied forces shortly after Italy's surrender. They added, however, there had been no decision on turning this over to the Italian Government.

WIRE, BOLTS, NAILS, STONES FOUND IN BULL'S STOMACH

Prize Animal Operated On After Examination With Mine Detector.

FREEPORT, Ill., Jan. 28 (UP)—Inka, a prize $15,000 bull, chewed hay in comfort today. Inka had good reason for his comfort. He had undergone an operation which rid him of two pounds of assorted scrap metal and pebbles in the first two of his four stomachs.

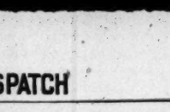

The operation, performed by Dr. T. H. Ferguson, Lake Geneva, Wis., produced these items; 13 pieces of baling wire; one bolt; a dozen stones of assorted sizes; one piece of sheet metal, one by three inches; an eight-penny nail; part of a 16-penny nail; and some smaller odds and ends.

Inka caused concern a few weeks ago when his weight fell from 2000 to 1700 pounds. Veterinarians examined the pride of the W. T. Rawleigh farm with detectors, similar to those used in locating mines on battlefields, and found the metal. They also discovered Inka had a liver ailment and administered penicillin to save the bull's life.

Dr. Ferguson performed the major operation quickly after administering an anesthetic.

PAY BOOSTED, STRIKE AVERTED AT GEORGE S. MEPHAM CORP.

A strike scheduled for this morning at the George S. Mepham Corp., paint pigment manufacturers at 2001 Lynch avenue, East St. Louis, was averted today when the company signed a contract with the AFL Chemical Workers' Union, Local 21.

The contract provides a 14-cent-an-hour general increase, with a 2-cent-an-hour night shift bonus, Otto Butler, international vice president of the union, announced.

Minimum for laborers was set at $1.07 an hour. Pay for other classifications will be worked out later, Butler said.

The agreement covers 310 employes. They had filed a strike notice about 40 days ago.

SANITATION RATINGS MADE ON GLENDALE EATING PLACES

The sanitation ratings of Glendale's two operating eating places under the city's clean restaurant ordinance were announced today by Kenneth J. Wulfert, director of the sanitation division of the St. Louis county health department.

Blase's Barbeque, Manchester and Berry roads, received a C rating, and may be closed if it has not improved within 30 days. The Shumate Drug Store, 426 North Sappington road, received a B rating. Stoecker's tavern, Sappington and Kirkham roads, was closed recently and is being remodeled.

Wulfert announced that the grade of the Loop Confectionery, 7365 Dale avenue, Richmond Heights, had been raised from C to B in a reinspection requested by the management.

BOWLES PREDICTS STEADILY RISING LIVING STANDARD

Says in Talk Here That Prices Are at Peak, and General Trend Will Be Downward.

The prospect of a constantly rising standard of living was held out by Chester Bowles, former OPA administrator, last night in a Y. M. C. A. Town Hall address at Kiel Auditorium.

This rise will come about through continual increases in the productivity of labor and the efficiency of industry, the sharing of profits with labor and the raising of the standard of living of the rest of the world, Bowles said. On the present domestic scene, he asserted that prices had reached their peak at the present time and that although some few items may continue to rise, the general trend will be downward. He added the precautionary note that all such predictions are dangerous.

OPA controls should have been kept for six or seven months beyond last June, when, in effect, they were abandoned, Bowles said, but the worst of inflationary pressures have passed and we are out of danger.

For High Level of Spending.

Asserting that with allowances for differences in prices, last year's national income level of 194 billion was twice that of the best prewar year, Bowles contended that a high level of spending must be maintained if unemployment is to be avoided. He said he was in accord with those who advocate keeping Government spending at a low level and who want to make such Government expenditures for non-boondoggling projects.

He said that although we need more dams, more schools, more hospitals, more roads and other governmental undertakings, purchasing all of them the nation needs in the next few years would make but a relatively small addition to the national income. The really big additions to spending must be made by business and consumers, he said, "if we are not to be headed for depression."

Praises MVA Plan.

He commended the Missouri Valley Authority plan, saying that if TVA has been a good thing—"and all thinking people must agree that it is"—then MVA would be a good thing for the Missouri basin and similar setups would be good for other valleys where there is power to be developed and floods to be prevented. He said, however, that these projects might be deferred until such time as employment is needed.

He contended it is necessary to keep the profit level high to provide capital to modernize industrial establishments. Some wage increases at the present time could come out of profits, he asserted, since profits are running higher than they did in 1929.

In the international field, Bowles pointed out that with only six per cent of the world's population the United States produces 50 per cent of the goods and services and predicted that "if we continue to build our own wonderful mansion in the middle of an impoverished world, some of the windows will get broken."

For Four Billion Gift Yearly.

He urged that the United States set up an appropriation of four billion dollars annually—about two per cent of the national income—to be distributed among other countries through the United Nations. He asserted this would be a cheap price to pay for the security which would arise out of more stable economic relations among nations which would result. The sum proposed would be only half of a single month's expenditure in the recent war, only one-third of the present annual budget for Army and Navy, he said.

Such a fund, if spent for projects like power developments and fertilizer plants, could "do incredible things" in raising the standards of living of backward areas of the world and would have very profound effects on the next generation all over the world, he said. For instance, a TVA on the Jordan river would allow Palestine to support 2,000,000 more persons easily, Bowles asserted.

Economic security, freedom and peace are the three legs of the future he said, and if one collapses, the others fall too. America's test for the near future is whether we will abandon the economic isolationism which prevents economic security for much of the rest of the world, Bowles said.

"I don't know if we can do all these things," he said in conclusion, "but it is the greatest challenge any generation ever faced."

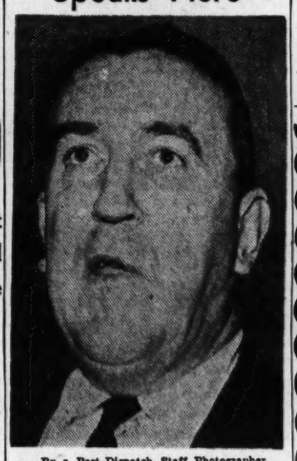

EXPOSURE IN MOUNTAIN AREA COSTS LIFE OF COLORADO GIRL

BOULDER, Colo., Jan. 28 (AP) — Exposure in the snow-covered, mountainous Sugar Loaf area brought death to 3-year-old Alice Toney while members of a 100-man searching party passed within 10 feet of the spot where the child expended her last effort in an attempt to crawl to her parents' cabin.

The youngster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Toney of Denver, operators of a small gold mine, disappeared Sunday afternoon from the cabin where the family spent the weekend, and her absence was not discovered for about an hour.

After an unsuccessful search by the family, Sheriff Arthur Everson organized a posse of 100 searchers Sunday night. Another 100 men joined the search yesterday. Tracks in the snow showed that searchers had passed within 10 feet of the spot where the girl's body was lying on the edge of a snowbank under a tree.

PRAY-FOR-THE-PRESS-WEEK SET ASIDE BY THE LUTHERANS

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (UP) — The United Lutheran Church in America has set aside Jan. 29-Feb. 4 as "Pray-for-the-Press Week."

"Ordinarily people criticize and cuss reporters and editors," a statement from the church said, adding the Church was asking its 1,810,076 members to pray for newsmen every evening at 7 o'clock during the week.

Dr. F. Epping Reinartz, secretary of the church, recommended this prayer: "Let us pray for all who gather and publish news, that they may discharge their trust in the interests of Godliness and good order."

EX-G.I. WANTS RENT HIKED, PLEADS FOR LANDLORD TO OPA

Former Navy Man Cites His Long Search, Owner's Improvements.

James W. Elkin, a Navy veteran, is one tenant who's hoping his landlord will increase his rent.

Elkin, who lives in a furnished two-room apartment at 2120 Wyoming street, protested to the Office of Price Administration on behalf of his landlord, Otis Tyra of the Wyoming street address, when the OPA ordered Tyra to reduce the rent from the $11 a week he had set originally to $6.25 a week.

"Why, last year Tyra took a big, unfinished attic room, installed partitions, plumbing, a sink and a gas stove," Elkin asserted. "I walked the streets for a month looking for a place for my wife and me to live. That apartment is worth at least $11 a week."

The OPA, however, has turned a deaf ear to the joint plea of Elkin and Tyra. Elkin said his interest in having the rent increased stemmed from a desire to have landlords fix up more spare rooms to provide living quarters for veterans.

AMERICANS EXECUTE ITALIAN

LIVORNO, Italy, Jan. 28 (AP)—Italo Simonetti, Italian, was executed yesterday by a United States firing squad.

Simonetti, former Fascist captain, was convicted last October of murdering a Royal Air Force pilot, Lt. Alfred Lyth of Kansas City, Mo., by shooting him after he parachuted to earth.

Brothers Welcome Refugee

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

FIRST MEAT IN 4 YEARS FOR GREEK REFUGEE

Woman Reunited With Brothers Here—Food Parcels From U. S. Saved Lives.

Miss Sophia Clisaris, a refugee from Greece, was finding it difficult yesterday to get used to such standard items of the American diet as meat, fruits and dairy products. The meat she ate in New York City four days ago after leaving the ship which brought her from Greece was the first she had seen in about four years, she said.

Although born in Memphis, Tenn., Miss Clisaris returned to Greece with her father when she was quite young and has forgotten almost all the English she knew. She was interviewed at the Hotel Jefferson with the aid of two brothers, Pete and Nick, both of whom are employed there. Pete is maitre d'hotel and Nick is banquet captain. Both men use the name Carter in business.

The standard daily menu in Greece today, she said, is potatoes, black bread, beans and olive oil. All are rationed and Greeks must stand in line for hours each day to get their share, she said. The rations are inadequate and only the intervention of the Red Cross, UNRRA and such agencies have kept the Greek people alive, she asserted.

She said it would have been impossible for her and her father to survive if it had not been for periodic food parcels sent by her brothers. Because of internal strife, conditions are improving slowly in Greece, she said. Her 70-year-old father insisted on remaining there, although he must work his farm largely by himself, she added.

She was reluctant to talk of the wartime occupation of Greece by the Nazis. The story of the execution in 1944 of her younger brother, Jimmy, which she was forced to witness, was told in the Post-Dispatch last April 22. Miss Clisaris is undecided whether to make her home in St. Louis with one of her brothers or in Chicago with a sister, Mrs. Catherine Agostriotes.

ST. LOUISAN TO HELP DRAFT PHILIPPINE PATENT LAWS

L. C. Kingsland, St. Louis patent attorney, left today for Manila, Philippine Islands, where he will spend six weeks helping the second Philippine Legislature frame a comprehensive patent and trade mark law.

Kingsland, who has been a patent attorney since 1908, said he had been designated as adviser to the Philippine Legislature by the United States Department of Commerce. He said the Philippine Government, until its independence, had operated under United States patent and trade mark laws.

The Philippine Government asked the United States for aid, Kingsland said, and he had been appointed to prepare a patent and trade mark law for submission on arrival there. Kingsland, whose law office is at 705 Olive street, lives at 6034 Cabanne avenue.

VISITING NURSE GROUP HEAD

Mrs. John A. Haskell was re-elected president of the Visiting Nurse Association of St. Louis yesterday at the thirty-fifth annual meeting of the organization at its quarters at 3664 Olive street. A report listed 50,393 calls made by members in bedside cases in 1946.

Other officers elected include Mrs. Edward Greensfelder, first vice president; Mrs. Edward V. Mastin, second vice president; Mrs. Charles Lucas Hunt, re-elected treasurer, and Mrs. Thomas J. Kelley Jr., re-elected secretary.

CHINA RED GENERAL SWITCHES SIDES, SO DO HIS 4 DIVISIONS

NANKING, Jan. 28 (AP)—Gen. Ho Peng-chu, who has been commanding 50,000 Chinese Communist soldiers in their battles against Government forces along the critical Kiangsu-Shantung border, decided it wasn't a very satisfactory way of life—so now he is commanding a Government army instead. Same troops, too!

The official Central News Agency reported the switch today, with much supporting detail. Gen. Ho's latest fence-jumping is his fourth such swap, the news agency related.

During the war against Japan, the former National Government militarist became commander of Chinese puppet (anti-Government, pro-Japanese) troops in the Hsuchow-Haichow area. After Japan's surrender, he reappeared, beaming, as a Government army officer, and evidently all was forgiven.

In January 1946, he moved to the Chinese Communist camp, taking command of the Communists' "Democratic Reconstruction Joint Army," which for the last year has fought Government troops along the Shantung province border.

Five days ago, in an exchange of messages with the opposing Government commanders at Hsuchow, he expressed dissatisfaction with Communist life. And yesterday, he appeared at the Lunghai railroad town of Haichow—bringing his four bewildered divisions with him.

Their welcome by Government forces was jubilant. Bygones obviously had become bygones.

"Communists," the Government news agency quoted him as concluding, "are the main deterrent to peace, unity and democracy in China."

Divorces Actor George Sanders.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 28 (AP)—Mrs. Elsie Marie Sanders was granted a divorce yesterday from George Sanders on her testimony that the British born film actor treated her so cruelly she suffered a nervous breakdown. Sanders told her she was stupid, Mrs. Sanders testified, ignored her and finally declared he did not love her. They were married in 1940. They separated last August.

M'KELLAR SAYS TVA PAID $2478 FOR ILLICIT TRIPS

Tells Senate Group 'High Official' of Agency and Woman Employe Were Involved.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—Senator McKellar (Dem.), Tennessee, told a Senate committee today the Tennessee Valley Authority paid $2478.33 in 1938 and 1939 for travel expenses of a "high officer" of TVA and a woman employe who, he said, engaged in "illicit relationships."

The Senator made his statement as the committee began its fourth day of inquiry into President Truman's nomination of Gordon R. Clapp to be a TVA director.

Asked by Clapp to identify the TVA employes, McKellar said to do so would be "rather painful" since they were a married man and an unmarried woman. He told Clapp to examine TVA records for the names.

Clapp replied that he could not recall such a case offhand, adding that TVA does not attempt to control the morals of its individual employes.

TVA, Clapp declared, would not have authorized travel expenses for any reason other than official business.

Would Act if TVA Is Affected.

"What employes who travel on official business might do in their personal affairs is something else," he said. "However, if it reflected on the reputation and efficiency of TVA, TVA would take action if it had the evidence."

Asked by McKellar if he would rather examine the matter in private before it might be made public, Clapp replied he would do so only because "it might save what may be some innocent employes from the effects of gossip."

Chairman Revercomb and committee members agreed that the names should not be made public until TVA records are examined by Clapp.

McKellar had before him what he said were photographic copies of travel vouchers for the trips. He told the committee TVA had brought about the passage of a bill by Congress, authorizing it to destroy "certain unessential vouchers."

The bill was passed, he declared, "in order to get rid of the evidence of this."

"Senator, I think there is no truth to the reference at all," Clapp answered.

FIRM AGREES TO BUY BONDS TO FINANCE NEW TOLL BRIDGE

An arrangement under which Stifel, Nicolaus & Co., Inc., St. Louis investment company, has agreed to purchase bonds which Calhoun county, Ill., plans to issue for the construction of a proposed new toll bridge across the Mississippi river was announced today.

The bridge, tentatively known as the "Golden Eagle" bridge, would cross the Mississippi at Brussels, Ill., leading into St. Charles county. It would shorten the route between St. Louis and Pike and Calhoun counties in Illinois.

William J. Becker, attorney for the Calhoun county commissioners, said the bridge would be turned over to the states of Missouri and Illinois when construction costs are paid by tolls. Preliminary plans for the bridge and approaches have been made, he reported, but he estimated that several more years would be necessary to obtain congressional approval and plan connecting links to existing highways.

HOUSE GROUP APPROVES BILL TO SAVE VETERANS' INSURANCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The House Veterans' Committee today approved legislation to give veterans a longer time to reinstate their Government life insurance policies.

The bill, first for service men of the new congressional session, was approved after it was indorsed by Gen. Omar N. Bradley, veterans administrator, and by spokesmen for veterans' organizations.

Unless Congress acts, the right to re-instate the insurance policies without physical examination ends Feb. 1. Bradley said thousands of veterans would be penalized if VA did not get authority to extend that deadline.

NEW DEVICE TELLS PILOT WHEN PLANE OR HE IS FAILING

SCHENECTADY, N.Y., Jan. 28 (AP)—An automatic flight recorder designed to promote safer air travel has been developed by the General Electric Co.

The device will help prevent accidents by detecting possible dangerous airplane or pilot tendencies and warning a pilot by audible signals, G.E. said last night. In addition, it will furnish recorded data to help determine the cause of an accident.

The flight recorder provides airlines with "easily-read" records of a plane's altitude, vertical acceleration, airspeed and other operational data, the company said.

The records are not affected by altitude or temperature and can remain submerged in salt water for several days without damage, G.E. said.

General Electric gave this explanation of the recorder:

Tiny electric transmitter signaling devices, known as selsyns, are installed on aircraft instruments. Each selsyn transmits the position of its instrument's pointer to a receiver in the flight recorder, geared to an inkless recording system.

Only Three Cities With Lower Per Capita Spending Than St. Louis

10 Others Ranking in First 14 in Population Exceeded Expenditures of This City, Study Shows.

Only three among the largest 14 cities in the United States had lower per capita expenditures in 1945 than St. Louis, it was shown by an analysis of census figures made by the St. Louis regional office of the United States Department of Commerce.

St. Louis expenditures in 1945 averaged $38.45 for each person in the 1940 census population of the city, while the average for the 14 cities with populations of more than 500,000 was $65.93, Regional Director Frank X. Meehan reported.

The cities, listed with total revenue in the order of their per capita outlays, follow:

Boston, total revenue $85,636,000, per capita expenditure $111.10; New York, $705,645,000 and $94.65; Washington, $59,143,000 and $89.19; Detroit, $121,072,000 and $74.58; Buffalo, $42,183,000 and $73.25; Baltimore, $59,814,000 and $69.62; San Francisco, $43,986,000 and $69.32; Milwaukee, $30,286,000 and $51.55; Philadelphia, $81,689,000 and $42.30; Cleveland, $36,968,000 and $42.09; St. Louis, $31,379,000 and $38.45; Chicago, $112,408,000 and $33.10; Pittsburgh, $21,731,000 and $32.35; Los Angeles, $42,675,000 and $28.37.

It should be pointed out that the three cities with the highest per capita expenditures received large proportions of their total revenue in the form of aid from other government sources. Boston received 22.4 per cent of its income from Massachusetts; New York obtained 21.7 per cent of its revenue from the state, and 13.8 per cent of Washington's revenue was contributed by the Federal Government.

As shown in an earlier study, St. Louis ranked thirty-fourth among the 37 cities having populations of 250,000 or more in aid from other governments. Of the city's total revenue in 1945, only $398,000, or 1.2 per cent, came from the state.

STATE WON'T AID ILLINOIS COUNTY TAX SALE INQUIRY

Franklin Official Told He Has Full Power to Act on Any Irregularity in Deals.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BENTON, Ill., Jan. 28.—Investigation of the sale of tax-delinquent properties in Franklin county, Ill., continued today after Illinois Attorney General George F. Barrett refused a request by State's Attorney J. Max Mitchell of Benton for aid. Barrett pointed out that Mitchell has legal power to prosecute if evidence of criminal action is brought to light.

"If your inspection of the county records reveals irregularities which involve criminal offenses," Barrett wrote Mitchell, "you are qualified and competent as the duly elected state's attorney of your county to take the necessary steps to prosecute the offenders." Barrett cited statutes under which the state's attorney could prosecute the offenders and recover lost revenue for the taxing bodies.

Declines "Clerical" Work.

The Attorney General also stated in his letter that he did not "deem it a function of my office to perform routine and clerical work which falls within the duty of the state's attorney." He added that examination of county records should not require an "extensive investigation."

Mitchell, in requesting the Attorney General's aid, had stated that 6385 parcels of real estate were acquired by the County Board of Supervisors for $1,857,609 to satisfy delinquent taxes and then resold by the board for $64,494. He said delinquent taxes, penalties and interest due on the property totaled $2,257,131.

Two members of the Board of Supervisors named by Mitchell among the purchasers of tax-delinquent properties today denied that they had made such purchases for themselves. The third admitted buying two vacant lots, but said he made only $10 on this transaction.

Statements by Members.

Roy Dye, chairman of the board, denied he purchased any of the property involved. Walter Schmitt, member of the board, said he may have acted "for friends" but had not made any purchases for himself. He charged Mitchell with "political motives" in the investigation.

Alex Dixon, the third board member named by Mitchell, said he bought two vacant lots in Ziegler, Ill., in February 1945, for $15 each. One of the lots he later sold for $25, and on the other he relinquished his tax certificate to a man who purchased it from the original owner, Dixon said.

Regarding a charge that tax certificates on the properties in question had been issued without the name of the assignees having been filled in, Dye declared today that if the certificates were not properly filled out "that is Whittington's worry. I signed them and turned them over to him to give them to the purchasers when they paid their money."

"Whittington," named by Dye, is F. D. Whittington, chief deputy county treasurer. Whittington today said that if any legal responsibility for the blank certificates rested on him "I suppose I will have to accept it. However, it seems to me it would have been Dye's responsibility. He was the agent appointed to sell the properties and he signed the certificates."

Mitchell today declared he would continue the investigation "alone, if necessary." He said it was necessary to "go behind the records . . . the implications of this investigation are tremendous." He said he would accept help "anywhere it is available," but had hoped the Attorney General would assist with the "legal aspects."

MORGENTHAU SAYS HE PLANS TO GIVE DIARY TO LIBRARY

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 28 (UP)—Former Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. said today that he intended all along to turn over his 90-volume diary to the Hyde Park Library or the Library of Congress and that he will take up the matter when he returns to New York in a week.

His plans were revealed when he was questioned about Secretary of the Treasury Snyder's "friendly letter" requesting that the voluminous 12-year record be turned over to the Government.

Morgenthau is here on his tour of the country for the United Jewish Appeal.

Morgenthau kept the diary when a member of the Roosevelt Cabinet. It contains stenograpic records of office transactions, transcripts of telephone calls and other papers.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (UP) — Prof. Allan Nevins, Pulitzer prize historian who has been acting in an advisory capacity on the publication of the Henry Morgenthau Jr. diary, said today that he has examined the entire 900-volume collection and that "there is nothing in the diary that does not belong to Mr. Morgenthau." He said there were no originals of public documents, only photostats.

INJURIES IN SATURDAY CRASH ARE FATAL TO TRUCK DRIVER

Lee Sitton, Jacksonville, Ill., died yesterday at St. Louis County Hospital of injuries suffered Saturday when a transport truck he was driving crashed into a parked automobile and a tow truck on Missouri Highway 99 near a bridge over Coldwater creek.

The truck, carrying cylinders of fuel gas, skidded as it rounded a curve and crashed into the other machines. The truck overturned and burst into flames.

LOTTERY CHARGE AGAINST 25 AFTER RAID ON POLICY GAME

Police court charges of establishing a lottery were preferred against 25 persons, all but one of them Negroes, after a raid on a policy game at 929 North Leonard avenue yesterday.

Members of the police gambling division, who said they had been watching operations of the game for some time, arrested Clifford Block, a white man, living in the 2000 block of South Broadway, after seeing him exchange policy slips and topsheets with three Negroes at Page boulevard and Newstead avenue. The three Negroes were arrested several blocks away.

Detectives then went to the Leonard avenue house, where they arrested 21 Negroes, all of whom admitted, police said, that they were connected with the game. One of them, who said he was Fred Swon, identified himself as manager, police said.

REDS BAR AMERICAN TRAIN RETURNING SICK HUNGARIANS

BUDAPEST, Jan. 28 (AP)—American military mission informants said today Russian authorities had denied clearance for entry into Hungary of an American hospital train returning between 400 and 500 sick Hungarians from Germany.

The mission was informed through the Hungarian Government that clearance was denied "for humanitarian reasons"—that it was too cold to transport sick persons. The action was looked on as retaliation for American orders to suspend shipment out of Hungary into Germany of Swabians, the German minority in Hungary, last November.

The Russians have been insisting that the Swabians get out. The American authorities stopped the shipment on the grounds that the Swabians had been transported in unheated cars with little food and clothing, and that they were being deposited penniless, sick or dead in Germany.

You Need Not Hesitate To Dye Your Own Hair

No woman, or man, either, need have the slightest hesitancy in dyeing their own hair. With the Barbo recipe below, you can easily give yourself a real professional-looking job. One that will change those graying locks into younger looking, attractive, beautifully tinted hair. A job to be proud of.

Simply mix one box Barbo Compound, one ounce bay rum, ¼ ounce glycerine; add water to make ½ pint. Your druggist will supply these or mix for you at small cost. Comb into the hair as directed. Gray, faded, streaked hair gradually darkens, taking on a uniform, natural-looking color that does not wash out, rub off, affect permanents—is easily maintained. The Barbo recipe needs no skin test—is so easy to use, you can't go wrong if you follow simple directions.

STEERING DEVICE ON DUTCH PLANE POSSIBLY LOCKED

Rudder Chock Block Found Near Crash Scene—Mechanic Says He Didn't See It.

COPENHAGEN, Jan. 28 (UP)—A chock block used to hold the rudders of airliners rigid while on the ground was the key piece of evidence today in the investigation of the crash that killed 22 persons including Grace Moore and Prince Gustav Adolf.

There was a possibility that the block acidentally was left in the rudder mechanism, causing a failure of the steering apparatus as the plane left the ground.

The steel wedge was found by investigators 80 yards from the spot on the Kastrup airport where the plane crashed Sunday.

A 19-year-old apprentice who serviced the plane at its Copenhagen stopover on the Amsterdam-Stockholm run told investigators he did not see a rudder block on the plane during his checkup. He said the ground crew did not put on a rudder block when the plane landed.

He indicated that if a rudder block had been put on by someone the crew of the plane might have removed it before the takeoff.

The chairman of the investigating board said it was not impossible that the block had been tossed into the plane's luggage compartment by the crew. He said the explosion could have blown it from the wreckage. He added that the wedge was of Dutch origin and "may originate from the crashed plane."

Valentine Parera, husband of Miss Moore, said in Paris today upon his arrival from Cannes that he would await his wife's body in the French capital.

The Moore family announced in Chattanooga, Tenn., that funeral services would be held there, with burial in the family plot.

The body of Prince Gustaf Adolf was taken to the Swedish church in Copenhagen, where it lay in state in a coffin covered with the blue and yellow flag of Sweden. Services will be held here Thursday, after which the body will be taken to Stockholm aboard a Swedish warship.

B-29 CRASH LAID TO ENGINE FAILURE

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 28 (AP)—Engine trouble was suggested today as the probable cause of a B-29 Superfortress crash which killed 11 men at the Army's Kirtland Field.

Laden with secret equipment, the big craft wavered on the takeoff, climbed no more than 200 feet and crashed and burned in a narrow gully yesterday just south of the field's main runway.

One member of the 12-man crew survived, rescued by a pair of G.I firefighters. Hospital attendants gave him a fair chance to recover.

Officers said Soldier's Medal citations were being considered for the rescuers—Cpl. Isabel Guzman, Laredo, Tex., and Sgt. Eldon C. Hawkins, Oxnard, Calif. Risking an explosion, they also pulled another crewman out, but he died soon afterward.

Col. Perry M. Hoisington, Kirtland commandant, reported one engine of the plane was seen smoking and probably caught fire. He ventured a guess that another on the same side, also may have gone out of commission. This, he observed, would have left the pilot, Capt. Robert F. Bledsoe of El Paso, Tex., without directional control.

Bledsoe, 27-year-old Twentieth Bomber Command veteran who flew in early raids on Japan, was one of the dead. Two others were former prisoners of war—Col. William A. Hatcher Jr., 36, of Albuquerque and Cleveland, an early B-17 group commander who spent 18 months a captive after being shot down over Germany, and Master Sgt. G. B. Thacker, 31, Galesburg, Ill., who was liberated from the Japanese.

Other identified dead were Master Sgt. Fremont R. Alford, 42, Albuquerque; Master Sgt. Arnold J. Gunter, 33, Belen, N. M.; Master Sgt. John R. Hicks, LaGrange, Ill., and Cpl. George W. Ruffs, 21, Flint, Mich. Names of the others, including the survivor, were withheld pending assurance that their families had been notified.

Col. Hoisington said the plane was starting on a two-hour training flight.

Trans-Pacific Plane Reaches U.S With Dead Engine.

OAKLAND, Calif., Jan. 28 (AP)—A four-engine Transocean Airlines plane with 10 passengers and a crew of seven aboard landed at Oakland Municipal Airport yesterday afternoon after two air-sea rescue planes flew out to sea to meet it when one of its engines failed.

The plane, operated by Transocean under charter to the Philippines Air Lines, flew here from Manila. One engine quit 630 miles off the coast and the specially equipped rescue planes were requested by Transocean as a safety precaution.

$100,000 Offer Was Gamblers' Second Approach to Graziano

Fight With Davis Also Is Cited

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP) — Harvey Stemmer and Jerome Zarowitz, indicted on charges of attempted bribery and conspiracy to fix a professional football game, pleaded innocent at their arraignment today while the District Attorney's office said gangsters, gamblers and fight managers had been questioned in a broadened investigation of an admitted $100,000 boxing bribery attempt.

Stemmer, an inmate of Riker's Island Penitentiary, and Zarowitz, ex-convict who surrendered to the District Attorney earlier today, appeared before General Sessions Judge James G. Wallace.

Zarowitz was held in $10,000 bail and Stemmer, who is serving a prison term in connection with the bribery two years ago of several Brooklyn College basketball players, was returned to jail. No bail was asked in his case. Their indictment stemmed from the Paris professional football "fix."

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said yesterday the story of the bribe offer had been told to a grand jury by Middleweight Boxer Rocky Graziano.

Hogan said Graziano "admits he used a sore back as an excuse" to call off a fight with Ruben "Cowboy" Shank of Denver three days before it was scheduled Dec. 27. This, Hogan said, came after the scrappy fighter had been visited twice in his dressing room by a man offering the $100,000 if Graziano would throw the fight—a man whose name Graziano said he could not remember.

"Mind you," Hogan told reporters, "I don't think Graziano has told me everything he knows. He could have told me the names, I'm sure."

Men From Mars.

Hogan said that at their first meeting, Graziano told the bribe offerer "he would see him later," and when the man returned a few days later, with two other men, the fighter told them he was "thinking about" the offer and repeated, "I'll see you."

Although as an odds-on favorite Graziano felt he could defeat Shank, Hogan continued, "he realized he would be double-crossing persons who had bet on his opponent on the basis of his two meetings in the dressing room. He therefore decided to pull out of the match. He admits that he used a sore back as an excuse."

Hogan said Graziano also told him he had been approached by gamblers before his fight with Al (Bummy) Davis, who was slain later last year in a tavern holdup.

"A Joke," Says Rocky.

The district attorney said Graziano repeated his story in the presence of Edward P. Eagan, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, who called a hearing of the commission for Friday to consider the matter.

The fighter's only comment to reporters was, "Believe me, it's all a big joke."

Sol Straus, acting director of the Twentieth Century Sporting Club, had announced early yesterday that Graziano, rated next to Joe Louis as a fight gate draw, would begin training Saturday at Greenwood Lake, N.J., for the title fight with Tony Zale.

Last night Straus said: "In connection with all fights that Rocky Graziano may engage in in the future under the . . . club's auspices, he will abide by any request made by the district attorney and by any ruling made by the State Athletic Commission."

Back Injury Affirmed.

As to Graziano's back condition which led to the fight cancellation, Dr. S. Sym Newman of the State Boxing Commission, who examined him, said: "I found a positive sign—certain evidence of a sacroiliac. If Rocky was faking, it's news to me."

While Hogan said he was extending his investigation of sports fixing here, at Albany State Senator Isadore Dollinger, Bronx Democrat, asked for a legislative investigation.

Dollinger cited newspaper stories "calling attention to unfair, unwholesome and deplorable conditions in connection with the arrangement, staging and general supervision of boxing exhibitions."

Del Ennis Signs

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 28 (AP)—Del Ennis, outfielder of the Philadelphia Phillies and 1946 Rookie of the Year, today signed a one-year contract and announced he was "well satisfied."

Herb Pennock, general manager of the Philadelphia National League club, declined to discuss any details of the contract but said he was confident Ennis "will have a good year this coming season and go on to become one of the stars of baseball."

Ennis—who will be married next Saturday to his childhood sweetheart, Lenore Claar—batted .314 with the Phillies last year, finished third among the National League sluggers. He hit 17 home runs.

A graduate of Olney High School in this city, he served in the Navy in 1944 and 1945.

It'll Be Dizzy on the Air For All of Browns' Games

By W. J. McGoogan

The battle of the airways has been joined. Dizzy Dean and Johnny O'Hara are going to broadcast at home and abroad games of the Browns, just as Harry Caray and Gabby Street are to air the contests of the Cardinals.

Dean called a conference of newspaper and radio men at a cocktail party at Hotel Jefferson last night and announced that he would, with O'Hara, be on station WIL to broadcast all the games of the Browns under the sponsorship of the Falstaff Brewing Corporation.

"I was called up some time ago and told I was off the air," Dizzy said, "and I thought it was kidding until I found out it was true. But I ain't off the air and will broadcast the games of the Brownies.

"So far as the Cardinal front office is concerned, I'm glad of it," he continued, "but I'll still be pulling for the Redbirds down on the field because they're a great bunch of guys."

Then members of the Brownie organization, of the Falstaff Company and of the advertising agency handling the account said their pieces of congratulation to Dean.

Among the speakers were the new Brownie manager, Herold (Muddy) Ruel, and Bill DeWitt, general manager. Dick Muckerman, president, is in a hospital and was unable to attend.

DeWitt said that some of the Browns' games would be televised over KSD-TV on an experimental basis.

Later Ruel stated he was confident that the Browns are a growing organization and he'll be happy if he can build a few steps this season. He told of his confidence in the future of the club and spoke particularly of the hopes he had for catcher Paul Moss.

"I've heard lots of fine things about him," said Ruel, "and he'll get every chance to prove they're true."

He mentioned several other players on the team who he thought would be helpful and hoped the additional strength the club needs would be developed.

"You know pennants come to you, you don't win them," Ruel said, "that is unless you have such an all powerful club as the old Yankees used to be. Otherwise, a club which is set with 10 or 12 championship players gets the breaks and comes through."

Charity Basket Card Tomorrow at Belleville

A basketball doubleheader, with proceeds earned for the March of Dimes campaign, will be played tomorrow night at Belleville Township gymnasium and will feature a game between two service teams that last year were finalists in the Technical Division tournament of the Army Air Forces.

A 7:30 contest between Belleville Junior College and Harris Teachers' College will be followed by a game between Scott Field and Chanute Field, the latter of which won the service championship.

Mikan Drops Suit and Will Rejoin Gears

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (UP)—George Mikan has agreed to drop his legal efforts to withdraw from his contract with the American Gears of the National Basketball League and will return to the team, Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher announced today.

Mikan, college All-America center when a player at De Paul, sued on Dec. 12 to have his five-year contract with the Gears declared void, charging it was one-sided.

Fisher said that both the Gears' management and Mikan were satisfied with terms of a new agreement. Details were worked out in a series of pre-trial conferences held in Fisher's chambers.

Mrs. Zaharias Wins First Match

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 28 (AP)—Louise Suggs of Lithia Springs, Ga., was defeated 2 and 1 by Peggy Kirk of Findlay, O., in the upper bracket of the Helen Dougherty women's golf tournament here today.

The upset eliminated a star player. Miss Suggs won the tournament in 1946 and 1945, and also is Southern women's golf champion and North-South champion.

In the lower bracket Babe Zaharias of Denver, Colo., the medalist, marched ahead by defeating Rosann Shaffer of Toledo, 4 and 3.

Dyer Visits Breadon On Way to Meeting

Manager Eddie Dyer of the World Champion Cardinals arrived in St. Louis this morning and immediately went to the club offices at Sportsman's Park for a conference with Owner Sam Breadon.

Breadon, Dyer and other members of the Cardinal organization will depart this evening for the East. There will be a stopover at Allentown, Pa., where the Redbirds are building a new park for their farm team, and Thursday night Eddie will be one of the guests of honor at a Philadelphia baseball writers' dinner.

Breadon will attend a major league meeting in New York and the annual banquet of the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers Sunday night.

Golf Club to Complete Plans for U.S. Open

The St. Louis District Golfers' Association will hold its annual meeting tomorrow night at the St. Louis Country Club, with plans for the U. S. open June 12, 13 and 14 here, expected to be completed. Officers also will be elected.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Baksi or Woodcock, Louis Next Foe?

THERE will be a heavyweight title (British Empire) fight in Albert Hall, London, next month, that may reveal the next opponent of Champion Joe Louis. . . The match is nothing to get excited about. . . Joe Baksi, who rates fifth among available heavyweight hopes, will battle Bruce Woodcock, the British ex-titlist, who is rated sixth.

Neither seems to rate, when compared to the Bronze Bomber. . . But Joe is inclined to hope that Woodcock will win, because he considers a fight with the Briton about five times as valuable as one with Baksi.

He figures Woodcock would draw a million dollars, Baski $200,000 . . . So the champion's preference is not artistic, but financial.

Baksi's record, while studded with kayos for the past seven years, has been in and out . . . But in beating Tami Mauriello, he appears in line for a victory over Woodcock . . . Tami kayoed Woodcock in a fight in this country . . . A victory by Baksi obviously would eliminate the Britisher as a drawing card against Louis . . . Baksi recently beat Freddie Mills, British light heavyweight, to earn the right to meet Woodcock.

Boxers today are all financial-minded, when arranging bouts . . . Wonder how they'd like it if the calendar were turned back several decades . . . Once upon a time gate receipts yielded next to nothing . . . Fighters had backers . . . They paid their fighters out of the bets they won—if any . . . "The bout will be for $5000 a side," ringside announcers often recited . . . Sometimes more.

Even when "purses" came into the picture, manager and fighter very often wagered their share of the purse on the result.

Not many fighters risk their earnings that way today . . . They wrangle with promoters over the guarantees or percentages . . . But take no chances, by gambling their payoff checks on the result . . . They hang on to their money—until they get out of the building. Then they let it go not wisely but too well.

Diving Finish in Footrace Illegal.

TRACK and field rules require that a runner, to win a race, must "breast," or break the tape in crossing the finish line. . . . But an exception developed at the Inquirer games in Philadelphia last Friday . . . The point was brought up by Henry Schemmer, University City track coach who has produced some famous teams in recent years.

He called attention to a picture of the finish of a girls' relay race as it appeared in the Post-Dispatch of Sunday. . . . It showed the 14-year-old Shirley Eckel, of Canada, anchor runner for her team, plunging head first across the finish line. . . . The tape was unbroken and was being breasted by Nell Jackson, of Tuskegee Institute. . . . Miss Eckel was declared the winner over her opponent.

"I'm wondering how the officials could declare the Canadian girl winner," Schemmer commented to this writer. . . . "Rule 25 makes it mandatory that the winner break the tape. . . . In this case it appears that she dived over the line first. . . . And that's one thing the rule was evidently designed to guard against."

A Philadelphia Bulletin account describes the incident as follows, without explaining the ruling of the officials:

"In helping her team win the women's relay, 14-year-old Shirley Eckel, of the Malvernette team, literally dove over the finish line. . .

"As anchor runner the little blonde felt herself falling, as she neared the finish line. . . Instead of trying to regain her stride she let her momentum carry her across, her hands and legs extended like a diver as she hit the boards beyond the tape. She didn't show a scratch when she got up."

Ordinarily such a performance would have resulted in disqualification and Nell Jackson, the Negro girl who finished upright and breasted the tape a fraction later, would have been declared the victor.

JOE BAKSI (standing), 26-year-old New York heavy, shown just after flooring TAMI MAURIELLO, in a 10-rounder won by Joe, back in 1944. Baksi, a Polish-American from Wilkes Barre, Pa., with a powerful punch, is matched to fight Bruce Woodcock, British Empire champ, in London, next month.

After All It's Dumped in His Lap.

"IT'S not my affair," explained Commissioner Happy Chandler at the Coast baseball meeting, when Judge W. G. Bramham called attention to serious gambling conditions in the minor leagues . . . But the mess landed right in Happy's lap, just the same . . . An unhappy landing for Happy.

Two and possibly more players have been declared ineligible by the retiring head of the minor leagues . . . The reason Judge Bramham was irked by Happy's refusal to become involved earlier is this: If crooked gambling is to go unchallanged in the minors, young players coming up to the majors will bring some very bad and dangerous habits with them . . . The whole baseball edifice might topple.

Browns Purchase Ground for Park At San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 28 (AP)—Richard Muckerman, president of the St. Louis Browns who own the San Antonio Missions in the Texas League, yesterday approved the purchase of a 15-acre site on the south side of the city for the construction of a modern baseball park.

The Browns announced last Saturday they had taken an option on the former circus field, but that the final decision was up to Muckerman, who is in St. Louis recovering from a recent operation.

Muckerman also announced that Charles DeWitt of the St. Louis organization, who arranged for the purchase of the site, would return to San Antonio within the next few days to supervise the transfer of the grandstand from Tech Field, the old home of the Missions, to the new location.

The work is expected to be completed and the field ready by the opening of the Texas League season, April 10.

Tech Field has been purchased by the San Antonio Transit Co. as a site for bus repair shops and office buildings.

Babe Ruth Gets Some Sunshine, Condition Is Reported 'Not So Good'

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Babe Ruth, former home run king who underwent a serious neck operation on Jan. 6, was reported "not so good today" at French Hospital where yesterday he was permitted on the roof briefly for some sunshine.

Hospital officials said that his name was returned to the list of patients who are in poor condition. Ruth yesterday walked about the hospital and finally was allowed outside for a brief period.

They Twisted My Words—Rocky

Rocky Graziano, unshaven, angry and bewildered, at the Brooklyn home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Pauline, told his side of the story today of the alleged attempt to bribe him into throwing a fight. His story follows.

By Rocky Graziano
(As told to Jack Cuddy of the United Press.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (UP)—Sure, I read the district attorney's announcement about guys offerin' me a hundred grand. But the way he announced it and the way I said it was two different things. I can't use words like those guys in the D.A.'s office; but I gave 'em the straight story, and they took my words and twisted 'em around to make me look bad.

They had plenty time to get the story straight, because they bulldogged me for 18½ hours. An' then they heard me tell the same story before the grand jury. I wouldn't let out a peep now, except that the way the district attorney's announcement screwed things up might ruin me for boxin'. An' I want to start trainin' Saturday.

Well, the whole thing started Saturday forenoon, about 10:30. I go over to my new house at 1157 Ocean Parkway, to fix up some things there. When I get to the house to do the fixin', I find four detectives there. They say the district attorney wants to see me; but they don't say why. Anyway, two of them take me to Mr. Hogan's office.

The Davis Angle.

They start in easy, askin' about my vacation at Miami, an' how's the family. Then they ask if anybody ever tried to bribe me before a fight—to put it in the bag, you know.

I grin and say a lotta guys had kidded me around the gyms about maybe I'd do a tank job—you know, the way guys kid around the gyms. I say one one guy even come into my dressing room at Stillman's gym before the Bummy Davis fight and asked, "How'dya like to make a hunnert grand, pal?"

I tell the district attorney I figure the guy in the dressing room is gaggin', and that I stretch out my hand to the guy and say, "Sure give me the hundred grand."

ROCKY GRAZIANO

I don't know the guy—maybe seen him a dozen times; you know, like you see a hundred guys when you're comin' in and out of dressing rooms—fellows standin' around sayin', "H'ya Rocky?" and hittin' you a pat on the back.

The Man Returns.

I explain this same guy comes to me again when I'm training at Stillman's for the Shank fight. He asks, "How you feel, Rocky? Like to make a good deal on this fight?" I figure he ain't kiddin' then. But before I can say anything, Whitey Bimstein (trainer) comes into the room, and the guy leaves.

I figure nuts! Maybe this guy is just tryin' to get me riled up. A lotta guys'll do that, you know—say things to make you mad and get off form while you're trainin'. They figure you won't hit 'em because you're a fighter. So I figured why should I tell Irving Cohen (manager) and Whitey, and just start a ruckus.

Three days later this same bozo is standin' outside the dressing room, an' he says, "Don't forget, that deal is still on. You'll make a hundred grand." I just laughed at him and said, "Are you kiddin'?" Then Bimstein came in and the guy blew.

The D. A. and his helpers are firing questions at me like a machine gun now. Would I know the guy if I saw him again. Sure, I say, I'd know him, and I'd be glad to point him out if they'd bring him around. No, I don't know his name. They say I do. "I don't!" "You do!" "I don't!" "You do!" I get so mad I start cussin'.

What about me callin' off the Shank fight, they want to know.

Manager Called It Off.

I tell 'em I didn't call it off; my manager did. I wouldn't a called it off, because I figured I could beat Shank even if I was half dead. And I guess I looked half dead in trainin'. My right side felt numb when I was doin' road work, and I had a cold and a sore back.

Because I felt so lousy, I am relieved when my manager calls it off, even though I could beat Shank easy.

"Oh, so you were relieved, eh?" says one of Hogan's assistants. Then he says I was relieved because I won't have to take a dive or double-cross the guys who bet on Shank. We fight over this about an hour.

Well, about 3 a.m. Sunday, they call in Eddie Eagan, chairman of the boxing commission. They tell him the story, twisting everything all around. After they've loaded Eagan with the wrong dope, they let me tell him my side. By that time Eagan don't seem too interested, and he says I should have reported to him what the hundred-grand guy said. I said if I reported every time anybody mentioned "tank" to me, I'd be runnin' my shoes off, goin' back and forth to the commission.

Then Hogan asks me if I knew certain racket guys and bookmakers. I said sure I knew them—from around the fight game and from around Second avenue, where I was raised. And what was wrong about that? A guy can't help where he was brought up, or who hangs around gymnasiums.

Flyers Tackle Barons Tonight; Highton to Play

Hec Highton will be back in the goal for the Flyers when they oppose the Cleveland Barons, top-ranking team in the Western Division of the American Hockey League, at The Arena tonight. Game time, 8:15.

The regular net-minder of the St. Louis club was injured 10 days ago—struck by a flying disc—and 12 stitches were required to close a wound on the upper lip. Doug (Red) Gilbert filled in for Highton for two games.

Bill Allum, recently traded by the Flyers to Cleveland, will be performing against his old teammates. Coach Bob Davidson of the Flyers said he planned no changes in his lineup which tied Providence, 6-6, Saturday night, to snap a five-game losing streak. That means defensemen Doug Lane and Winger Wendell Jamieson, players obtained in the Allum deal, will be included in the St. Louis lineup. Ernie Trigg, third man obtained from the Barons, is not expected to be in uniform.

Cleveland, topping the division, has won 28 games, tied three and lost 10. The Flyers have won 10, lost 22 and tied 12. That's the difference between first place and last.

Schall Wins Casting Event After Two Extra Innings With Forcade

The dry fly casting competition, second event of a series of such contests being held at the sports and travel show at Kiel Auditorium, is on the program for tonight.

In the ⅜-ounce accuracy event yesterday Charley Schall scored a one-point triumph over Clem Forcade in the second castoff, 94 to 93, after each had tied in regular competition at 96 each.

The first of the two cast-offs produced scores of 94 as Schall missed the winning point by inches on his last long cast. Both Schall and Forcade belong to the St. Louis casting club.

Today at the sports show will be Wisconsin Day, that state being one of those represented in vacationland exhibits. Seven members of the St. Louis Bombers professional basketball team will appear this evening to give pointers on their sport.

Pennsylvania Senator Introduces Bill to Outlaw Waiver Clause

Freedom of Players Goal, He Asserts

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 28 (AP)—Charges of "peonage and slave labor" confronted professional baseball owners today after a bill was introduced in the Pennsylvania Senate to outlaw the waiver clause in all player contracts.

Seeking what he referred to as "emancipation" of organized baseball, State Senator H. Jerome Jaspan said his bill, introduced yesterday, would permit players to become free agents automatically on termination of their present contracts.

The Philadelphia Democrat declared the measure, affecting only players with major or minor league clubs operating in the Keystone state, would prevent the sale, exchange or transfer of any man without his consent and knowledge.

"Professional ballplayers should be considered as more than mere baggage, merchandise or cattle to be traded, bartered or exchanged at the will of a manager or owner of a team without the consent and knowledge of the ballplayer," Jaspan told a reporter.

Detroit's sale of Hank Greenberg to the Pittsburgh Pirates was cited by Jaspan as "a striking case" where a player was waived out of a league and "sold for a fabulous sum without his consent and knowledge."

The present waiver rule permits a major league ball club to sell a player out of the loop if all teams in the same league pass up the waiver.

Jaspan's bill provides penalties up to six months' imprisonment and a fine of $5000. He asserted that if Pennsylvania's Republican-dominated Legislature passes the measure it would possibly become a pattern for other states.

The bill would specifically apply to the Philadelphia Phillies and Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League; Philadelphia Athletics of the American League; Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, Williamsport of the Eastern League; Allentown, York, Harrisburg, Lancaster of the Inter-State League, and Pennsylvania teams in the Middle Atlantic and the North Atlantic Leagues.

'I'm Finished, Let Others Go After Joe's Crown,' Conn Says

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 28 (AP)—Billy Conn arrived here yesterday for a vacation with the comment that "I'm retired now, and I'm doing nothing and find it a heck of a tough job."

Conn, who hasn't fought since Joe Louis put him on the floor in the seventh round last year, said "Mike Jacobs wants me to box again but I'm getting too old. It takes a lot of work to get back in shape. No, I'm not kidding—I'm finished. Let the other fellows go after Joe's crown.

"If there is a guy who can beat Louis, I want to meet him. He must be a helluva man. I can't see any of these heavyweights around today getting near Joe. Tami Mauriello is my choice as the best contender. Tami is a good rugged fellow and a hard puncher.

"To beat Joe a fighter will have to be able to hit and at the same time turn in an exceptionally good boxing performance.

"Joe's a great champion, no bum is taking him out of there. Some young kid will have to do the job and that day won't be around for a good many years."

Billy had no beefs about the NBA ratings which removed him from the list of contenders and outstanding boxers. "They know I'm retired and have no intention of attempting a comeback," Conn surmised.

Anti-Gambling Rules in A. A. Grid Contracts

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—James Crowley's resignation as commissioner of the All-America Conference was formally accepted today as the young loop's club-owners met and outlined their plans to cope with the gambling menace.

For the first time the owners revealed the conference's league policy and rules on gambling, a code which was read to all players at the start of last season and a copy of which will be attached to all contracts this year.

The rules, labeled prohibitive conduct, say that anyone attempting to "throw" a game or withholding guilty knowledge of such an attempt from the commissioner will be barred from the All-America Conference for life.

Other rules say that any person with one of the clubs who offers a gift to another person "for services rendered or supposed to have been rendered or supposed to be rendered" for losing a game, or for failure to advise the commissioner of such a gift, will be declared ineligible for three years.

Any person who offers a gift to a game official under those conditions will be barred for life.

Any persons connected with the league proper or any member club, who makes a bet on a game in which the bettor has no duty to perform, will be declared ineligible for one year. If the bettor has a duty to perform, he will be barred for life.

In addition to making the conduct rules public, the owners agreed today to police their parks with their own detectives and to arrest any spectators found gambling.

They are Capt. Tom Hamilton, coach of the Navy eleven, and Lou Little of Columbia University.

Previously mentioned were Maj. Gen. Leslie Groves, head of the war-time atom bomb project; Franklin (Whitey) Lewis, sports editor of the Cleveland News; Frank Lausche, former Governor of Ohio; James Mead, former United States Senator from New York; Warren Brown, Chicago sports columnist, and Don Miller of Cleveland, former Notre Dame Four Horseman and now a prominent attorney.

Quarterbacks' Basket Award To St. Louis U.

A busy session of the Quarterbacks' Club luncheoneers tomorrow will include not only the Rose Bowl movies and appearance of Illinois football stars but also the award of the club's city college basketball trophy to St. Louis University.

A. Carl Weber announced today that Coach John Flanigan and his stars, Ed Macauley and Dan Miller, will attend tomorrow's noon gathering at the DeSoto Hotel to receive the basketball team award for the second straight year. St. Louis has twice defeated Washington University this season.

The Rose Bowl program will include the appearance of Max Wenskaunas, Illinois center, in addition to the guests previously announced, assistant coach Burt Ingwersen and St. Louisan Russ Steger, Ilinois back.

ASSORTED STOCKS MAKE NEW GAINS IN BIGGER TRADE

Steels, Motors, Rails, Coppers Among Issues Rising Fractions to Three Points at Best.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP) — Emphasis remained on the recovery side of today's stock market with selected steels, motors, rails, coppers and pivotal industrials adding fractions to around 3 points.

While slowdowns were plentiful after a hesitant opening, activity picked up at intervals as more urgent bids arrived. Transfers for the full proceedings were among the best of the past two weeks. Profit taking on Monday's late rally made for considerable irregularity in the forenoon. Thereafter the direction generally was upward. Top marks were shaded here and there at the close and minor losses persisted.

Of 965 issues traded, 560 closed higher, 210 lower and 195 unchanged.

Sales for day were 1,080,000 shares compared with 900,000 shares yesterday.

In the gaining division were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, Woolworth, Kennecott, Phelps Dodge, American Smelting, Santa Fe, Norfolk & Western, du Pont, Pepsi-Cola and Eastman Kodak.

Coppers were aided by the action of American Smelting in boosting the price of the red metal a cent a pound.

Earnings and dividends bolstered individual stocks but failed to spur others concerned. Bullish sentiment still was predicated partly on the revival of hopes for labor peace and greater industrial production. Doubters regarding the business outlook and taxes again held aloof or trimmed accounts.

Higher on the curb were Middle West Corp., American Gas, Cities Service, Electric Bond & Share and Pantepec. Sales were 630,000 shares of which 295,100 were Electric Bond & share "rights." The total yesterday was 820,000.

C.&O. ASKS FOR TENDERS OF N.Y.C. COMMON STOCK

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Chesapeake & Ohio Railway today called for tenders of New York Central Railroad common stock up to Feb. 11.

This was the second publicly announced move of the Robert R. Young interests to buy into New York Central.

Alleghany Corp., investment company controlling C. & O., announced Jan. 8 purchase of 162,500 shares of New York Central common, or about 2.5 per cent of its outstanding stock. Young is chairman of both Alleghany and C. & O.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—The New York Central Railroad Co. reported for 1946 net loss after all charges of $10,447,600, compared with net income of $24,412,525 in 1945.

Railway operating revenues last year declined to $616,784,755 from $654,363,799, and railway operating expenses contracted to $558,351,393 from $580,680,970.

Net railway operating income in 1946 (after provision for railway tax accruals and federal tax adjustments but before fixed charges) totaled $15,447,219, compared with $49,944,321 in 1945.

Total fixed charges last year amounted to $40,958,739, compared with $44,075,835.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—Norfolk & Western Railway Co. directors declared an extra dividend of $3 on common shares and regular quarterly payment of $2.50, both payable March 10 to holders of record Feb. 13. A similar extra was paid in March, 1946, which was the first extra since a $5 payment in December 1941.

Southern Railway Co. reported net earnings for the year ended Dec. 31 applicable to the balance for common stock of $6,252,269, equal to $4.81 per share, compared with $13,298,720, or $10.24 for a similar period last year.

COTTON MARKET CLOSES 90C TO $2.15 HIGHER

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—The cotton futures market was firm today as aggressive mill buying against textile sales met limited offerings. The steadiness was predicated on the growing tightness in spot cotton supplies and was also aided by considerable easing in liquidating pressure from commission house interests.

Traders commented that the market appeared oversold.

Late afternoon prices were $1.40 to $1.80 a bale higher than the previous close, March, 31.09; May, 30.35; and July 28.75.

Cotton futures advanced in the final hour of trading on persistent mill buying and short covering by New Orleans and Chicago interests, aided by a scarcity of offerings.

U. S. STEEL NET $2.86 A SHARE LAST 3 MOS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP) — United States Steel Corp. reported net income in the final quarter of 1946 was $31,215,636, equal to $2.86 a common share, compared with $13,267,300 or 80 cents a share reported for the similar 1945 period.

This brought net for the year, subject to year-end adjustments, to $88,683,530 or $7.29 a share against $58,015,056 or $3.77 a share in 1945.

Directors declared the usual dividend of $1 on common shares payable March 10 to holders of record Feb. 7.

The fourth quarter 1946 income compared with net of $33,329,353 or $3.11 a share in the third quarter, which included some $3,800,000 of non-recurring items.

Despite the interruptions caused by the steel strike and two coal stoppages, 1946 production of steel ingots and castings was reported at 72.9 per cent of capacity compared with 82 per cent in 1945.

Finished steel shipments of 4,902,742 net tons in the fourth 1946 quarter compared with 4,457,557 in the preceding period and 4,096,568 in the similar 1945 period. Total shipments for 1946 were 15,247,752 tons against 18,410,000 in the preceding year.

Quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on preferred stock was declared payable Feb. 20 to holders of record Feb. 3.

The report noted that no provision had been made in the income statement for any possible liability for portal-to-portal pay.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Universal Pictures Co., Inc., announced in its annual report to stokholders record net earnings for the year ended Nov. 2 of $4,565,219, equal to $5.32 per common share, compared with $3,910,928, or $4.86 per common share, for the previous fiscal year.

Marine Midland Corporation in its annual report to stockholders reported net operating income for the year ended Dec. 31 of $5,353,253.43, equal to 95 cents per share, compared with $4,816,243, or 85 cents per share, a year ago. Provision for federal income, state franchise and other taxes was $1,984,150, compared with $1,688,975 in 1945.

Preliminary reports of Commonwealth & Southern and subsidiaries show net profit for 12 months ended Dec. 31 of $1,795,681, equal to $22.06 per $6 preferred share, compared to $14,584,928, or $9.84 a share, for last year. After payment of a dividend Jan. 13, arrearages on $6 preferred stock amounted to $24.50 per share.

Willys-Overland Motors, Inc., reported net earnings for the quarter ended Dec. 31 of $332,315, equal to 6 cents per common share, compared with a net loss of $1,604,555 for the same quarter in 1945.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 28 (AP)—A net profit of 16,300,341 for 6 months ended Dec. 31, 1946, equal to $2.53 a share on common stock, announced today by the Procter & Gamble Co.

Richard R. Deupree, president, said $14,500,000 had been set aside as a reserve for inventory price decline and $18,794,000 had been paid in federal income taxes.

It compared with a net profit of $9,456,033, or $1.43 a common share, for the 1945 corresponding period.

Liggett & Myers One Common Stock Plan.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Directors of Liggett & Myers Tobacco Co. have approved a proposal to overhaul the company's capital structure by changing the present common B stock into common shares.

The move would give voting control of the company to the present holders of common B stock who currently have no vote.

Stockholders will be asked to approve the move at the annual meeting March 10. Affirmative vote of two-thirds of the outstanding preferred stock as well as the affirmative vote of two-thirds of outstanding common stock is required for adoption.

Company spokesmen said approval of the plan would result in more convenient transaction of the business of the firm.

MISSOURI-KANSAS-TEXAS RAILROAD COMPANY
Request for Bids on Equipment Trust Certificates

Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad Company proposes to arrange for the issue, subject to the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, as hereinafter set forth, of $3,900,000.00 principal amount of Missouri-Kansas-Texas Equipment Trust Certificates, Series 1947, to be issued by Republic National Bank of Dallas, as Trustee, to be dated March 1, 1947, and to bear dividend warrants at a rate per annum to be named by the successful bidder, payable September 1 and March 1 in each year, commencing September 1, 1947.

The principal amount of the Certificates will be payable in fifteen annual installments of $260,000.00 each beginning on March 1, 1948, and ending on March 1, 1962, and will be guaranteed as to the principal amount thereof and the dividends thereon, by endorsement, by Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad Company.

The said Equipment Trust Certificates are to be issued under an Agreement dated March 1, 1947, between James G. Blaine and Carl S. Hoffman, Vendors, Republic National Bank of Dallas, Texas, and Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad Company, and are to be substantially of the tenor set out in said Agreement.

Said Equipment Trust Certificates are to be issued to provide, in part, funds required for the acquisition of the following equipment:
1 4000 horsepower Diesel Passenger Road Locomotive
7 4500 horsepower Diesel Freight Road Locomotives
1 Mail Baggage Car
3 Coaches
1 Coach-Lounge-Buffet Car
1 Dining Car
7 Sleepers (Roomette-Bedroom)
1 Observation-Lounge-Sleeper

The title to each unit of equipment is to be vested in the Trustee for the benefit of the holders of Equipment Trust Certificates, free from all liens and encumbrances in accordance with the terms of the Equipment Trust Agreement.

The total cost of the railroad equipment above described is estimated to be not less than $4,875,000.00. In the event that the cost of said equipment shall not amount to at least $4,875,000.00, there will be subjected to the Equipment Trust Lease and Agreement sufficient other new standard-gauge railroad equipment so that the cost of all the equipment subjected to the Lease and Agreement will be at least $4,875,000.00. Not less than twenty per cent (20%) of the cost of all the equipment subjected to the Lease and Agreement will be paid from funds provided by Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad Company as advance rental under the terms and conditions of the Lease and Agreement.

Pursuant to regulations prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Commission in its order of October 6, 1919, as amended October 4, 1920, in its Docket Ex Parte No. 54, Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad Company invites bids for subscription to the entire issue of said Equipment Trust Certificates, but not a part thereof, at a specified price, which must be not less than ninety-eight and one-half (98½%) per cent of the principal amount, plus accrued dividends from March 1, 1947, to date of delivery. Each bid should also name an annual dividend rate to be borne by the Certificates in a multiple of one-eighth of one per cent. Each bid should be submitted in a plain envelope, securely sealed, bearing no indication of the name of the bidder or the amount of the bid marked "Bid under proposed contract No. E-4 for Missouri-Kansas-Texas Trust Certificates, Series 1947," and shall be delivered to the undersigned at his office, Room 1506 Railway Exchange Building, St. Louis 1, Missouri, and must be received by 12:00 O'clock Noon Central Standard Time on February 11, 1947. Bids pursuant to this invitation must be submitted in duplicate on forms furnished by the undersigned.

Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad Company will accept the bid affording the lowest aggregate net interest cost to it. The net interest cost for such purpose shall be the total interest payable at the rate named in each bid from March 1, 1947, to the various maturities, deducting therefrom the premium or adding thereto the discount, if any, resulting from the price named in such bid. If two or more bids shall show an identical lowest interest cost, the successful bidder (unless the company shall reject all bids) shall be chosen by lot. Notwithstanding the foregoing the right is reserved to reject any and all bids. All bids must be submitted subject to the terms hereof and to the approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the assumption by the Railroad Company of obligation and liability in respect of the Certificates. The subscription effected by the acceptance of any bid will also be subject to such approval of said Commission. Notice of acceptance of the most favorable bid, subject to the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission, will be mailed, delivered or telegraphed to the accepted bidder not later than 3:00 P. M., Central Standard Time on February 12, 1947.

Delivery of the Certificates, in temporary or definitive form, will be made against payment in full of the subscription price therefor to Republic National Bank of Dallas, Trustee, at the office of Bankers Trust Company, 16 Wall Street, New York, N. Y., on such date as the undersigned may designate, on five days' notice to the accepted bidder, such date of payment to be as soon as practicable after the Interstate Commerce Commission shall have authorized the assumption of obligation and liability by the Railroad Company in respect of said Certificates and approved the bid, not later, however, than thirty days after such approval, and not earlier in any event than March 3, 1947. If the Interstate Commerce Commission shall not have given its approval as aforesaid on or before March 15, 1947, then the accepted bidder may withdraw the bid and cancel his subscription, without liability of either party to the other, by delivering written notice of withdrawal to the undersigned not later than March 20, 1947.

The validity of the Certificates, the Equipment Trust Agreement and Lease, and the guaranty of Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad Company as to payment of principal of and dividends on said Certificates will be passed upon by the General Counsel to said Railroad Company, whose opinion will, upon request, be furnished to the successful bidder.

Copies of the proposed form of Equipment Trust Agreement and Lease and form for Submission of Bids are available upon application at the office of the undersigned.

R. J. Morfa,
Chairman of the Board,
Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad Company,
Room 1506 Railway Exchange Building,

EUROPEAN CROP NEWS FACTOR IN WHEAT RISE

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (AP)—Grain futures advanced sharply at the Board of Trade today on prospects of heavier exports. Mixed at the opening futures started a steady advance on pessimistic European crop reports.

Short covering in the wheat pit aided the rally as did a report that a French mission was in Washington seeking permission for additional wheat and corn purchases.

Offerings in all pits were light and what profit cashing developed was easily absorbed, until near the close, when best levels were not maintained.

Corn bookings were placed at 205,000 bushels with sales at 15,000 bushels. The Commodity Credit Corp. announced purchase of 825,000 bushels of corn here yesterday.

At the finish wheat was ⅝ to 1⅛c higher than yesterday's close, March $2.10@2.09¾. Corn was ⅛c lower to ⅝c higher, March $1.30¼@1.30. Oats were ⅞c higher to 1¼c higher, March 75⅝@75½c. Barley was 1¼c higher, March $1.16½.

LOCAL CASH GRAIN.

MERCHANT'S EXCHANGE, Jan. 28—In the cash grain market today wheat was steady; 3 cars sold. Corn was steady, with 11 cars selling. Oats were 1c higher; 1 car sold.

Sales were as follows:

Corn—No. 2 yellow $1.30¼@1.30¾; No. 3 yellow $1.28½@1.28¾; No. 4 yellow $1.24¼; No. 4 mixed $1.24¼; No. 5 mixed $1.31½.

Oats—No. 1 mixed 83½.

COPPER PRICE PUT UP 1 CENT TO 20½ CENTS

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—American Smelting & Refining Co. increased the price of copper one cent a pound to 20½c, delivered in the Connecticut Valley. Other sellers have not yet followed.

This was the highest price since the 1929 peak of 23.87½c per pound.

The last OPA price of November 8 was 14⅜c a pound. With removal of price controls copper jumped on Nov. 12 to 17½c. The next change followed eight days later when producers on Nov. 20 quoted the metal at 19½c. This held until today.

The 1946 smelter output totaled 594,000 short tons, compared with 782,726 the previous year, and only slightly more than half of the record figure of 1,092,939 tons mined in 1943.

2 BIG CAN CONCERNS FINED FOR PRICE PACT

$45,000 Levy Against American and Continental and 7 Officers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28 (AP)—United States District Judge Michael J. Roche yesterday fined the American Can Co., the Continental Can Co. and seven officers of the two companies $45,000 for conspiracy in restraint of trade on their pleas of no contest.

The two companies manufacture 85 per cent of all cans sold in the United States.

The officials were Maurice J. Sullivan, chairman of the board of American; Dudley W. Figgis, president of American; C. H. Black, executive vice president of American; C. C. Conway, chairman of the board and president of Continental; S. J. Steele, vice chairman of the board of Continental; W. P. Murray, general sales manager of Continental's eastern district, all of New York, and George H. Kellog, vice president of American, of Chicago.

The indictment charged they agreed on price and discounts; to charge not less than the OPA ceiling; to coerce other can manufacturers into maintaining ceiling prices; to insure identical delivered prices to canners by adopting so-called freight equalization; to solicit no business of each other's customers; to allocate exclusive sales territories, and to allocate between themselves particular fields of production.

FOR NEWSPRINT INVESTIGATION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—The House Republican Steering Committee approved yesterday creation of a special House committee to investigate newsprint and paper supplies.

Committeemen said the investigation probably will be approved by the House next week. The resolution was introduced by Representative Clarence Brown (Rep.), Ohio.

UNIVERSAL PICTURES

Pictures of Distinction

UNIVERSAL PICTURES COMPANY is now devoting its creative and technical resources to the production of pictures of outstanding distinction. The production of so-called "B" pictures, Westerns and serials has been eliminated.

It is our belief that the trend among the millions of moviegoers both in America and in countries overseas is toward increasing selectivity in their choice of screen entertainment.

Implementing this new production policy, Universal Pictures has acquired the entire assets of International Pictures Corporation, and the production organizations of the two companies have been merged. This combination of creative and technical talent, story properties and star contracts gives Universal one of the strongest production organizations in the motion picture industry.

William Goetz and Leo Spitz, outstanding producers who headed International Pictures, have been placed in full charge of Universal's production activities at the studio. The company's productions now carry the trade mark of Universal-International Pictures.

In addition to 25 pictures of distinction being produced at its own studio, Universal Pictures has arranged for the exclusive distribution in this country and in Central and South America of British pictures produced by the J. Arthur Rank Organization, with the exception of 2 to be handled by another company and 5 to be distributed annually by Eagle-Lion.

For Your Entertainment
UNIVERSAL-INTERNATIONAL Presents:

The Egg and I—from Betty MacDonald's Best-Seller; Claudette Colbert and Fred MacMurray.
Time Out of Mind—from Rachel Field's novel—Phyllis Calvert, Robert Hutton, Ella Raines.
I'll Be Yours—Deanna Durbin, Tom Drake, William Bendix and Adolphe Menjou.
Portrait in Black—starring Joan Crawford.
Swell Guy—Sonny Tufts and Ann Blyth.
The Exile—starring Douglas Fairbanks, Jr.
Slave Girl—in Technicolor, starring Yvonne De Carlo and George Brent.
Buck Privates Come Home—Abbott and Costello.
Thunder On The Hill—in Technicolor, starring Joan Fontaine.

The J. Arthur Rank pictures shown here have been very favorably received. Critics and the public have been quick to recognize the outstanding quality of "Stairway to Heaven," "Henry V," "Caesar and Cleopatra," "Seventh Veil" and "Brief Encounter," to mention only a few. Box office results indicate that these British pictures offer a type of entertainment the American public wants to see. And as the British stars become more widely known here, there will be even greater interest in their forthcoming pictures.

U. S. MARKET FOR BRITISH FILMS

These arrangements to distribute British pictures in this country mark the beginning of an earnest effort to provide the British film industry with an opportunity to add materially to the world-wide earnings of their pictures. It is our opinion that their pictures should have the same opportunity to earn revenues in this country as our pictures have in Britain.

This agreement presages a new era of cooperation in the motion picture industry. It not only provides the opportunity for the American public to see the best British product but paves the way for the exchange of acting, writing and directorial talent between United States and Great Britain.

ENTER 16MM.—8MM. BUSINESS

Marking the entrance into an important new field, Universal Pictures has organized a new subsidiary, United World Films, Inc., to produce and distribute 16mm. and 8mm. entertainment, educational, religious and newsreel films. This subsidiary has purchased the entire assets of Castle Films, Inc., one of the leading producer-distributors of 16mm. and 8mm. films, and also the entire film library and distributing set-up of Bell & Howell, another pioneer in the field.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR THE MILLIONS

Reflecting the continued success of the company in providing popular entertainment for millions of moviegoers in this country and throughout the world, gross income from operations increased to $53,934,865 in the fiscal year ended November 2, 1946, from $51,049,428 in the preceding year. Approximately 43% of the total income, or $23,125,415, came from the exhibition of pictures in foreign countries.

Net profit was $4,565,219, equivalent to $5.32 per share on 827,119 shares of common stock outstanding at the end of the fiscal year, after providing for dividends on the 4¼% preferred stock. This compared with $3,910,928, or $4.86 per share, in the preceding year.

Characteristics of the MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY

It is surprising how few people seem to have any real understanding of how the motion picture industry operates as a business.

Few seem to realize that beneath the industry's Hollywood glamour there is a great basic stability.

The industry has an established market of over 90,000,000 paying customers a week in this country alone and upwards of 200,000,000 a week throughout the world.

It had a cash income of over $1,500,000,000 in this country alone last year. World revenues were over $2,000,000,000.

It is one of America's great export industries. It is one of the few American industries whose product sells in every country in the world.

It is the No. 1 salesman of American goods throughout the world.

It is a relatively young industry. It has initiative and is aggressive.

It is an industry with tremendous long-term growth prospects.

It is one of the last industries to feel the effects of a depression. During hard times, going to the movies is one of the last things people care to give up.

When general business starts to pick up, the motion picture industry is among the very first to respond. Few industries enjoy such a high degree of resiliency.

Although the motion picture industry is often thought of as highly speculative, actually it has as many factors making for basic stability as any other leading industry, and more than most.

Current and working assets increased $8,100,260 to $36,313,130. Net working capital was $29,278,995, compared with $23,030,555 a year ago. The ratio of current and working assets to current liabilities was $5.16 to $1.

Dividends at the rate of $2 per share were paid on the company's common stock during the past year.

Production and distribution costs have increased substantially. Hollywood studio workers have received wage increases averaging over 25%, retroactive to January 1, 1946, and supplies, equipment and other costs have likewise risen.

The cost of selling and distributing motion pictures is likely to be increased as the result of a recent court ruling requiring changes in the industry's marketing methods. This was one of the factors that led the Universal management to adopt its new policy of producing only pictures of distinction. Naturally, however, it will take a reasonable period of time for these new production and distribution policies to become completely effective and reflect themselves in the company's over-all operations.

PROGRAM FOR CURRENT SEASON

Universal's line-up of current and coming productions will be the strongest in its history. Under the new Universal-International banner, top ranking stars are appearing in productions with outstanding story values, including best-selling novels and Broadway stage successes. These pictures are being directed and supervised by directors and producers who have to their credit some of the most successful pictures turned out in Hollywood.

Ice Blocks Keep Out the Wind In Tent Homes at Little America

Best Job the Hardest One Because It Keeps You Warm, Says Sailor—Reporter Finds Cot With Mosquito Netting.

By FRED SPARKS
The Chicago Daily News-Post-Dispatch Special Radio. Copyright, 1947.

LITTLE AMERICA, Jan. 28 — Do you want to know what it is like to live on the ice?

Well, then, come along and visit one of the 60 tents at Little America.

You approach the tent over a sheet of white without a single footprint or wheelmark. The snow has been drifting all day.

Around the tent ice blocks are neatly piled waist-high. One of the five residents—Tom McGovern, 20 years old, of Trenton, N.J.—is on one knee in front, sawing a block of ice from the ground. Tom says that the blocks keep the wind from blowing through the thin canvas.

As you're about to toss the flap aside, you notice this sign: "Quiet please, men at work, night shift." The sign carries a rough sketch of the tent with each man's name and the position of his bunk.

"When a fellow's zipped in his sleeping bag," says Tom, "you can't tell whether he's your best buddy or Lana Turner, without shaking him out. We're all aviation radiomen and might be called at any time. This way the messenger finds the right guy without de-sacking everybody."

Hard to See at First.

What with the glistening snow outside, plus your dark glasses, you see as well as a gold fish in cocoa when you first enter the tent. The only light is from a large opening around the top of the tent pole.

It takes a few minutes to adjust your eyes. There are five Army cots with mattresses and sleeping bags. One of the cots has mosquito netting strung over it.

"How come?" you ask William O'Donnell, 20, of Brockton, Mass.

"These cots were to be used in the Pacific," he says. "When they were sent here they never bothered to junk the mosquito bars. I guess there isn't a mosquito within 3000 miles. It's sure like the old one about iceboxes for Eskimos. I use the netting to keep the sack dark. When someone walks in I get sunlight in the face."

An old-fashioned pot-bellied stove is in the center of the tent. The boys have made two benches out of discarded crates and sit around.

"Would you like a cup of Joe?" asks Viles Virgil, 20, of Vancouver, Wash.

You nod your head. He picks up a small shovel, reaches outside the tent and scoops up a chunk of snow. He pounds the snow into a large empty peach can on top of the stove. In a few minutes the snow melts and the water boils. Then he tosses in coffee. When the coffee looks OK to him he strains it through a handkerchief, fills a small tin can and hands it to you.

Bill Wegener, 23, of New York City, who's kicking apart a barrel, says:

"This reminds me of the Philippines during the war. There I made a boat out of discarded plane belly tanks—now I'm making skis out of barrel staves. Wonder what it's like to buy things in a store?"

Hard on the Lips.

Just then the fifth resident of the tent, Gust Carlson, 26, of Alameda, Calif., walks in and goes right over to the steel mirror, tacked onto the tent pole. He takes a stick of camphor ice out of his pocket and starts to apply it, like a bleached blonde fixing her lipstick before a big date.

"This cold is kicking the hell out of my lips," he says. "They're covered with sores. It's about 10 above outside now and the wind cuts through."

"The best job around here," says O'Donnell, "is the hardest job. If you keep working you keep warm, but sit around and you'll freeze."

Your feet are getting very cold at this point. The heat from the stove rises and warms everything from the belt up, but below there's a layer of cold air down to the plywood deck.

"Why don't you build us a radio?" Viles asks Gust. "I just rode with a dog team and they were listening to Hawaiian music on their receiver."

Rescuing a Weasel.

It's 11:15 p.m. now and the boys slog up a small hill to the chow hall. They pass a Weasel, bogged down in the snow and it seems to be digging in deeper.

His tent mates push and shove and finally free the Weasel.

There's a 10-minute wait at the chow line inside the mess hall, which is like an old circus tent minus the fat lady.

It's very cold and everybody eats with all his clothes on—some even wear gloves. Everybody's breath is also steaming and Virgil says: "I can't see what I am eating."

At a few minutes past 12 the men hop on one of three long sleds drawn by a tractor. They're off to the airstrip to install some radio gear.

TWO SOLAR ECLIPSES IN 1947; U.S. TO VIEW ONLY ONE

EVANSTON, Ill. (UP) — The moon will eclipse the sun twice in 1947, but people in the United States will see it happen only once.

Oliver J. Lee, Northwestern University astronomy professor, said a partial eclipse of the sun will be visible over almost all of the United States Nov. 12. He said the moon at that time would be too far from the earth to cover the sun completely, leaving a rim of light around the moon's silhouette.

A total eclipse of the sun will occur May 20 and a partial eclipse of the moon June 3, but neither will be visible in the United States.

Observers southwest of Santiago, Chile, will see the complete solar eclipse first, Lee said, and the path of visibility will cross South America and the Atlantic Ocean and end near Lake Victoria in Africa.

SUPERSONIC WAVES SPOT HIDDEN METAL DEFECTS

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (UP)—Hidden defects in metals, long a bugbear in all metallic construction, may be overcome by sound waves of frequencies up to 12,000,000 cycles.

The new device, explained James W. Dice of Sperry Products, is the supersonic reflectoscope. The reflectoscope employs a beam of sound waves, far beyond the ability of the human ear to hear, which investigate the mass.

THE "WARM-UP" COMES FIRST

In Engines, too,
the "Warm-up" comes first
...summer and winter!

Even on the hottest summer day, the temperature of the gasoline-air mixture in the intake manifold must be raised as much as 50 degrees—before your engine can deliver full power . . .

And in winter the warm-up job is doubled—or re-doubled!

Comparative tests show that with Shell Gasoline you get a fully "warmed-up" engine faster than with ordinary gasolines—as much as 30% faster—because it vaporizes up to 30% faster!

You get this quicker "warm-up"—for easy starting and smooth going—the year-round with Shell. And you get full mileage, full power, and high anti-knock quality, too—under all driving conditions.

Only Choice: To Press Fight to Finish With Existing Weapons At Cost of Million U. S. Casualties or Shock Japan Into Surrender

Bombs Dropped on Hiroshima And Nagasaki Were Only Two Ready—Output Was Small

Although Policy Makers Realized They Had a Terrible Weapon, No Responsible Member of Government Ever Suggested That It Should Not Be Used.

"THE two atomic bombs which we had dropped (on Hiroshima and Nagasaki) were the only ones we had ready, and our rate of production at the time was very small."

This disclosure is made by Henry L. Stimson, who as Secretary of War from 1940 to the end of World War II had to make the recommendation to the President on the use of the atomic bomb in warfare.

For the February issue of Harper's Magazine Stimson has written an article of unusual historic importance on "The Decision to Use the Atomic Bomb."

"My chief purpose," Stimson writes, "was to end the war in victory with the least possible cost in the lives of the men in the armies which I had helped to raise. In the light of the alternatives which, on a fair estimate, were open to us I believe that no man, in our position and subject to our responsibilities, holding in his hands a weapon of such possibilities for accomplishing this purpose and saving those lives, could have failed to use it and afterwards looked his countrymen in the face."

Stimson was informed that an invasion of the main Japanese island of Honshu might be expected to cost more than a million casualties to American forces alone, that additional large casualties might be expected among our allies, and that the enemy casualties would be much larger than our own.

By HENRY L. STIMSON

IN RECENT months there has been much comment about the decision to use atomic bombs in attacks on the Japanese cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. This decision was one of the gravest made by our Government in recent years, and it is entirely proper that it should be widely discussed.

I have therefore decided to record for all who may be interested my understanding of the events which led up to the attack on Hiroshima on Aug. 6, 1945, on Nagasaki on Aug. 9, and the Japanese decision to surrender, on Aug. 10. No single individual can hope to know exactly what took place in the minds of all of those who had a share in these events, but what follows is an exact description of our thoughts and actions as I find them in the records and in my clear recollection.

Plans and Preparations September 1941-June 1945

IT was in the fall of 1941 that the question of atomic energy was first brought directly to my attention. At that time President Roosevelt appointed a committee consisting of Vice President Wallace, Gen. Marshall, Dr. Vannevar Bush, Dr. James B. Conant, and myself.

The function of this committee was to advise the President on questions of policy relating to the study of nuclear fission which was then proceeding both in this country and in Great Britain. For nearly four years thereafter I was directly connected with all major decisions of policy on the development and use of atomic energy, and from May 1, 1943, until my resignation as Secretary of War on Sept. 21, 1945, I was directly responsible to the President for the administration of the entire undertaking; my chief advisers in this period were Gen. Marshall, Dr. Bush, Dr. Conant and Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, the officer in charge of the project. At the same time I was the President's senior adviser on the military employment of atomic energy.

The policy adopted and steadily pursued by President Roosevelt and his advisers was a simple one. It was to spare no effort in securing the earliest possible successful development of an atomic weapon.

The reasons for this policy were equally simple. The original experimental achievement of atomic fission had occurred in Germany in 1938, and it was known that the Germans had continued their experiments. In 1941 and 1942 they were believed to be ahead of us, and it was vital that they should not be the first to bring atomic weapons into the field of battle.

Instrument to Shorten War.

Furthermore, if we should be the first to develop the weapon, we should have a great new instrument for shortening the war and minimizing destruction.

At no time, from 1941 to 1945, did I ever hear it suggested by the President, or by any other responsible member of the Government, that atomic energy should not be used in the war.

All of us of course understood the terrible responsibility involved [illegible] to such a devastating weapon; President Roosevelt particularly spoke to me many times of his own awareness of the catastrophic potentialities of our work. But we were at war, and the work must be done. I therefore emphasize that it was our common objective, throughout the war, to be the first to produce an atomic weapon and use it.

The possible atomic weapon was considered to be a new and tremendously powerful explosive, as legitimate as any other of the deadly explosive weapons of modern war. The entire purpose was the production of a military weapon; on no other ground could the wartime expenditure of so much time and money have been justified.

The exact circumstances in which that weapon might be used were unknown to any of us until the middle of 1945, and when that time came, as we shall presently see, the military use of atomic energy was connected with larger questions of national policy.

The extraordinary story of the successful development of the atomic bomb has been well told elsewhere. As time went on it became clear that the weapon would not be available in time for use in the European Theater, and the war against Germany was successfully ended by the use of what are now called conventional means. But in the spring of 1945 it became evident that the climax of our prolonged atomic effort was at hand.

By the nature of atomic chain reactions, it was impossible to state with certainty that we had succeeded until a bomb had actually exploded in a full-scale experiment; nevertheless it was considered exceedingly probable that we should by midsummer have successfully detonated the first atomic bomb. This was to be done at the Alamogordo Reservation in New Mexico. It was thus time for detailed consideration of our future plans. What had begun as a well-founded hope was now developing into a reality.

Last Talk With Roosevelt.

On March 15, 1945, I had my last talk with President Roosevelt. My diary record of this conversation gives a fairly clear picture of the state of our thinking at that time. I have removed the name of the distinguished public servant who was fearful lest the Manhattan (atomic) project be "a lemon"; it was an opinion common among those not fully informed.

"The President . . . had suggested that I come over to lunch today. . . . First I took up with him a memorandum which he sent to me from —— who had been alarmed at the rumors of extravagance in the Manhattan project. —— suggested that it might become disastrous and he suggested that we get a body of 'outside' scientists to pass upon the project because rumors are going around that Vannevar Bush and Jim Conant have sold the President a lemon on the subject and ought to be checked up on.

"It was rather a jittery and nervous memorandum and rather silly, and I was prepared for it and I gave the President a list of the scientists who were actually engaged on it to show the very high standing of them and it comprised four Nobel Prize men, and also how practically every physicist of standing was engaged with us in the project. Then I outlined to him the future of it and when it was likely to come off and told him how important it was to get ready.

"I went over with him the two schools of thought that exist in respect to the future control after the war of this project, in case it is successful, one of them being the secret close-in attempted control of the project by those who control it now, and the other being the international control based upon freedom both of science and of access. I told him that those things must be settled before the first projectile is used and that he must be ready with a statement to come out to the people on it just as soon as that is done. He agreed to that. . . ."

This conversation covered the three aspects of the question which were then uppermost in our minds. First, it was always necessary to suppress a lingering doubt that any such titanic undertaking could be successful. Second, we must consider the implications of success in terms of its long-range postwar effect. Third, we must face the problem that would be presented at the time of our first use of the weapon, for with that first use there must be some public statement.

I did not see Franklin Roosevelt again. The next time I went to the White House to discuss atomic energy was April 25, 1945, and I went to explain the nature of the problem to a man whose only previous knowledge of our activities was that of a Senator who had loyally accepted our assurance that the matter must be kept a secret from him.

Now he was President and Commander in Chief, and the final responsibility in this as in so many other matters must be his.

President Truman accepted this responsibility with the same fine spirit that Senator Truman had shown before in accepting our refusal to inform him.

I discussed with him the whole history of the project. We had with us Gen. Groves, who explained in detail the progress which had been made and the probable future course of the work. I also discussed with President Truman the broader aspects of the subject, and the memorandum which I used in this discussion is again a fair sample of the state of our thinking at the time.

Memorandum Discussed With President Truman April 25, 1941

I. WITHIN four months we shall in all probability have completed the most terrible weapon ever known in human history, one bomb of which could destroy a whole city.

2. Although we have shared its development with the United Kingdom, physically the United States is at present in the position of controlling the resources with which to construct and use it and no other nation could reach this position for some years.

3. Nevertheless it is practically certain that we could not remain in this position indefinitely.

a. Various segments of its discovery and production are widely known among many scientists in many countries, although few scientists are now acquainted with the whole process which we have developed.

b. Although its construction under present methods requires great scientific and industrial effort and raw materials, which are temporarily mainly within the possession and knowledge of U.S. and U.K., it is extremely probable that much easier and cheaper methods of production will be discovered by scientists in the future, together with the use of materials of much wider distribution. As a result, it is extremely probable that the future will make it possible for atomic bombs to be constructed by smaller nations or even groups, or at least by a larger nation in a much shorter time.

4. As a result, it is indicated that the future may see a time when such a weapon may be constructed in secret and used suddenly and effectively with devastating power by a wilful nation or group against an unsuspecting nation or group of much greater size and material power. With its aid even a very powerful unsuspecting nation might be conquered within a very few days by a very much smaller one.

5. The world in its present state of moral advancement compared with its technical development would be eventually at the mercy of such a weapon. In other words, modern civilization might be completely destroyed.

6. To approach any world peace organization of any pattern now likely to be considered, without an appreciation by the leaders of our country of the power of this new weapon, would seem to be unrealistic. No system of control heretofore considered would be adequate to control this menace. Both inside any particular country and between the nations of the world, the control of this weapon will undoubtedly be a matter of the greatest difficulty and would involve such thoroughgoing rights of inspection and internal controls as we have never heretofore contemplated.

7. Furthermore, in the light of our present position with reference to this weapon, the question of sharing it with other nations and, if so shared, upon what terms, becomes a primary question of our foreign relations. Also our leadership in the war and in the development of this weapon has placed a certain moral responsibility upon us which we cannot shirk without very serious responsibility for any disaster to civilization which it would further.

8. On the other hand, if the problem of the proper use of this weapon can be solved, we would have the opportunity to bring the world into a pattern in which the peace of the world and our civilization can be saved.

9. As stated in Gen. Groves's report, steps are under way looking towards the establishment of a select committee of particular qualifications for recommending action to the executive and legislative branches of our government when secrecy is no longer in full effect. The committee would also recommend the actions to be taken by the War Department prior to that time in anticipation of the postwar problems. All recommendations would of course be first submitted to the President.

Committee Appointed.

The next step in our preparations was the appointment of the committee referred to in paragraph (9) above. This committee, which was known as the Interim Committee, was charged with the function of advising the President on the various questions raised by our apparently imminent success in developing an atomic weapon. I was its chairman, but the principal labor of guiding its extended deliberations fell to George L. Harrison, who acted as chairman in my absence. It will be useful to consider the work of the committee in some detail.

Its members were the following, in addition to Mr. Harrison and myself:

James F. Byrnes (then a private citizen) as personal representative of the President.

Ralph A. Bard, Under Secretary of the Navy.

William L. Clayton, Assistant Secretary of State.

Dr. Vannevar Bush, director, Office of Scientific Research and Development, and president of the Carnegie Institution of Washington.

Dr. Karl T. Compton, chief of the Office of Field Service in the Office of Scientific Research and Development, and president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Dr. James B. Conant, chairman of the National Defense Research Committee, and president of Harvard University.

Discussions by Committee.

The discussions of the committee ranged over the whole field of atomic energy, in its political, military and scientific aspects. That part of its work which particularly concerns us here relates to its recommendations for the use of atomic energy against Japan, but it should be borne in mind that these recommendations were not made in a vacuum.

The committee's work included the drafting of the statements which were published immediately after the first bombs were dropped, the drafting of a bill for the domestic control of atomic energy, and recommendations looking toward the international control of atomic energy.

The Interim Committee was assisted in its work by a scientific panel whose members were the following: Dr. A. H. Compton (chancellor of Washington University, St. Louis; brother of Dr. Karl Compton), Dr. Enrico Fermi, Dr. E. O. Lawrence and Dr. J. R. Oppenheimer. All four were nuclear physicists of the first rank; all four had held positions of great importance in the atomic project from its inception.

At a meeting with the Interim Committee and the scientific panel on May 31, 1945, I urged all those present to feel free to express themselves on any phase of the subject, scientific or political. Both Gen. Marshall and I at this meeting expressed the view that atomic energy could not be considered simply in terms of military weapons but must also be considered in terms of a new relationship of man to the universe.

Decision to Use Bomb.

On June 1, after its discussions with the scientific panel, the Interim Committee unanimously adopted the following recommendations:

(1) The bomb should be used against Japan as soon as possible.

(2) It should be used on a dual target—that is, a military installation or war plant surrounded by or adjacent to houses and other buildings most susceptible to damage, and

(3) It should be used without prior warning (of the nature of the weapon). One member of the committee, Mr. Bard, later changed his view and dissented from recommendation (3).

In reaching these conclusions the Interim Committee carefully considered such alternatives as a detailed advance warning or a demonstration in some uninhabited area.

Both of these suggestions were discarded as impractical. They were not regarded as likely to be effective in compelling a surrender of Japan, and both of them involved serious risks. Even the New Mexico test would not give final proof that any given bomb was certain to explode when dropped from an airplane. Quite apart from the generally unfamiliar nature of atomic explosives, there was the whole problem of exploding a bomb at a pre-determined height in the air by a complicated mechanism which could not be tested in the static test of New Mexico.

Nothing would have been more damaging to our effort to obtain surrender than a warning or a demonstration followed by a dud—and this was a real possibility. Furthermore, we had no bombs to waste. It was vital that a sufficient effect be quickly obtained with the few we had.

The Interim Committee and the scientific panel also served as a channel through which suggestions from other scientists working on the atomic project were forwarded to me and to the President.

Report of Scientific Panel.

Among the suggestions thus forwarded was one memorandum which questioned using the bomb at all against the enemy. On June 16, 1945, after consideration of that memorandum, the scientific panel made a report, from which I quote the following paragraphs:

"The opinions of our scientific colleagues on the initial use of these weapons are not unanimous: they range from the proposal of a purely technical demonstration to that of the military application best designed to induce surrender. Those who advocate a purely technical demonstration would wish to outlaw the use of atomic weapons, and have feared that if we use the weapons now our position in future negotiations will be prejudiced.

"Others emphasize the opportunity of saving American lives by immediate military use, and believe that such use will improve the international prospects, in that they are more concerned with the prevention of war than with the elimination of this special weapon. We find ourselves closer to these latter views; we can propose no technical demonstration likely to bring an end to the war; we see no acceptable alternative to direct military use.

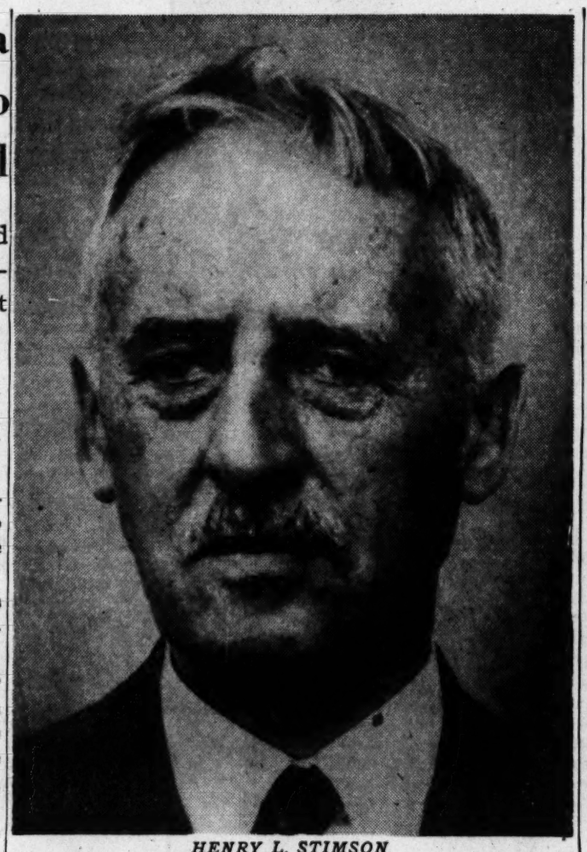

"With regard to these general aspects of the use of atomic energy, it is clear that we, as scientific men, have no proprietary rights. It is true that we are among the few citizens who have had occasion to give thoughtful consideration to these problems during the past few years. We have, however, no claim to special competence in solving the political, social, and military problems which are presented by the advent of atomic power."

The foregoing discussion presents the reasoning of the Interim Committee and its advisers. I have discussed the work of these gentlemen at length in order to make it clear that we sought the best advice that we could find. The committee's function was, of course, entirely advisory.

The ultimate responsibility for the recommendation to the President rested upon me, and I have no desire to veil it. The conclusions of the committee were similar to my own, although I reached mine independently.

I felt that to extract a genuine surrender from the Emperor and his military advisers, they must be administered a tremendous shock which would carry convincing proof of our power to destroy the Empire. Such an effective shock would save many times the number of lives, both American and Japanese, that it would cost.

The facts upon which my reasoning was based and steps taken to carry it out now follow.

HENRY L. STIMSON

Republican, former law partner of Elihu Root; Secretary of War, 1911-13; Secretary of State, 1929-33; again Secretary of War under President Roosevelt and President Truman from 1940 until the end of World War II. He resigned Sept. 21, 1945.

TRUMAN IS 'GLAD TO HAVE FACTS STATED' BY STIMSON ON ATOMIC BOMB DECISION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (UP) WHITE HOUSE Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said today that President Truman "thoroughly approved" of former Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson's magazine article on the decision to drop the atomic bomb on Japan.

He said Truman was "glad to have the facts stated."

As to whether the President gave Stimson prior clearance for the article, Ross said, "I would hardly call it clearance, but the President was aware of it."

U. S. Policy Toward Japan In July 1945

THE principal political, social and military objective of the United States in the summer of 1945 was the prompt and complete surrender of Japan. Only the complete destruction of her military power could open the way to lasting peace.

Japan, in July 1945, had been seriously weakened by our increasingly violent attacks. It was known to us that she had gone so far as to make tentative proposals to the Soviet government, hoping to use the Russians as mediators in a negotiated peace. These vague proposals contemplated the retention by Japan of important conquered areas and were therefore not considered seriously.

There was as yet no indication of any weakening in the Japanese determination to fight rather than accept unconditional surrender. If she should persist in her fight to the end, she had still a great military force.

Estimate of Jap Strength.

In the middle of July 1945, the intelligence section of the War Department General Staff estimated Japanese military strength as follows: In the home islands, slightly under 2,000,000; in Korea, Manchuria, China proper, and Formosa, slightly over 2,000,000; in French Indochina, Thailand and Burma, over 200,000; in the East Indies area, including the Philippines, over 500,000; in the bypassed Pacific islands, over 100,000.

The total strength of the Japanese Army was estimated at about 5,000,000 men. These estimates later proved to be in very close agreement with official Japanese figures.

The Japanese Army was in much better condition than the Japanese Navy and Air Force. The Navy had practically ceased to exist except as a harrying force against an invasion fleet. The Air Force had been reduced mainly to reliance upon kamikaze, or suicide, attacks. These latter, however, had already inflicted serious damage on our seagoing forces, and their possible effectiveness in a last ditch fight was a matter of real concern to our naval leaders.

As we understood it in July, there was a very strong possibility that the Japanese Government might determine upon resistance to the end, in all the areas of the Far East under its control. In such an event the Allies would be faced with the enormous task of destroying an armed force of 5,000,000 men and 5000 suicide aircraft, belonging to a race which had already demonstrated its ability to fight literally to the death.

The strategic plans of our armed forces for the defeat of Japan, as they stood in July, had been prepared without reliance upon the atomic bomb, which had not yet been tested in New Mexico.

We were planning an intensified sea and air blockade, and greatly intensified strategic air bombing, through the summer and early fall, to be followed on Nov. 1 by an invasion of the southern island of Kyushu. This would be followed in turn by an invasion of the main island of Honshu in the spring of 1946.

The total United States military and naval force involved in this grand design was of the order of 5,000,000 men; if all those indirectly concerned are included, it was larger still.

We estimated that if we should be forced to carry this plan to its conclusion, the major fighting would not end until the latter part of 1946, at the earliest. I was informed that such operations might be expected to cost over a million casualties, to American forces alone. Additional large losses might be expected among our allies, and, of course, if our campaign were successful and if we could judge by previous experience, enemy casualties would be much larger than our own.

It was already clear in July that even before the invasion we should be able to inflict enormously severe damage on the Japanese homeland by the combined application of "conventional" sea and air power. The critical question was whether this kind of action would induce surrender.

It therefore became necessary to consider very carefully the probable state of mind of the enemy, and to assess with accuracy the line of conduct which might end his will to resist.

With these considerations in mind, I wrote a memorandum for the President on July 2, which I believe fairly represents the thinking of the American Government as it finally took shape in action. This memorandum was prepared after discussion and general agreement with Joseph C. Grew, Acting Secretary of State, and Secretary of the Navy Forrestal, and when I discussed it with the President, he expressed his general approval.

"July 2, 1945.

"Memorandum for the President.

"PROPOSED PROGRAM FOR JAPAN

"1. The plans of operation up to and including the first landing have been authorized and the preparations for the operation are now actually going on. This situation was accepted by all members of your conference on Monday, June 18.

"2. There is reason to believe that the operation for the occupation of Japan following the landing may be a very long, costly, and arduous struggle on our part. The terrain, much of which I have visited several times, has left the impression on my memory of being one which would be susceptible to a last ditch defense such as has been made on Iwo Jima and Okinawa and which of course is very much larger than either of those two areas. According to my recollection it will be much more unfavorable with regard to tank maneuvering than either the Philippines or Germany.

"3. If we once land on one of the main islands and begin a forceful occupation of Japan, we shall probably have cast the die of last ditch resistance. The Japanese are highly patriotic and certainly susceptible to calls for fanatical resistance to repel an invasion. Once started in actual invasion, we shall in my opinion have to go through with an even more bitter finish fight than in Germany. We shall incur the losses incident to such a war and we shall have to leave the Japanese islands even more thoroughly destroyed than was the case with Germany. This would be due both to the difference in the Japanese and German personal character and the differences in the size and character of the terrain through which the operations will take place.

"4. A question then comes: Is there any alternative to such a forceful occupation of Japan which will secure for us the equivalent of an unconditional surrender of her forces and a permanent destruction of her power again to strike an aggressive blow at the 'peace of the Pacific'? I am inclined to think that there is enough such chance to make it well worthwhile our giving them a warning of what is to come and a definite opportunity to capitulate. As above suggested, it should be tried before the actual forceful occupation of the homeland islands is begun and furthermore the warning should be given in ample time to permit a national reaction to set in.

"We have the following enormously favorable factors on our side—factors much weightier than those we had against Germany:

"Japan has no allies.

"Her navy is nearly destroyed and she is vulnerable to a surface and underwater blockade which can deprive her of sufficient food and supplies for her population.

"She is terribly vulnerable to our concentrated air attack upon her crowded cities, industrial and food resources.

"She has against her not only the Anglo-American forces but the rising forces of China and the ominous threat of Russia.

"We have inexhaustible and untouched industrial resources to bring to bear against her diminishing potential.

"We have great moral superiority through being the victim of her first sneak attack.

"The problem is to translate these advantages into prompt and economical achievement of our objectives. I believe Japan is susceptible to reason in such a crisis to a much greater extent than is indicated by our current press and other current comment. Japan is not a nation composed wholly of mad fanatics of an entirely different mentality from ours. On the contrary, she has within the past century shown herself to possess extremely intelligent people, capable in an unprecedentedly short time of adopting not only the complicated technique of occidental civilization but to a substantial extent their culture and their political and social ideas. Her advance in all these respects during the short period of 60 or 70 years has been one of the most astounding feats of national progress in history—a leap from the isolated feudalism of centuries into the position of one of the six or seven great powers of the world. She has not only built up powerful armies and navies. She has maintained an honest and effective national finance and respected position in many of the sciences in which we pride ourselves. Prior to the forcible seizure of power over her government by the fanatical military group in 1931, she had for 10 years lived a reasonable responsible and respectable international life.

"My own opinion is in her favor on the two points involved in this question:

"a. I think the Japanese nation has the mental intelligence and versatile capacity in such a

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Minimum-Wage Law

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Within the last few months everybody has been made conscious of the decreasing value of the dollar and the dime. Everybody—almost everybody—has felt the resulting need of getting more dollars and more dimes for himself.

Disastrous consequences to our economy have been predicted as the outcome of the effort of many special groups to maintain or improve their relative financial standing at any cost to society as a whole.

However true or false these predictions may be in general, there is one group whose economic betterment will cost society nothing and will in fact contribute to the stability of the whole social organization. These people are to be found among restaurant and hotel employes, 10-cent-store clerks and women in laundries.

This is the group of people whose wages are too low to provide the bare essentials of decent living, and who are forced by the slightest emergency to turn to public funds for support or relief. They are a drain on our society not only when this happens, but more seriously, year in and year out, inflation or deflation, boom or bust.

The modern sciences of nutrition and psychology have shown that poorly fed, poorly housed, insecure and unhappy people can never be the productive workers and the independent citizens that democracy absolutely requires for its success.

We of Missouri do not want unnecessary liabilities to hamper our progress. We do not want to forego the contribution that a single Missourian might make to the welfare of the state and the country. We must face the fact that we are now depriving our communities of human power by permitting sub-existence wages to be paid.

We must provide a living wage for those least able to insure it for themselves in these inflationary times and at all times.

We must have a good minimum wage law in Missouri!

MRS. EVARTS A. GRAHAM.

It's Not the Speed, the Stupidity

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I do not believe Senator Caldwell's proposed 50-mile state speed limit is the answer to the problem of highway accidents.

During the last 25 years I have done a great deal of driving on the highways and have seen many accidents. Without exception, they were due, not to speeding, but to stupidity in passing on blind curves and crests of hills and driving out of side roads without looking or slowing up. A very few were due to mechanical failure.

A 50-mile limit would do more harm than good, as it would give a stupid driver an automatic defense if he could prove he was within that limit. The answer is to have the patrol arrest and make it tough for the reckless driver, no matter how slowly he is driving.

Money on Strike

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The right to strike is not alone a right of labor—it is a right of money—it is a right of farmers. The threat of labor strikes in the near future is not as serious as the threat of money strike that has already begun its activities.

If you will follow the regulations of the RFC in the past two months under George Allen, and if you will discuss the matter of restricted credits in the banks of your city, you will find that money is on strike—and if you will read the writings of our great statesmen, Franklin, Jefferson, Madison and Lincoln, you will agree with me that the great menace to American freedoms today is the right of money to strike.

The Reason Why

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

The senior from Webster Groves who suggests that teachers get out if they do not like the salary may not mean what he says. All the talk about scarcities these days pertains to teachers as to other necessities. There wouldn't be so much discussion about a fair wage for teachers if there were not an acute shortage.

Tax Exemption Is No Bonus

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

What a joke our representatives are trying to make of the soldiers' bonus! Representative Hamlin wants a bill passed to give us tax exemption.

What if a veteran from Missouri wants to make his home in some other state? He would not be entitled to a bonus from the state he moved to and he would not get a bonus from his home state. I'll bet there would be a grand mixup.

If Missouri wants to give a bonus, why not give it in some way to benefit a veteran direct, some kind of monthly or semi-monthly payment?

After three to four years on GI pay, with a small-paying job on his return, and with prices double what they were, the veteran can use a bonus.

WALTER ORGEL.

For a European Peace

Ten days ago John Foster Dulles, Republican adviser on international affairs, proposed a plan for a radically decentralized confederation of German states bound to the surrounding countries of Europe by political and economic ties. His proposal may be described roughly as Winston Churchill's plan for a united Europe reduced to more modest and workable proportions.

Speaking before the Women's National Republican Club in New York Saturday, Mr. Dulles carried this plan an important step further by proposing that the Rhine basin, which means the Ruhr and the Saar, be placed under an authority "selected by and responsible to the peoples of Western Europe." As a pattern for internationalizing the Rhine basin, Mr. Dulles pointed to the international Atomic Development Authority by which the United States hopes to endow the world with the boon of atomic energy, divested of its military dangers.

A truly internationalized Rhine basin would deprive Germany permanently of the war-making potential of Ruhr coal, steel and chemicals. At the same time, it would give all Western Europe, including Germany, access to the coal, steel and chemicals necessary to its rehabilitation.

Mr. Dulles's proposals set the problem of the coming Moscow Conference in its proper perspective. For that problem at base is not to agree on a "peace for Germany" but a peace for Europe. If Germany is to be preserved as a European poorhouse, it means a radical depression of the living standard of all Western Europe—and probably the Soviet sphere as well.

Pravda has come out with a denunciation of Mr. Dulles's earlier proposal, and the Kremlin assuredly will denounce the scheme for the internationalization of the Ruhr and the Saar. Yet the Dulles proposals need not be anti-Russian in effect, except that they provide a plan which would deprive Russia of the continuing right to veto the reconstruction of Europe. The benefits of participation would be open to Russia, the Russian zones of Germany and the Central European and Balkan states under Russia's tutelage. But if any or all of them chose to remain aloof, Western Europe could manage without them.

If the Dulles proposals are adopted as American policy and Russia chooses to continue in opposition, the Communist party in such countries as France, Belgium and Italy will be placed in a dilemma. The national interests of those countries will demand that they support the plan, and if their Communist parties do not comply, they may face the loss of popular support.

Mr. Dulles's speech of 10 days ago had the previous indorsement of Senate Republican leaders on foreign policy. Presumably the same is true of his speech Saturday. If so, it is fair to say that the Republicans are showing a considerable measure of constructive statesmanship in international relations. It is a basic and broad-gauged approach that digs under the welter of momentary details to grapple with the essential facts.

Italians are reported looking for a strong man. Another who starts out strong, or one who ends up that way?

New Jersey's Labor Law

New Jersey's new law to prevent strikes from tying up public utilities is a practical demonstration by the trial-and-error method of the kind of safeguard which every community requires against the particular kind of strike that menaces its health or safety.

The statute has truly been baptized in fire, as Arthur W. Hepner relates in a series of articles in the Post-Dispatch. Four times in 10 months the seizure power of the state has been invoked. But there has been no cessation of essential services. That is the fundamental test.

The New Jersey act, though it is the first in the nation, is not a model, for on all sides the opinion is that it needs amending. It is a start, however, and it is providing New Jersey with experience from which Missouri, as well, can learn.

The principle on which the act rests is that in utilities operating under state franchise, strikes cannot be permitted to interfere with service, and that the state, in granting the franchise, assumed an obligation to oversee the continuity of the service. It is a sound principle, and one on which Missouri, now groping toward a statute to guard vital public services against interruption, can well base its own law.

A women's shop advertises lingerie of "heart-breaking beauty," and also serves notice: "All Sales Final." Just in case, we suppose, the heart doesn't stay broken.

Rent Control to Congress

"Liberalized" relief is now ordered for landlords put under hardship by controlled residential rents. It is too little. It is also late, but never too late. Rent controls should be retained; the alternative is large-scale gouges and evictions. But—as a new bill by Senators Hawkes, McCarthy, Cain and Malone proposes—they should be amended.

A uniform percentage adjustment should be permitted in all ceilings. Treating only "hardship" cases leaves too much to OPA's discretion at a period when the country is trying to contract the range of administrative agencies; it involves excessive labor and delay. Furthermore, now that all wages and prices are free to rise whether there is any "hardship" or not, all landlords are entitled (where their leases permit) to some "cost of living" increase.

New private building should be freed from rent control. Places to rent are much more needed than houses for sale at today's unhealthy inflated prices. Building for rent will be negligible until owners can recover an economic return and enough more to write off their inflated investment while the housing shortage still remains acute.

Landlords should be given quicker and surer relief from nuisance tenants. Present practice abridges not only their pocketbooks but also their fundamental rights. An even-handed rule on eviction for cause would probably do more than anything else to break the sporadic landlords' "sitdown strikes."

The previous Congress was unfair by giving landlords no relief at the same time that it was knocking the props from under other price controls. For an understandable political motive, the President is leaving the initiative to Congress. In simple fairness, it should effectuate an amended control act at the earliest possible date instead of delaying until the present one expires on June 30.

Franklin County's Scandal

Too-close alliance of local government and realty speculators is an old story, but the one in Franklin County, Ill., operates with a cynical boldness that cries to be slapped down. In realizing cash from the county's claims on 6385 tax-delinquent parcels, the Board of Supervisors is guilty of several glaring irregularities if not outright violations of law:

1. The law does not authorize selling claims for less than full value. Nevertheless, the Supervisors have sold for only a few cents on the dollar. It amounts to selling everyone in the county down the river by wrongfully disposing of the county's assets. It is all the more flagrant because the claims are based on assessments at only about one-fifth of true value.

2. In spite of a law which seems to forbid it, the board made one of its own members the selling agent—Chairman Roy Dye.

3. State's Attorney J. Max Mitchell, who dug up the scandal, charges that Dye and two other members were among the bargain-price buyers—that is, that they are both buyers and sellers, misusing their power for personal profit. (Dye denies this allegation.)

4. Sometimes the certificates of sale are made out in blank—contributing to suspicions that county officials are concealing their own participation.

5. Officials sold cheap to speculators but, it is charged, will let owners exercise their redemption rights only by paying the county at full face value. The county might have a claim for $100, sell it for $10 to a speculator and then demand the full $100 from the owner—who would proceed to get a "bargain" by trading with the speculator for $75. Result: the speculator gains $65, the owner saves $25—and the people of Franklin County are out $90.

At the very least, members of the board are affected with a depraved sense of political morality—and should be thrown out. There is a good chance, too, as Mitchell suggests, that someone belongs behind bars. A grand jury should be at work. But, says Mitchell, a Franklin County jury would only spread whitewash, because the Supervisors control jury appointments.

The situation smells intolerably, and Franklin County is ruled by those who created the situation. Attorney General Barrett has refused Mitchell's appeal for help in the investigation. It is therefore Gov. Green's clear duty to move in with rat poison and disinfectants.

The sale of alcoholic beverages and cigarettes in New York State last year broke all records. Looks like we're going to have to run you in, boys, on a charge of drunken smoking.

As Mr. White Put It

The uneasy men in Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi, and other states to the south, who are worrying about a "white primary" and a white general election as well ought to ponder a favorite aphorism of the late William Allen White.

"Liberty," he said, "is the only thing you cannot have unless you are willing to give it to others."

That applies to political ballot and to the economic franchise as well. The wool hats and rednecks who think liberty is ordained for whites only ought to give the matter fervent meditation.

A tent city has been set up in Antarctica by the Byrd expedition. Housing conditions don't seem to be a bit better there than they are here.

R. S. V. P.

There are large power potentialities on the lower Missouri River. So says the Federal Power Commission. This is in strange contrast with the view of the Army Engineers and the Reclamation Bureau, as embodied in the Pick-Sloan Plan, that there are none at all.

The strangeness increases in the light of the fact that, as the Army Engineers said in their major report on the Missouri River system, the largest potentialities for immediate mass consumption of hydro-electric power are, of all the valley, in the growing industries of the St. Louis area.

We do not set up to be engineers. But when the engineers disagree as drastically, and in a way as strongly affecting the public interest, as they appear to do in this instance, we think a complete documentation of the opposing views is in order—a documentation so full and so clear that any layman can make up his mind as to which side he thinks is right.

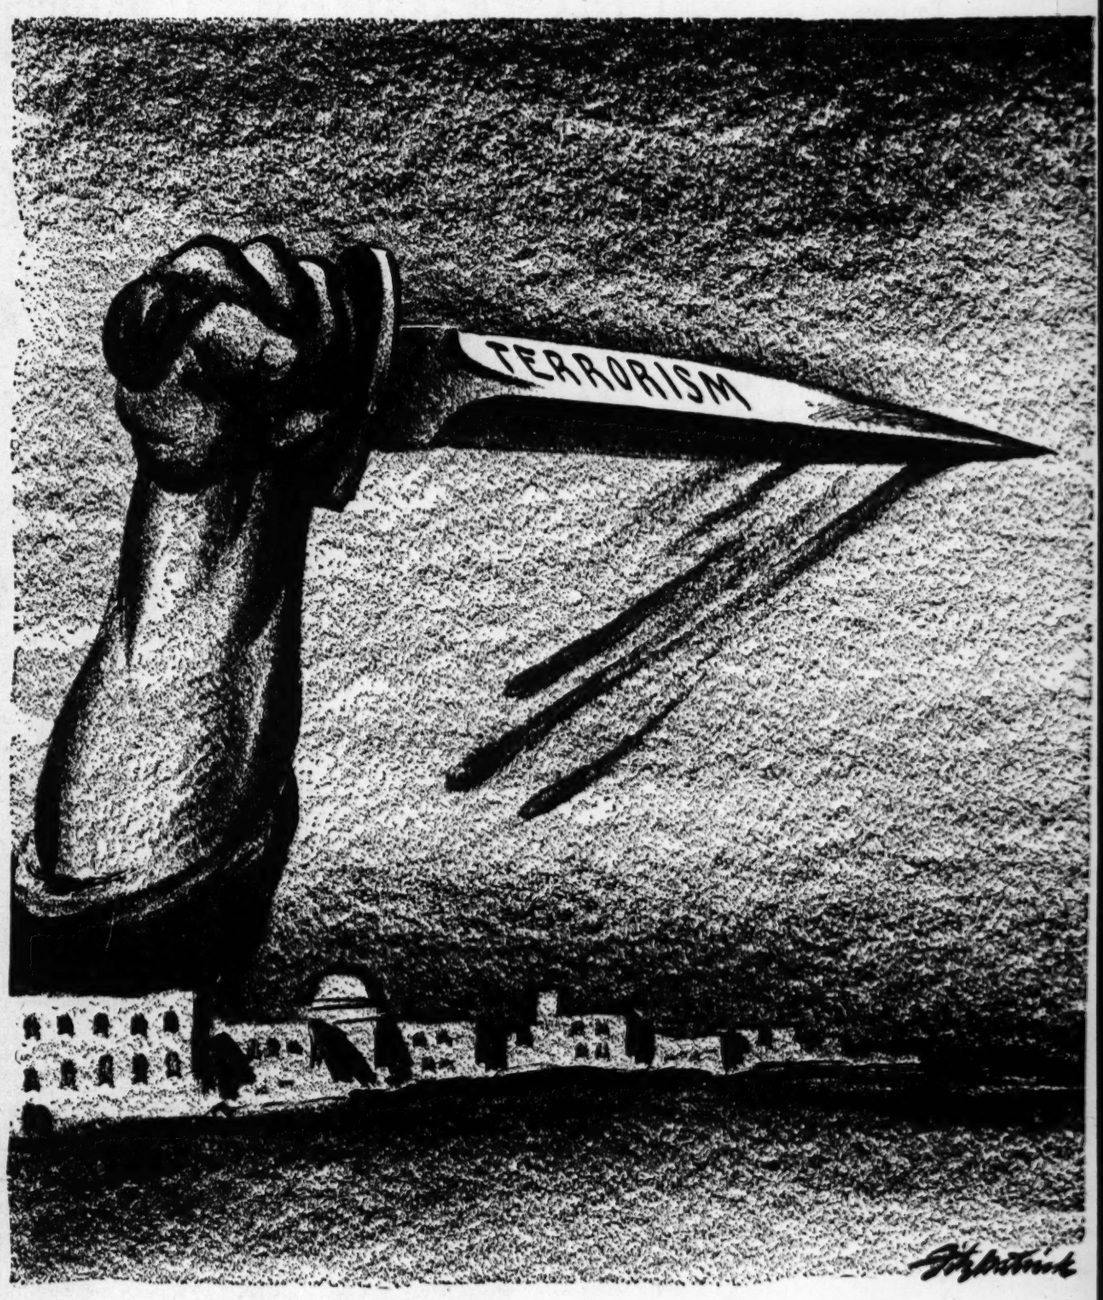

The Federal Power Commission has had its say. May the people of the Missouri Valley, and particularly of the Lower Missouri Valley, now hear from the Army Engineers and the Reclamation Bureau? What are their reasons for holding that no hydro-electric power should be developed on the main stream of the Lower Missouri?

A school teacher has doubled his income by becoming a coal miner. Now he won't have to dig so far down for the cash.

Polish Promise

The Polish Government announces that its brutal security police, the UB, will be abolished as soon as the underground is liquidated. This promise is hereby nominated as the remark of the week which is least likely to grow up and mean anything to anybody. The UB exists to suppress resistance to the Government, and the resistance consists of the underground. So it's pretty much like a highwayman's promise to quit taking your money the moment he's got your last dime, or a gunman's solemn pledge to cease shooting you as soon as you are dead. The Polish Government will reform and stop scaring off and killing off opposition whenever there's no opposition left. Isn't that just dandy?

Baby sitters now are organized. Meanwhile, the parents remain as demoralized as ever.

NIGHT WATCH IN PALESTINE

Let the War Dead Rest

The Mirror of Public Opinion

American soldiers should be allowed to rest where they are buried overseas, widow of Gen. Patton says; wherever the men lie, "there is America"; believes re-burial would revive grief of families; "every good soldier I have known wanted to be buried where he fell."

Mrs. George S. Patton Jr. in the Minneapolis Sunday Tribune

SOUTH HAMILTON, Mass.

Wherever our soldiers are buried overseas, there is America, and American cemeteries mark the triumphal march of our armies through the islands of the Pacific and from Africa, Sicily and Italy, through France to the borders of Germany. No Americans are buried in any enemy soil.

The crosses, each with its identification tag, stand in long rows guarding the dead, and on my journey overseas last June I saw local people everywhere, both grown-ups and children, putting flowers on the graves of the men they call "our liberators."

I have seen this picture repeated three times, in 1921, 1938 and 1946, and I believe every American who some day visits a grave in one of these cemeteries will come away feeling "it is completely right that he should lie there."

This is the judgment of many of the bereaved of World War I who have talked with me after the first poignancy of their grief subsided.

After the last war I saw the dead brought back. I watched them being put into graves on "funeral day" at a national cemetery, week after week. Each of those coffins had meant the bereavement of some family when the word of death was received, and in that time of great emotion the relatives had asked to have the bodies returned.

No Comfort to Bereaved

But on the day of burial, it was rare to see a family present. Many of them did not come. I think, because the wound of sorrow had begun to heal, the meaning of the burial ceremony had changed for them, and they had begun to realize that the broken bodies brought back in sealed caskets bore no relation to the men they had known and loved.

Our Army graves registration units under the Quartermaster General are making incredible efforts in all parts of the world to identify the bodies of lost Americans, thus ending the strain of uncertainty in many homes. Our Government will either bury their bodies in national cemeteries overseas or send them home, according to the decision of their next of kin.

As a specious comfort to the bereaved relatives, sending them home is called "repatriation." The word is a misnomer, for every American cemetery, wherever it is, is already American soil, owned and cared for by the United States Government. My husband felt this deeply, and in 1919 he wrote the poem in which he said:

Our free souls will be far,
Holding the line in sunny France
Where we died to win the war.

Lt. Gen. Lesley J. McNair, killed in Normandy, held the same belief. Mrs. McNair wrote: "Lesley was a soldier and wanted to die a soldier's death. I know he would want to stay where he is, surrounded by the men he trained and with whom he died. He would not want his body moved."

If the Dead Could Speak

What do most of those graves overseas hold? Parts of men wrapped in blankets or mattress covers, without coffins—gone back to earth because they could no longer serve their purpose.

Will it comfort you to hear that your soldier is being shipped home in a box or an urn to be reburied? What will come home to you isn't what you remember and love.

Will it ease your grief, or make you happier to know that some young soldier, drafted to serve our country overseas, is digging up these poor bones?

If the family of the fallen soldier would find comfort in a permanent, tangible record near at hand, let them erect a simple monument in the family cemetery plot, inscribed with the man's name and record and the place of his burial overseas. Or this could be added to the list on a family monument already established.

Thus there would be a lasting memorial at home where it could be seen, without the gruesome performance of moving the remains.

And what would your man himself say if he could speak? Every good soldier I have ever known wanted to be buried where he fell.

Mine did.

From the New York Herald Tribune

The necktie, unlike the mink coat, the diamond bracelet and the well-filled wallet, has never served to tempt the discerning eye of the roving yeggman. The haberdasher of a more modest past has felt that he had little to offer which would attract those who like to provide themselves with valuable merchandise by methods more direct than purchase and sale. But the status of the necktie has been changing during years of easy money and brightening masculine tastes. The conservative knot of color which once nestled beneath the Adam's apple for as little as 49 cents plus, has now arrived at a point in art, finance and police reports where it is possible for $50,000 worth of super cravats to be stolen recently from a Park Avenue shop by discriminating thieves. The ravished neckties, some of which were doubtless as vivid as Turners and weird as Dalis, were initialed like new and old masters and sold for $15 apiece.

Let economists or prophets of man's decline and fall draw what conclusions they like from the present luxurious state of the necktie, which, we believe, bids fair to set new standards in store robberies and corrupt a citizenry just emerging from sport shirts. Rome, we know, did not go in for neckties, so little could be gained by turning to Gibbon on the subject. But certainly some modern Cato should arise to confront the present crisis in cravats, both in style and price. We have come too far from the black string ties of William Jennings Bryan and John Sharp Williams and from the snappy bow ties, two for a quarter, which used conveniently to fasten in back of a stiff collar with a clip and an elastic band.

Between Book Ends

America's Own DP's

THE CHEROKEE NATION, by Marion L. Starkey. (Alfred A. Knopf, New York.)

Here is a most vital and effective piece of historical writing. It is vital because it is a sort of case history of American injustice to a minority group; and inasmuch as most intelligent people are now concerned with this problem, all relevant information is to be welcomed. It is effective because of Miss Starkey's sympathy for her subject, the Cherokee Indians, and because of her ability to express that sympathy in good rapid prose.

Until their removal in 1838, the Cherokees inhabited that lovely region of our country which now comprises parts of Georgia, Tennessee, Alabama and North Carolina. In the main they were a peaceful people, living a simple agricultural life. They accepted the missionaries who came among them, because from them they could learn.

The Cherokees set up a constitutional government; many learned to read and write English; and Sequoia, one of their greatest men, developed an alphabet for the Cherokee tongue. Despite this evidence of genius and adaptability, the State of Georgia coveted their lands and eventually, through political maneuvers which did not stop at bribery, theft and treaty-breaking, but included murder and imprisonment, and which were forwarded with the cooperation of President Jackson, the Georgia politicians succeeded in getting the Cherokees removed from their native country to the western lands of Arkansas and Oklahoma.

This is the story in brief. It is in reality much more complex than this, including disagreements among the Indians themselves, among the missionaries who served them, and among the lawmakers and judges whose decisions affected them. Miss Starkey threads her way expertly through these mazes, weighing the evidence carefully, and despite her sympathies withholding nothing. Her work might well be read by the scholar who wishes to escape the pallid pattern of the research quarterly.

The story of the Cherokee Nation is only one of the many injustices the American people have committed. We need to know all about the ugly phases of our history if we are to avoid such events in the future. Miss Starkey is more than an historian; she is a compassionate human being who has made her contribution to the democratic cause.

Hunting With Camera and Gun

THE LAST STRONGHOLD OF BIG GAME, by A. R. Siedentopf. (Robert M. McBride & Co., New York.)

These two books deal with adventures in hunting African animals with camera and gun. The first is by a young Englishman, an amateur photographer inexperienced in the ways of Africa, who hunts his game in Central Africa with 20 Leica cameras. The second is by a veteran African big game hunter, who was employed by the Tanganyika Government to shoot rogue elephants which were destroying native crops. The former has its high good humor to recommend it while the latter has more detailed observation. Both are profusely illustrated with photographs.

MARQUIS CHILDS

Communist Spies in Canada

IN Canada there is in progress the trial of one of the last of those accused of conspiracy in the amazing plot to give secret information to agents of the Soviet Union. The man on trial, Henry Harris, is one of the small fry charged with being a go-between for the principals in the plot.

Here is the essence of the democratic way of life. Here is the supreme contrast between the totalitarian state and a society grounded in the fundamental human freedoms.

In Soviet Russia, on the basis of the evidence found against these plotters by an official commission, they would all have been shot out of hand. In democratic Canada, each has been given a trial, and six of the defendants have been acquitted. One, David Shugar, was acquitted although the Royal Commission reported, on the basis of extensive evidence and examination:

Cloak of Diplomacy.

"We are of the opinion that Shugar not only agreed to communicate such information (of a secret and confidential nature) but that the evidence before us shows that he did so communicate."

The commission's report, 733 printed pages, is an extraordinary document. Dispassionately, without rhetoric or emotion, it presents an overwhelming mass of evidence to show how Canadian citizens were so perverted that they betrayed every oath of loyalty and duty. It shows how Soviet agents, using the cloak of diplomacy in the Russian embassy in Ottawa, worked incessantly to subvert Canadians to their purposes.

Only by chance was this network of agents uncovered. Only because a cipher clerk in the embassy, Igor Gouzenko, could no longer endure the duplicity of his position were authentic Soviet documents brought to light. Gouzenko's courage almost cost him his life when agents broke into his apartment in the middle of the night.

More Danger in U. S.

When Gouzenko first went to the Canadian authorities with his story, the suggestion was made that he be turned over to our FBI for security reasons, and be permitted to make the story public on our side of the border. Gouzenko emphatically rejected this suggestion, saying he felt he would be in far more danger from assassination by Soviet agents in this country than in Canada.

Many of the trails uncovered by the Royal Commission led into the United States. Sam Carr, a long-time Canadian Communist who was revealed as one of the chief under-cover agents, hid in Philadelphia from 1940 to 1942, when he returned to Ottawa. When the plot became known, Carr escaped. Since then, he has been reported in Paris, Stockholm and Moscow.

Worldwide Chain.

One of the minor phases of the plot centered in efforts to get a false Canadian passport for a very important Soviet agent in Los Angeles. And repeatedly in the documents from the Soviet Embassy, there were references to individuals and places in the United States—links in the worldwide chain.

Beyond doubt the network of Soviet espionage in this country is far more extensive than in Canada. If it can be uncovered at all, short of the kind of disclosure made by Gouzenko, it can only be done by a thorough, persistent, trained agency such as, say, the FBI.

The House Un-American Activities Committee announces the most active year in its turbulent history. Apparently a beginning is to be made with hearings in Hollywood on the Communist influence in the movies. While this will make sensational headlines, it can actually do more harm than good. Fellow-travelers—dumb, innocent, or guileful—are not likely to reveal on the stand anything more than a sense of martyrdom. The end result is confusion.

Perverted Idealism.

By parodying the methods of the Russians—by witch-hunting, for example—we descend to their level. That is one of the perils under which we live; resisting the encroachments of totalitarianism, all our values will become so perverted that the differences between the authoritarian and ourselves will cease to exist. Some of the Canadian plotters entered the conspiracy out of motives they believed idealistic. But it was not long before they were reduced to being paid spies pilfering documents out of Government files and handing them over to their Soviet bosses.

Canada is a democracy that has made real progress toward the good life for all men. In the face of this sinister intrigue, Canada has preserved the true values of a free society.

WALTER LIPPMANN

A Nation's Choice of Friends

THE formation of American foreign policy in the critical areas of the world—that is to say in Germany, in the Middle East, in China and in the Argentine—depends in the first instance upon our relations with the Soviet Union.

The dominating importance of Soviet-American relations is due in part to the absolute increase of Russian and American power. But only in part. The weakness of Great Britain, the devastation of Europe, the disunity of China, the disappearance of Germany and of Japan have magnified the relative importance of the Soviet Union and of the United States in world affairs.

Appeasers vs. Crusaders.

While this is the condition of things, a dangerous contest of power and influence exists. This contest could degenerate into a dreadful, prolonged and indecisive international civil war. The problem of our diplomacy is how we should conduct our part in this contest during the difficult period while Europe, China and the British Empire are relatively weak and, therefore, exposed to or dependent upon Russian and American influence and power.

During this period—which is the postwar period — our responsibilities are great and our task is difficult. For our object must be to check the expansion of Russian imperialism and of Communism without ourselves becoming corrupted by an imperialism of our own, or entangled in a conflict for the domination of the world.

There is no use pretending that this is an easy thing to do. That is obvious from the angry debates between the "appeasers" and the "crusaders"—between those who think there is no real conflict and those who think it is an irreconcilable conflict. Yet as a matter of fact there is no reason as yet for accepting the idea that we must choose one or the other horn of this dilemma. There is good ground for believing that if American power and influence are used wisely, they can be effective.

Where Wisdom Begins.

Where does wisdom begin? It begins in these matters, I venture to think, with the ability to distinguish between power and influence, and to conduct diplomatic policy accordingly. A failure to bear this distinction in mind can lead only to the most dangerous confusion.

For in the contest with the Soviet Union and with Communism, only power can check power, only influence can check influence. Where our object is to check the advance of the Red Army, or to reduce it, only the presence of equal or superior force can be counted upon to convince the Soviet Government. But where our object is to check the advance of Communist parties, that are not based upon the Red Army, the only effective measures are those which support governments that can win and hold the confidence of their own people.

This is a dual policy. It differs from that of the so-called appeasers in that it calls for the use of American military power as an instrument of displomacy at any point where the Soviet Government threatens to enlarge its military orbit. This means the maintenance of the armies of occupation in Germany and in Austria, the presence of American forces to guarantee that the line will be held on the Italian border, on the Greek border, at the Dardanelles and in Turkey and in Iran, and in the Far East.

Reactionaries No Asset.

But it differs also from the policy of those who would organize an anti-Soviet coalition, combining with any government or any faction in any country which is, or says it is, opposed to Communism. For this policy would commit us to support the very people whose corruption and reaction alienates the masses of the people everywhere, and makes them hospitable to Communist propaganda.

In the contest with the Soviet Union, the corrupt and the reactionary are not an asset. They are a liability. They can contribute nothing to our power in dealing with the Soviet Government. For they cannot enlist the support of their own people. And they diminish our influence. For they make us apologists conniving at the very evil forces that we say we oppose.

This, in generalized form, is—as I read his report on China—the conclusion which Gen. Marshall came to after prolonged and direct experience with the actual problem in one of the great unsettled areas of the world. The conclusion does not apply in China alone.

MRS. JOHN STEINLAGE FUNERAL

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth Steinlage, wife of John G. Steinlage, president of the Quality Dairy Co., will be held at 9:30 a.m. Thursday at St. Engelbert Catholic Church, 4336 Shreve avenue. She died yesterday of a cerebral hemorrhage at her home, 4624 West Florissant avenue. She was 75 years old.

Surviving ar her husband, three sons, Arnold F., Ignatius C. and Paul A. Steinlage, and a daughter, Miss Clara A. Steinlage. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

FUNERAL FOR JOHN F. BOLAND

Funeral services for John F. Boland, retired postal clerk and the father of the Rev. Joseph B. Boland, assistant pastor of St. Margaret's Catholic Church, will be held at 10 a.m. tomorrow at St. Cecelia's Catholic Church, 5401 Alaska avenue. Mr. Boland, who was 82 years old, was found dead yesterday in bed at his home, 5447 Alabama avenue.

By MYLES STANDISH

Garson Kanin, the Hollywood director, has a shrewd and practical sense of the theater. His first produced venture as a playwright, "Born Yesterday," is skillfully blended with all the ingredients of a sure-fire commercial hit, and directed by Kanin himself with the same expert touch. The result is an uproarious sex comedy which teaches, of all things, a lesson in liberalism. It kept a full house at the American Theater in a constant state of delight at the opening of its two-week run last night, and made it easy to understand why the play is still going after a year on Broadway.

Kanin's comedy is broad, and broadly played. His characters are fashioned with bold strokes. His fabulously rich junk dealer, Harry Brock, is crude and heavy-handed, domineering and ruthless, a rough sketch of a Fascist. His "dumb broad," the junk king's mistress, is the worst feather-brain since Dulcy. His liberal magazine writer is idealistic, rather naive, and over-serious. His drunken, disillusioned lawyer is obvious. The plot can take a bow in the direction of Shaw's "Pygmalion," with the ex-chorus girl, Billie Dawn, as the Galatea, and the New Republic writer, Paul Verrall, as the Prof. Higgins. The political philosophies depicted—government by and for powerful individuals versus government by and for the people—have been simplified to the primer class, and the liberal stand is painlessly sketched with a little sprinkling of Tom Paine, Robert Ingersoll and references to people being pushed around. The exact manner in which the bill that the junk king has bribed the Senator to introduce will enable the Fascist of scrap to corner all the junk on the world's battlefields is kept conveniently vague.

It may not be art, as can be seen, but it's funny. For Kanin has handled the thing with wit, and put humor into his characterizations. Sometimes the humor is rowdy, and at times it is ribald, but mostly it's in the broad handling of the characters. Just the way Billie Dawn says "Yeah," in her tough whine, or the exasperated roars of Harry Brock are funny. Even though Brock is made always dangerous, he is essentially a ridiculous person.

As so much of the comedy depends on the playing, it is fortunate that the road company at the American is first rate. Cara Williams, a young movie actress, is just about perfect as Billie Dawn. The role made Judy Holliday a huge success on Broadway, but it is hard to visualize anyone doing it better than Miss Williams. Richard Rober as the junk king, Laurence Hugo as Verrall and Carroll Ashburn as the lawyer were also quite impressive. The one set, by Donald Oenslager, is a masterful job of gilding the garish horrors of a $235 a day hotel suite.

LOUIS GOLLIN DIES; DONOR TO UNVERSITY IN JERUSALEM

Louis Gollin, a branch manager of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. here for 20 years, died of heart disease today at his home at 6219 Rosebury drive. He was 72 years old.

Mr. Gollin was a co-founder of a scholarship fund for Hebrew University in Jerusalem, Palestine, in 1935 and made a large personal contribution to the university at its foundation. He was active several years ago in work of the Charities Committee of the Chamber of Commerce. He retired seven years ago.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Leah Gollin; a daughter, Mrs. I. E. Millstone, and a son, Joshua Gollin. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at United Hebrew Temple, 225 South Skinker boulevard, followed by burial in Mount Olive Jewish Cemetery.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

SCHEDULED for early spring is the wedding of Miss Grace Jeannette Gardner, debutante daughter of William King Gardner, and William Frank Obear IV. The ceremony will take place at Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Saturday morning, April 19, at 11 o'clock, with Msgr. Francis J. O'Connor officiating. Afterward there will be a reception for the families and a few close friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gardner, 14 Upper Ladue road, Clayton.

Miss Gardner will be attended by Mrs. Gardner's niece, Miss Sally Ann Ryan of New York, maid of honor, and by Mrs. Paul Victor von Gontard (Mary Griesedieck), matron of honor. Bridesmaids will be four debutantes: Miss Tam Benoist, Miss Polly McMahon, Miss Jane Garesche and Miss Ann Faust.

Mr. Obear, whose parents live in Log Cabin lane, Ladue, will announce his attendants later.

To Be Wed March 31.

CHOOSING Monday, March 31, as her wedding date, Miss Lynn Cunningham has completed plans for her marriage to Stephen Douglas B. Houser Jr. The ceremony will be performed at 8 o'clock in the evening by Bishop Ivan Lee Holt in Singleton Memorial Chapel of St. John's Methodist Church. Afterward the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Barclay W. Cunningham, 625 South Skinker boulevard, will give a reception.

Miss Margaret Virginia Happel, a debutante, as is the bride-to-be, will be maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Marietta McWilliams, Miss Patricia Ann Roberts and Miss Clelland Antrim, also debutantes, and two girls from out of town—Miss Joan Kennedy of Tulsa, Okla., and Miss Dannie Bea James of Oklahoma City—students at Smith College who were classmates of the bride-elect until she left college after the holidays to be married.

Best man for Mr. Houser, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Douglas B. Houser, live at 6470 Ellenwood avenue, is to be Cliffton Rogers Scudder III. The usher list includes James Garesche Houser, brother of the bridegroom; Mitchell Cunningham, brother of the bride-elect; Warren McKinney Shapleigh, Richard Taylor Stith Jr., Charles Paxton of New Haven, Conn.; Charles Carroll of Cambridge, Mass., and Maj. Andrew Maurice Moore of the Army Medical Corps, who is stationed at Phoenixville, Pa.

Mr. Houser, a student in the Harvard Graduate School of Public Administration, will take his bride to live in Cambridge until he completes his studies.

Luncheons for Debutantes.

MISS PATRICIA GRATZ PHILLIPS, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy J. Phillips, 303 Way avenue, Kirkwood, will be guest of honor at a luncheon Wednesday, Feb. 5, at the University Club. Hostesses will be Mrs. George A. McNulty, 4511 Laclede avenue, and Mrs. S. Raymond Kinsella of Warson road, Clayton.

A similar party was given today for two debutantes, Miss Sally Barrows and Miss Juliette Benoist, by Mrs. John S. Brennan, 6127 Westminster place, at the Junior League tea rooms. Miss Barrows is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bronson Storrs Barrows, 50 Hillsvale drive, Clayton. Miss Benoist's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Hunt Benoist, 4727 Westminster place.

The luncheon table was decorated with a centerpiece of spring flowers and corsages of gladiolus petals at each place. Guests were: Miss Mary Jane Christy, Miss Phillips, Miss Emilie Lucas Jones, Miss Tam Benoist, Miss Jane Hauessler, Miss Katherine Louderman Moffat, Miss Margaret Muckerman, Mrs. Henry H. Eisenbeis and Miss Mary Jeanne Wilmering. Mrs. Brennan entertained Mrs. Barrows and Mrs. Benoist at a smaller table.

WITH the selection of the bridegroom's attendants plans are complete for the wedding of Miss Ellen Denvir and Dr. Joseph Patrick Costello Jr., which will take place Saturday morning, Feb. 15, at Our Lady of Lourdes Church.

Bernard Carney Denvir of Philipsburg, Mont., brother of the bride-elect, will be best man for Dr. Costello, who is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Costello, 30 Arundel place. Ushers will include a cousin of the prospective bridegroom, Michael Hines, a student at Notre Dame University; Walter Brady, John Versnel, Vincent P. Ring Jr., Dr. John J. Coffey and Joseph Rehme.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Joseph Denvir, 424 Melville avenue, University City, who will give a small reception at St. Louis Woman's Club after the ceremony. Msgr. Francis J. O'Connor will officiate at 10:30 o'clock and celebrate nuptial mass afterward.

The engaged couple will be guests of honor at a cocktail party Feb. 9 to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Bert T. Burslem (Marietta Mudd) and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Mudd, at the Mudd home, 6183 McPherson avenue. Another party planned is the spinster dinner which Mrs. Thomas Lanny Gipson will give at her home, 8000 South drive, Hampton Park. Mrs. Arthur Bertelson was hostess at a shower Friday night and Miss Jean Fahey at a luncheon Saturday at the Missouri Athletic Club.

Mrs. James O'Malley Davies, 501 Clara avenue, has joined the winter colony at the Jupiter Island Club, Hobe Sound, Fla. Another recent arrival in Hobe Sound is Mrs. George Hayward Niedringhaus of St. Louis Country Club grounds.

Departing Saturday afternoon on a late winter trip will be Mrs. William E. Hoblitzelle, 4961 Laclede avenue, who will visit her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. Archer Hallett (Elizabeth Hoblitzelle), in Mexico City. Going by train to San Antonio, Tex., Mrs. Hoblitzelle will make the remainder of the trip by plane. The Halletts have lived in Mexico City for more than four years. Mrs. Hoblitzelle plans to be away until the middle of March.

Members of the debutante set will be guests at a luncheon Wednesday, Feb. 12, to be given by Miss Helen Joanne Taylor at St. Louis Woman's Club. Miss Taylor is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Clinton Taylor, 38 Lake Forest, Richmond Heights.

COLLEGE HEAD TELLS OF 'ISSUES' COURSE

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

The need to bring the average college student into closer contact with developments beyond the ivy-clad walls of his classroom will be met at Dartmouth College this fall with the introduction of a new compulsory course in "Great Issues," John Sloan Dickey, president, said last night in an address before the St. Louis Dartmouth Alumni Association at the University Club.

Unlike the usual orientation class which is customarily mandatory for freshmen, the new course will be restricted to members of the senior class at Dartmouth, members of the faculty and visiting alumni.

Subject matter will be the important issues of the day as they materialize. Had it been given last fall, he pointed out, at least two topics discussed would have been control of atomic energy and the development of adequate world government.

Three classes will be held each week. The first will be a briefing period on the subject under discussion, given by a member of the faculty. The second will be a lecture by an outside expert in the particular field, and the third will be general discussion by students with the expert in attendance if possible.

Textbooks will be replaced by newspapers, periodicals, Government literature and pamphlets put out by labor, agricultural and other organizations with special interests, Dickey said. A special laboratory of newspapers and periodicals published throughout the country will be set up in the college laboratory to supplement the course.

NEW YORK SUFFRAGAN NAMED TO SUCCEED BISHOP MANNING

The election was announced by Bishop Manning, head of the diocese since May 11, 1921, who resigned last December because of his age.

WOMAN MEMBER OFFERS NEW STATE SONG TO HOUSE

Mrs. Irvine Proposes 'Missouri, Show Me State', by Mrs. Idele Hillebrand.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 28—The biennial attempt to designate an official State song for Missouri by legislative act, was renewed in the House yesterday afternoon. It has been tried for years without success. Such bills, passed by the House in former years, usually ended up in discord in the Senate committees and died there.

The bill offered yesterday would designate "Missouri, the Show Me State," written by Mrs. Idele Hillebrand of Vandalia, as the offical song. The measure was introduced by Mrs. Georgia Daniel Irvine of Audrain county, L. D. Bone of McDonald county and T. O. Ham of Montgomery county.

Mrs. Irvine and Bone sponsored a bill in the last session to establish "The Missouri Waltz" as the State song. It passed the House and died in the Senate.

"Those Senators didn't want that song," Mrs. Irvine said today, "so we are not trying it again."

PAUL P. HARRIS DIES; FOUNDER OF NATIONAL ROTARY CLUBS

CHICAGO, Jan. 28 (AP)—Paul P. Harris, Chicago lawyer and founder in 1910 of the National Association of Rotary Clubs, which became Rotary International in 1922, died yesterday. He was 78 years old.

He was the first president of both Rotary organizations. As Rotary International's first president emeritus he traveled extensively in addressing Rotary Clubs around the world.

Harris conceived the idea of grouping one representative of every business and profession in a community into a single club to promote business co-operation, fair dealing, and service. The idea spread throughout the United States and then to other nations. Rotary International now reports 200,000 members in 4000 clubs in 75 countries.

CHURCH YOUTH CONFERENCE

Chairmen of the district youth committees of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of Missouri will meet to discuss methods of youth work at De Soto Hotel tomorrow and Thursday.

The sessions, sponsored by the Board for Young People's Work of the Synod, will be conducted by the Rev. Clarence Peters, chairman of the board and pastor of St. Luke's Church. The Rev. H. A. Mayer, assistant executive secretary of missions, will make the opening address.

65 EMPLOYE GROUPS GIVEN CHEST PLAQUES

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

Plaques for outstanding contributions of cash or pledges to the 1946 fund-raising campaign of the Greater St. Louis Community Chest were awarded to 65 employe groups by Frank C. Rand, Chest president, at a luncheon at Statler Hotel yesterday.

The membership of 37 of the groups made a 100 per cent contribution, it was stated, with contributions by the others totaling at least 85 per cent.

Rand, who helped found the Chest five years ago, when it was known as the Greater St. Louis War Chest, announced his retirement from the presidency at the conclusion of the giving out of the awards.

The announcement came as a surprise, members of the board of directors said. Rand had prefaced his remarks, humorously, when he stood up to speak, by saying that he would now make "some very good canned remarks."

Other speakers included M. W. Howe, chairman of the Employes' Division of the drive; Henry Hitchcock, last year's general chairman, and William A. McDonnell, general chairman of the 1947 fund-raising campaign.

Next election of a president and other officers will be in February.

Rand, who is chairman of the board of directors of International Shoe Co., had been president of the War Chest for four years, and is retiring after one year as president of the Community Chest.

The plaques, awarded for the first time in the four-year history of the Chest, are 10 inches by 13. They show a red feather surrounded by 12 stars, with the legend, "Community Chest Award for Outstanding Citizenship." The awards will be an annual event, it was announced. The Chest serves 100 agencies in the area.

To qualify for awards, groups consisting of fewer than 2000 employes of firms or organizations were required to make a contribution of 8 hours' pay by at least 85 per cent of the employes. In cases of firms with 2000 or more employes, 85 per cent of the employes were required to contribute at least $5 each.

crisis to recognize the folly of a fight to the finish and to accept the proffer of what will amount to an unconditional surrender; and

"b. I think she has within her population enough liberal leaders (although now submerged by the terrorists) to be depended upon for her reconstruction as a responsible member of the family of nations. I think she is better in this last respect than Germany was. Her liberals yielded only at the point of the pistol and, so far as I am aware, their liberal attitude has not been personally subverted in the way which was so general in Germany.

"On the other hand, I think that the attempt to exterminate her armies and her population by gunfire or other means will tend to produce a fusion of race solidity and antipathy which has no analogy in the case of Germany. We have a national interest in creating, if possible, a condition wherein the Japanese nation may live as a peaceful and useful member of the future Pacific community.

"5. It is therefore my conclusion that a carefully timed warning be given to Japan by the chief representatives of the United States, Great Britain, China, and, if then a belligerent, Russia, by calling upon Japan to surrender and permit the occupation of her country in order to insure its complete demilitarization for the sake of the future peace.

"This warning should contain the following elements:

"The varied and overwhelming character of the force we are about to bring to bear on the islands.

"The inevitability and completeness of the destruction which the full application of this force will entail.

"The determination of the Allies to destroy permanently all authority and influence of those who have deceived and misled the country into embarking on world conquest.

"The determination of the Allies to limit Japanese sovereignty to her main islands and to render them powerless to mount and support another war.

"The disavowal of any attempt to extirpate the Japanese as a race or to destroy them as a nation.

"A statement of our readiness, once her economy is purged of its militaristic influence, to permit the Japanese to maintain such industries, particularly of a light consumer character, as offer no threat of aggression against their neighbors, but which can produce a sustaining economy, and provide a reasonable standard of living. The statement should indicate our willingness, for this purpose, to give Japan trade access to external raw materials, but no longer any control over the sources of supply outside her main islands. It should also indicate our willingness, in accordance with our now established foreign trade policy, in due course to enter into mutually advantageous trade relations with her.

"The withdrawal from their country as soon as the above objectives of the Allies are accomplished, and as soon as there has been established a peacefully inclined government, of a character representative of the masses of the Japanese people. I personally think that if in saying this we should add that we do not exclude a constitutional monarchy under her present dynasty, it would substantially add to the chances of acceptance.

"6. Success of course will depend on the potency of the warning which we give her. She has an extremely sensitive national pride and, as we are now seeing every day, when actually locked with the enemy will fight to the very death. For that reason the warning must be tendered before the actual invasion has occurred and while the impending destruction, though clear beyond peradventure, has not yet reduced her to fanatical despair. If Russia is a part of the threat, the Russian attack, if actual, must not have progressed too far. Our own bombing should be confined to military objectives as far as possible."

Threat and Promise of Hope.

It is important to emphasize the double character of the suggested warning. It was designed to promise destruction if Japan resisted, and hope, if she surrendered.

It will be noted that the atomic bomb is not mentioned in this memorandum. On grounds of secrecy the bomb was never mentioned except when absolutely necessary, and furthermore, it had not yet been tested. It was of course well forward in our minds, as the memorandum was written and discussed, that the bomb would be the best possible sanction if our warning were rejected.

The Use of the Bomb

THE adoption of the policy outlined in the memorandum of July 2 was a decision of high politics; once it was accepted by the President, the position of the atomic bomb in our planning became quite clear. I find that I stated in my diary, as early as June 19, that "the last chance warning . . . must be given before an actual landing of the ground forces in Japan, and fortunately the plans provide for enough time to bring in the sanctions to our warning in the shape of heavy ordinary bombing attack and an attack of S-1." S-1 was a code name for the atomic bomb.

There was much discussion in Washington about the timing of the warning to Japan. The controlling factor in the end was the date already set for the Potsdam meeting of the Big Three.

It was President Truman's decision that such a warning should be solemnly issued by the United States and the U. K. from this meeting with the concurrence of the head of the Chinese government, so that it would be plain that all of Japan's principal enemies were in entire unity. This was done, in the Potsdam ultimatum of July 26, which very closely followed the above memorandum of July 2, with the exception that it made no mention of the Japanese Emperor.

On July 28 the Premier of Japan, Suzuki, rejected the Potsdam ultimatum by announcing that it was "unworthy of public notice."

In the face of this rejection we could only proceed to demonstrate that the ultimatum had meant exactly what it said when it stated that if the Japanese continued the war, "the full application of our military power, backed by our resolve, will mean the inevitable and complete destruction of the Japanese armed forces and just as inevitably the utter devastation of the Japanese homeland."

For such a purpose the atomic bomb was an eminently suitable weapon. The New Mexico test occurred while we were at Potsdam on July 16. It was immediately clear that the power of the bomb measured up to our highest estimates.

We had developed a weapon of such revolutionary character that its use against the enemy might well be expected to produce exactly the kind of shock on the Japanese ruling oligarchy which we desired, strengthening the position of those who wished peace, and weakening that of the military party.

Because of the importance of the atomic mission against Japan, the detailed plans were brought to me by the military staff for approval.

With President Truman's warm support I struck off the list of suggested targets the city of Kyoto. Although it was a target of considerable military importance, it had been the ancient capital of Japan and was a shrine of art and culture. We determined that it should be spared. I approved four other targets including the cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

Hiroshima was bombed on Aug. 6, and Nagasaki on Aug. 9. These two cities were active working parts of the Japanese war effort.

One was an army center; the other was naval and industrial. Hiroshima was the headquarters of the Japanese Army defending southern Japan and was a major military storage and assembly point. Nagasaki was a major seaport and it contained several large industrial plants of great wartime importance. We believed that our attacks had struck cities which must certainly be important to the Japanese military leaders, both army and navy, and we waited for a result. We waited one day.

The Offer to Surrender.

Many accounts have been written about the Japanese surrender. After a prolonged Japanese cabinet session in which the deadlock was broken by the Emperor himself, the offer to surrender was made on Aug. 10.

It was based on the Potsdam terms, with a reservation concerning the sovereignty of the Emperor. While the Allied reply made no promises other than those already given, it implicitly recognized the Emperor's position by prescribing that his power must be subject to the orders of the Allied Supreme Commander.

These terms were accepted on Aug. 14 by the Japanese, and the instrument of surrender was formally signed on Sept. 2, in Tokyo Bay. Our great objective was thus achieved, and all the evidence I have seen indicates that the controlling factor in the final Japanese decision to accept our terms of surrender was the atomic bomb.

The two atomic bombs which we had dropped were the only ones we had ready, and our rate of production at the time was very small.

Had the war continued until the projected invasion on Nov. 1, additional fire raids of B-29's would have been more destructive of life and property than the very limited number of atomic raids which we could have executed in the same period. But the atomic bomb was more than a weapon of terrible destruction; it was a psychological weapon.

In March 1945 our Air Force had launched its first great incendiary raid on the Tokyo area. In this raid more damage was done and more casualties were inflicted than was the case of Hiroshima. Hundreds of bombers took part and hundreds of tons of incendiaries were dropped. Similar successive raids burned out a great part of the urban area of Japan, but the Japanese fought on.

On Aug. 6 one B-29 dropped a single atomic bomb on Hiroshima. Three days later a second bomb was dropped on Nagasaki and the war was over.

So far as the Japanese could know, our ability to execute atomic attacks, if necessary by many planes at a time, was unlimited. As Dr. Karl Compton has said, "It was not one atomic bomb, or two, which brought surrender; it was the experience of what an atomic bomb will actually do to a community, plus the dread of many more, that was effective."

The bomb thus served exactly the purpose we intended. The peace party was able to take the path of surrender, and the whole weight of the Emperor's prestige was exerted in favor of peace. When the Emperor ordered surrender, and the small but dangerous group of fanatics who opposed him were brought under control, the Japanese became so subdued that the great undertaking of occupation and disarmament was completed with unprecedented ease.

A Personal Summary

IN the foregoing pages I have tried to give an accurate account of my own personal observations of the circumstances which led up to the use of the atomic bomb and the reasons which underlay our use of it. To me they have always seemed compelling and clear, and I cannot see how any person vested with such responsibilities as mine could have taken any other course or given any other advice to his chiefs.

Two great nations were approaching contact in a fight to a finish which would begin on November 1, 1945. Our enemy, Japan, commanded forces of somewhat over 5,000,000 armed men.

Men of these armies had already inflicted upon us, in our breakthrough of the outer perimeter of their defenses, over 300,000 battle casualties. Enemy armies still unbeaten had the strength to cost us a million more.

As long as the Japanese government refused to surrender, we should be forced to take and hold the ground, and smash the Japanese ground armies, by close-in fighting of the same desperate and costly kind that we had faced in the Pacific islands for nearly four years.

In the light of the formidable problem which thus confronted us, I felt that every possible step should be taken to compel a surrender of the homelands, and a withdrawal of all Japanese troops from the Asiatic mainland and from other positions, before we had commenced an invasion.

We held two cards to assist us in such an effort. One was the traditional veneration in which the Japanese Emperor was held by his subjects and the power which was thus vested in him over his loyal troops. It was for this reason that I suggested in my memorandum of July 2 that his dynasty should be continued.

The second card was the use of the atomic bomb in the manner best calculated to persuade that Emperor and the counselors about him to submit to our demand for what was essentially unconditional surrender, placing his immense power over his people and his troops subject to our orders.

Reasons for Using Weapons.

In order to end the war in the shortest possible time and to avoid the enormous losses of human life which otherwise confronted us, I felt that we must use the Emperor as our instrument to command and compel his people to cease fighting and subject themselves to our authority through him, and that to accomplish this we must give him and his controlling advisers a compelling reason to accede to our demands. This reason furthermore must be of such a nature that his people could understand his decision. The bomb seemed to me to furnish a unique instrument for that purpose.

My chief purpose was to end the war in victory with the least possible cost in the lives of the men in the armies which I had helped to raise. In the light of the alternatives which, on a fair estimate, were open to us I believe that no man, in our position and subject to our responsibilities, holding in his hands a weapon of such possibilities for accomplishing this purpose and saving those lives, could have failed to use it and afterward looked his countrymen in the face.

As I read over what I have written, I am aware that much of it, in this year of peace, may have a harsh and unfeeling sound. It would perhaps be possible to say the same things and say them more gently. But I do not think it would be wise.

As I look back over the five years of my service as Secretary of War, I see too many stern and heart-rending decisions to be willing to pretend that war is anything else than what it is.

The face of wa. is the face of death; death is an inevitable part of every order that a wartime leader gives. The decision to use the atomic bomb was a decision that brought death to over a hundred thousand Japanese. No explanation can change that fact and I do not wish to gloss it over. But this deliberate, premeditated destruction was our least abhorrent choice.

The destruction of Hiroshima and Nagasaki put an end to the Japanese war. It stopped the fire raids, and the strangling blockade; it ended the ghastly specter of a clash of great land armies.

In this last great action of the Second World War we were given final proof that war is death. War in the twentieth century has grown steadily more barbarous, more destructive, more debased in all its aspects. Now, with the release of atomic energy, man's ability to destroy himself is very nearly complete.

The bombs dropped on Hiroshima and Nagasaki ended a war. They also made it wholly clear that we must never have another war.

This is the lesson men and leaders everywhere must learn, and I believe that when they learn it they will find a way to lasting peace. There is no other choice.

COMMITTEE APPROVES BILL FOR A SAFER, QUIETER FOURTH

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 28—A safe and possibly noiseless Fourth of July is the objective of a bill recommended for passage today by the House Committee on Commerce by a vote of 4 to 3.

Sale or use of fireworks in Missouri would be unlawful, under the bill, except where a permit was issued by a county court or city council for a fireworks display by municipalities, fair associations, amusement parks or other organizations or groups of individuals, approved by the authority issuing the permit.

NEW COMPASS USES ELECTRONIC BEAM, AND POINTS WEST

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—A new kind of compass in which a beam of electrons substitutes for a needle, and which points west instead of north, was announced to the American Institute of Electrical Engineers today.

The device, made by the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Co., Minneapolis, was described by Waldo H. Kliever and Richard R. Syrdal.

The compass resembles a flashlight. It is seven inches long, one inch in diameter, and weighs a pound and a half.

In use this compass stands vertical, and in that position the beam of electrons points down toward the earth's magnetic field. The magnetic lines deflect this vertical beam toward the west.

The advantage over other compasses is said to be greater sensitivity to direction changes and faster action in reading the change.

The compass detects changes before they are noticeable by an airplane pilot, even with the aid of all ordinary direction devices, and the electron beam signals the changes electrically and operates automatic pilots.

The compass is in use in controling the flight of airplanes. Use on ships at sea, to control gyroscopic compasses, also is considered possible. Kliever and Syrdal said the control in flight is good enough to save fuel.

BILL IN SENATE FOR IMMEDIATE 15 PCT. RENT RISE

Sponsored by 5 Republicans, Goes to Committee With Strong Backing Indicated.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (UP)—Legislation for an immediate 15 per cent boost in rent ceilings was referred to the Senate Banking Committee today amid indications of strong committee support.

The measure, introduced late yesterday by five Republican Senators, would also eliminate rent ceilings on new housing and end all rent controls April 30, 1948.

The sponsors were Senators Homer E. Capehart, Indiana; Joseph R. McCarthy, Wisconsin; Harry P. Cain, Washington; George W. Malone, Nevada, and Albert W. Hawkes, New Jersey. Capehart, McCarthy and Cain, as members of the Banking Committee, were in a strategic position to press the measure.

Senator John W. Bricker (Rep.), Ohio, another Banking Committee member, said he favored some rent increase now, but didn't commit himself specifically on the 15 per cent boost proposed in the bill.

The rent-boosting bill would eliminate all ceilings from housing units which were not rented at any time in the two years preceding Feb. 1, 1947. This was intended to take ceilings off new rental housing, and encourage families with extra rooms to make them available for roomers. McCarthy said the provision might bring on a "flood" of converted apartments.

Senate Group Retracts Approval of Myer as Housing Chief.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 (AP)—A Housing survey by seven young war veterans will be studied by the Senate Banking Committee before it passes finally on the nomination of Dillon Myer of Ohio to be United States housing administrator.

Announcing this plan, Senator Capehart (Rep.), Indiana, said he had been informed by the veterans, members of an American Legion committee, that they have evidence of "mismanagement" in the housing program.

The Senate yesterday retracted its approval of Myer's nomination at the request of Chairman Tobey (Rep.), New Hampshire, of the Banking Committee. Tobey said he acted on the request of Capehart.

AN IMPORTANT STATEMENT FROM CANADA'S LARGEST INDEPENDENT DISTILLER

"Where's The Best Place To Buy?"

THAT question has many answers. It all depends on what you want. In one all-important respect, however, there is just ONE answer. The best place to buy anything is the place where you can place confidence.

Establishment and maintenance of such confidence is the mark of a reliable retailer—and especially so when the commodity is whisky. This is a luxury product to be bought only after careful consideration. You cannot be expected to know as much about whisky as your dealer does. That is his business.

Obviously there are dealers who will give you momentarily lower prices. Your own sound judgment will tell you that they cannot do so consistently. To remain in business, so that he can continue to serve you with the same dependability, your retailer must make a fair profit. We realize this and see to it that he makes it. You, as the consumer, do the same by paying an equitable price.

6 GROUPS INDORSE STATE ROAD AID TO CITIES, COUNTIES

By HERBERT A. TRASK
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 28—Prospects for enactment of legislation making state funds available for city street and county road improvements brightened considerably when representatives of six organizations interested in highway matters reached an agreement here yesterday on the need for a new state road program.

Those participating in the conference decided that an increase in the state gasoline tax of possibly 1 cent a gallon was necessary to provide state funds for the rebuilding of county bridges and roads, which connect with the main state highways.

A proportionate share of the additional tax revenue, they agreed, should be allocated to municipalities for street work. It was the general opinion, however, that the increased state gasoline tax should be levied in place of existing city gasoline taxes.

Attending the meeting were representatives of the Automobile Club of Missouri, the Missouri Farmers Association and the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation, which have supported legislation for road and highway betterments for a number of years, and representatives of the petroleum industry, motor freight carriers and the Associated Industries of Missouri.

Another Meeting Feb. 10.

The group will again meet here Feb. 10 for the purpose of preparing a proposed plan for a new state highway program, to present to the legislature. A number of proposals to increase the state gasoline tax, which at 2 cents a gallon is now the lowest in the United States, and to allocate part of the revenue to the counties and cities for road and street purposes, have been introduced in the legislature or suggested by independent groups.

A harmonious agreement among these organizations, which have taken an active lead in road and gasoline tax matters, undoubtedly would have an important effect on the General Assembly in shaping up a new highway program to meet the demands of rural areas for improved roads.

An important decision reached by the group was to support an increase in the state gasoline tax to finance the local improvements, instead of permitting raids on present revenues used to maintain the State's primary road system. Proponents say that cities such as St. Louis would not lose any revenue under the proposal as an additional state tax of 1 cent would give the cities more street revenues than they now receive from the 1-cent municipal levy.

Legislators who have considered this matter point out, however, that the formula established for allocation of the state road funds between cities and counties will determine whether the cities will lose or gain under the plan.

Allocation a Problem.

The problem of how the state funds would be allocated will be studied by the organization representatives before their next meeting. It has been proposed that the funds be distributed on a basis of population, road mileage, number of automobiles or by total property valuations of the various communities. Objections have been raised to each method. It is possible that a combination of two or more may be recommended as the basis for allocating the funds.

It also was agreed at the conference that adequate safeguards should be provided to assure state road funds are spent properly by the counties and cities. It was suggested that a special commission or the State Highway Department pass on the feasibility of bridge and road work done with state aid, to prevent waste or exorbitant charges.

Those who attended the conference are Oak Hunter, Moberly, and Gus Vahlkamp, St. Louis, of the Automobile Club of Missouri; A. D. Sappington and H. E. Klinefelter, Columbia, Missouri Farmers Association; Warren Fuqua, Jefferson City, Missouri Farm Bureau Federation; George Goode, St. Louis, representing truckers; Reuben Tapperson, Jefferson City, Associated Industries of Missouri, and D. Gary Spencer, Jefferson City, Missouri Petroleum Industries Committee.

Senator J. E. Curry of Ava, chairman of the Senate Committee on Roads and Highways, and Representative W. N. McDonald, Joplin, chairman of the House Roads and Highways Committee, also attended.

BLIZZARD RAISES TEMPERATURE AT LITTLE AMERICA

Forces 3 Ships Out of Bay to Escape Floe Ice and Shifting Iceberg.

LITTLE AMERICA, Jan. 27 (delayed) (AP)—A sudden blizzard, a wind-shifted iceberg and cracking floe ice forced three ships of the Navy's Antarctic expedition to move out of the Bay of Whales today, leaving 165 men ashore in a wind-whipped tent camp.

The blizzard continued after the three ships, the flagship Mount Olympus, the Yancey and the Merrick, had reached the choppy waters of the Ross sea. Winds, however, brought the temperature up from a nighttime low of 12 degrees to 26.

Discovery by a seaplane of a new mountain range inland from the southeastern coast of the Roosevelt sea, was announced by Capt. Robert Quackenbush, chief of staff. The plane, a PBM Mariner, flew from the eastern task group of ships. It reported finding a low range of some 35 peaks, standing 2500 to 6000 feet above sea level.

The blizzard caused a further delay in the projected flight to Little America of R. Adm. Richard E. Byrd, who was scheduled to take off today from the carrier Philippine Sea in a group of six twin-engined DC-3 transport planes.

1946 EDISON MEDAL WINNER

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 (AP)—Dr. Lee De Forest of Chicago and Los Angeles today was presented the 1946 Edison medal "for pioneering achievements in radio and for the invention of the grid-controlled vacuum tube with its profound technical and social consequences."

The presentation was made at the annual winter meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers by J. Elmer Housley of Alcoa, Tenn., president of the institute. The Edison medal was established by associates and friends of Thomas A. Edison for "meritorious achievement by electrical science, electrical engineering or engineering arts."

WHAT'S NEW?

Why, the Jones baby, of course! It's a boy and he weighed 6 lbs. 7 oz.

Aunt Minnie told Cousin Hermoine who told Miss Smedly and Otis, and they told Cyrilla and Mr. Bates. The news gradually got around, but junior is two months old and many friends still do not know of his arrival.

An announcement in the "Birth Notices" of the Want Ad columns would have spread the glad tidings quicker than you could say "stork," and without depending on the family grapevine.

PAYS FOR BRITISH GIRL'S TRIP TO U.S.; SHE WEDS ANOTHER

Ex-G.I. Jilted Day After She Arrives, Finds Her at Veteran's Home.

YADKINVILLE, N.C., Jan. 28 (AP)—An ex-G.I. from Nebraska told today how he had paid $250 for a 17-year-old girl's passage from London to the United States, only to have her jilt him for another veteran the day after she arrived.

Arnold Buesing of Waterloo, Nebr., had a wedding ring with him when he met Eileen Edwards of London when her ship docked in New York Thursday. They had been engaged for two years.

Eighteen months ago he was shipped home. Miss Edwards had to wait for passage, and Buesing said he promised to send her the money.

The couple came to the home of Buesing's sister, Mrs. Spencer Bowman in Yadkinville, for the wedding. Three hours after they arrived, Buesing said, the girl said she wanted to take a walk alone.

When she failed to return, Buesing began a search and found her at Superior, W.Va., at the home of Theodore Spear, another ex-G.I. she had met after Buesing's departure.

Buesing said he gave her the luggage she had left behind and told her goodby. The luggage, he said, contained among other things, a package of his love letters.

"It's True!" say Good Judges of Good Whiskey

"Fleischmann's Preferred Has the Full, Ripe Richness of the World's Finest Brands!"

"Yes-sir-ree! Fleischmann's Preferred has the full, ripe richness of the world's finest, most limited brands! And that's reason enough to make Fleischmann's first choice over all other whiskies!"

HERE is news for men who are really good judges of good whiskey. Now at last, they can enjoy a whiskey that is as gloriously rich, creamy and delicious as the world's finest, most limited brands.

We set out several years ago to try and make such a whiskey. We spared no expense. We made countless experiments. We drew from the world's choicest reserves. We used the world's most delicate skill and backed it up with all our resources.

General Electric Believes in Lower Prices

Prices of G-E products have gone up only 27% since 1940, while cost of manufactured products has gone up 65%*

From the U. S. Bureau of Labor index of prices*

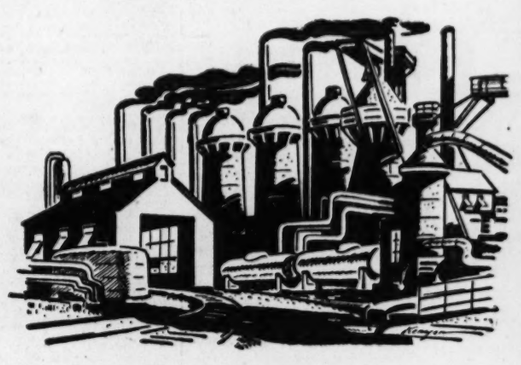

Why lower prices are General Electric's ultimate goal. Shoppers aren't the only winners when refrigerators, autos, houses, and radios are cheap—and plentiful. The company and its workers gain, too. With more goods sold to more people, mass production brings factory savings that permit lower prices, more jobs at better pay, and steadier work.

Increased production is the first step. People are anxiously waiting for things General Electric makes. Equipment for new houses, equipment for factories. Power plants to spread electrified homes. We're 30% behind our postwar production goal. To work at less than capacity increases our cost of doing business, and the cost of making the things we sell.

Material shortages affect prices and jobs. Postwar stoppages in key industries keep materials scarce, slowing G-E plants. Prices of materials, and deliveries to us, are still uncertain. Full production all over America will mean full production at General Electric, more jobs, better jobs, steadier jobs. Material shortages will clear up, but that will take time.

How the problem can be solved. To make paychecks buy more goods calls for full and uninterrupted production all over America. It calls for more goods, by better methods, accurate work, less spoilage. And no lag in materials from any industry. With brains, patience, work and time, prices will come down.

Lower prices have always been the result when General Electric has been able to meet its objective of making more goods for more people at less cost. The sooner production efficiency and production volume again climb, the sooner General Electric's policy of lower prices, more jobs at better pay, and fair profits will begin to pay off to all who help create them.

More Goods for More People at Less Cost

Moody and Forgotten

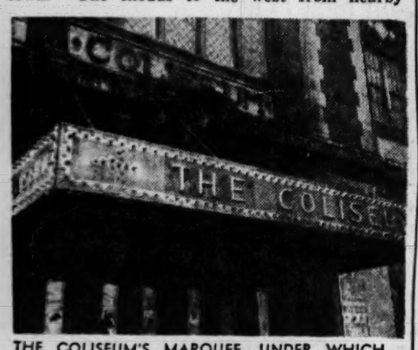

Ghosts of Bygone Day at the Coliseum

By Richard G. Baumhoff

LONESOME ghosts of a gay past lurk, moody and forgotten, behind the soiled brick walls and grimy windows of the Coliseum. The city has charged the owners with maintaining a firetrap there, and it looks like the unkindest cut of all for the once proud building, where gala events of society, politics and trade used to be held.

Few people hurrying up and down Locust or Washington boulevards nowadays even look up at the ugly old place on the west side of Jefferson avenue, but many St. Louisans can hark back in memory to the period when it was a busy, brilliant center of the community.

When the Coliseum was built as a civic venture in 1908—not much more than a third of a century ago—it seemed a long way from "downtown." The exodus to the west from nearby

THE COLISEUM'S MARQUEE, UNDER WHICH PASSED THE GAY AND THE FAMOUS.

Washington avenue mansions had started but a decade before, only a few genteel boarding houses had opened, and the whole neighborhood was quietly reminiscent still of the '90s.

That was before they widened Washington and tore up the rough brick paving, and changed it to a "boulevard." Stubby white "mail cars" operated on the Page trolley line; the Coliseum corner was one of their stops to tap the mailboxes.

The annual Veiled Prophet ball was shifted at once from the Merchants' Exchange to the Coliseum, and most of the ladies and gentlemen in stiff full dress went to the ball in carriages. They drove down Locust street, which had wood-block paving then, one of the few smooth-surfaced thoroughfares in town.

THE FOOD SHOWS were another high light of the golden era of the Coliseum. Instead of the make-believe court of the mysterious ruler of Khorassan the main floor—it seemed so big when St. Louis was smaller and easier-going—was covered with a multitude of booths, extolling the virtues of various edibles.

Politics provided not the least of the spectacles in the Coliseum. Back in 1916, with the first World War's tide turning back and forth and America still hopeful of being kept out of it, the Democratic national convention was held there. It renominated Woodrow Wilson for President, with Thomas Marshall of 5-cent cigar fame as his running mate.

THERE ARE Republican ghosts, too, fitting among the countless steel and concrete pillars of the old structure. Herbert Hoover spoke there a few nights before the election of 1928, as he completed a triumphant swing in the interests of two chickens in every pot. He got to town a little late for the radio broadcast arrangements, and consequently nobody ever arrived at the Coliseum in a greater state of hurrah. His party was driven from the Eads Bridge railroad station at 40 miles an hour, with the sirens of 76 police motorcycles shrieking wildly. Yes, 76; I was assigned to the ride and I checked on them.

FIRST TO USE the Coliseum, the records show, was Gypsy Smith, of the oldtime school of revivalists, who conducted a gospel meeting there in 1909. It was 19 years later that Billy Sunday held forth in the place. The roster of events at the Coliseum was of untold variety—the tanbark and spangled tights of police circuses; flower shows; the notably spectacular presentation of "The Miracle" about 1925, with one of the leading actresses standing like a religious statue for what seemed to be hours; formal horse shows and all their glitter; important boxing and wrestling matches; tennis games by stars, and then, as the place and the neighborhood began to run down, such things as six-day bike races, walkathons, roller skating derbies and dance marathons. As the structure changed hands on one of several occasions a swimming pool was installed in 1925 and the grim and forbidding interior was dressed up.

But it was too late. Times and the town changed. Bigger and better halls were built—The Arena facing Forest Park and Kiel Auditorium. Of late years the Coliseum has been deserted as a public gathering place.

Coat Hanging

By Christopher Billopp

THERE are two ways to hang a coat; on a hanger and on a hook. The hook method is the easier. All you have to do is to make one motion with the right hand toward the hook and the thing is finished.

But when you hang a coat on a hanger you have to go through the tedious process of removing the hanger from the closet, draping the coat over it and putting the hanger with the coat on it back in the closet.

WHY, THEN, should anybody ever hang a coat on a hanger when a hook is handy? Because no sooner is the coat hanging from the hook than a sepulchral voice will cry out, "Oh look what you have done. You have hung the coat up by his neck."

"How many times do you have to be told that hanging a coat up on a hook by its neck ruins the shape of the coat? What is the use of spending good money on a nice coat if you are going to treat it in such a shameful manner?"

"IT DOES NO GOOD to explain that you have saved yourself considerable effort. You will find it impossible to convince the sepulchral voice that the damage done to the coat through hanging it by the neck is greatly exaggerated."

Once you have hung a coat by its neck on a hook you have been guilty of an unforgivable sin. It is a sin as monstrous as wiping your razor blade on a towel or resting your feet on the sofa.

So, unless you are sure you can hang a coat on a hook without your crime being detected, you had better take the risk of exhausting your energy, hang it on a hanger, and be done with it.

CAT-NAPPERS

Weary Workers and Shoppers, Homeward Bound, Catch a Few Winks Despite Rush-Hour Discomfort

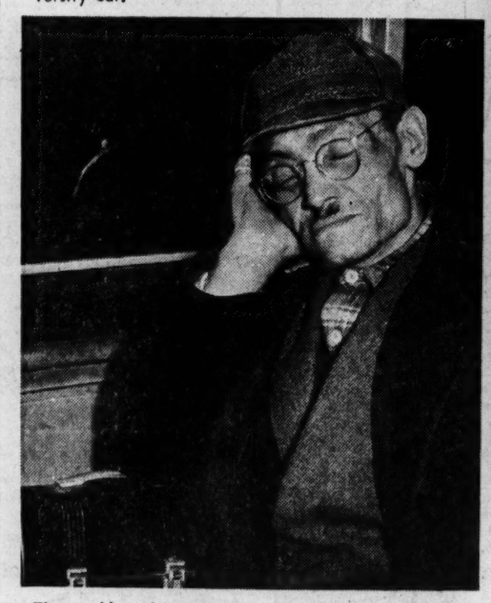

This youth, a passenger on a Delmar streetcar, enjoys a sound sleep, leaning heavily on the shoulder of man sitting next to him, who doesn't appear to mind. Experienced cat-nappers on cars and busses gauge their sleeping time, waking at intervals to check on landmarks, to make sure they haven't passed their stop.

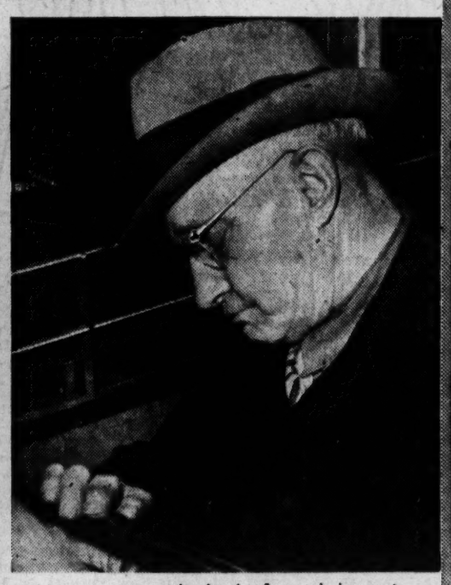

Well-wrapped against the outside weather, a passenger on the Creve Coeur line succumbs to the warmth of the car and settles down for a doze. Passenger beside him reads on.

Thoroughly relaxed, this worker rests an elbow on his lunch-box and his head against window, as he slumbers along the Delmar route.

How a grip on the back of seat helps maintain balance is demonstrated by napper on the Delmar line. Almost every car and bus has its cat-nappers during late afternoon and early evening rush hours, though the number is less than in the war years.

Notes of a Not-So-Innocent Bystander

THE First Nights: The reviewers celebrated Bobby Clark Week. Arriving in Victor Herbert's "Sweethearts," the matchless cut-up sets a howl-a-minute pace. Every laugh is a belly-whopper. Critics frisked the dictionary for every joyous adjective in an effort to translate their guffaws into words. Brooks Atkinson's mash note: "It is Bobby's personal antic. To steal a word from 'Finian's Rainbow' he is sort of grandish." . . . Who said aislemen are tough? The last three musicals to bounce into town earned plaudits aplenty. . . . "Temper the Wind" is probably the only show that has ever snared scoops. Many of the events that the play dramatizes are being confirmed by the daily bulletins from Hitlerville.

THE CINEMAGICIANS: Mark Hellinger's latest dandy is "Swell Guy." The title is ironic, for the cinema is a superb study of a male who is lower than a fallen arch. . . . A tender beautifilm, "The Yearling" sends its poignant message via the telegraphy of heartbeats. Gregory Peck and Jane Wyman are the super troupers. . . . "Dead Reckoning" rockets another bing-bang Bogart sure-firecracker. Lizabeth Scott helps him light the fuse. . . . "Lady of the Lake" comes out bullet first with a unique murder meller whiz aimed at Bob Montgomery. . . . "The Brute Man" displays a listless frightmare that aims for the bogeyman and settles for the sandman.

QUOTATION MARKSMANSHIP: J. E. Gobson: Learn to like people instead of wishing they liked you. . . . Marcelene Cox: He sharpened his wits on the edge of her nerves. . . . F. M. Howard: He gave her one of those person-to-person looks. . . . H. Bartow: As impartial as a traffic light. . . . S. Torrence: She used cosmetics to edit her face. . . . Anon: People have improved everything except people. . . Anon: Every whisper in a woman's ear is an attack upon her virtue. . . . Carol Lynne: After her divorce she lived on love lettuce. . . . Marya Bond: It is only fitting that the Cracker State has a crumb as Governor. . . . Frank Norris: As abrupt as a slammed door.

They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo

CASE RECORDS

By Dr. George W. Crane

CASE M-226: Sam G., aged 31 is a graduate engineer. "I've decided that the engineering profession is overcrowded," he began, "so I should like to get into some other line of work where I could count on a better chance of financial success.

"What would you advise regarding salesmanship? I think I can get a job selling machinery or some other related line that might enable me to utilize my engineering training. Dr. Crane, what do you think of my chances, and what pitfalls must I look out for?"

"THE SALESMAN is the sparkplug of civilization," Dr. Glenn Frank once wisely observed. But salesmanship of the modern type is no longer the oily tongued, high pressure selling of a man who engages constantly in superlative adjectives.

Salesmanship has gone scientific. Consumers are now analyzed to determine their needs. What sort of a market is there for this or that proposed new product? And what price will the average customer be willing to pay? The "pricing" of goods is a psychological rather than an economic task for "value" is a state of mind! What competing products are on the market? And what specific likes or dislikes does the consumer have regarding your contemplated type of merchandise? For instance, does he prefer bulk or packaged goods? If the latter, what will be the popular size—one pound, three or five-pound cartons?

Sam is fortunate in having a thorough education in engineering lines, especially if he plans to sell machinery, coal stokers, etc. But an engineering education may also be a liability, in one respect for most engineers have been so preoccupied with tools and machines, that they are very introvertive. They know very little about human nature.

A GOOD SALESMAN must have the capacity to grow enthusiastic. Some people seem unable to get very excited or vitally animated about anything. You can rarely make a success in selling unless you can radiate enthusiasm. If you have a phlegmatic temperament or are as cold as a fish and about as unimaginative, then you might as well stay away from this field. You must have physical pep, too, and confidence.

Take a lesson from the orchestra leader or vaudeville performer. These men know that they must act like human dynamos, for an audience is just like a customer. It absorbs its enthusiasm from the leader or salesman. A sluggish leader means an unresponsive crowd. They'll laugh but wanly or half-heartedly. Customers must be somewhat excited and enthusiastic before they will act or sign a contract. And they catch their animation from the salesman. I do not laud high pressure methods, but a coldly analytical scientist who cannot get excited or enthusiastic, will rarely be successful in selling.

Salesmanship is a real profession for brainy men who have pep and perseverance, and who are planning on a future. A young lawyer devotes five years to college, spending $1000 or more per year. Then he works for five years more and is lucky to net $25 per week. But a beginning salesman may give up in three months because he earns only $25 a week. Look ahead. Think in terms of your salary 20 years hence. Procure my "Test for Advertisers and Salesmen," enclosing a 3-cent stamped envelope, plus a dime. Rate yourself thereon.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

THE company president, the assistant to the president and the executive vice president got into a heated after-hours argument on the subject of matrimony.

The president contended that matrimony was 60 per cent work and 40 per cent fun. The assistant to the president maintained that it was 75 per cent work and 25 per cent fun. The executive vice president said that it was 90 per cent work and 10 per cent fun.

At the height of the argument, Sheffield, the office slavey shuffled by—just a little late getting out. "Let's leave it to him," said the president.

Sheffield listened carefully to the argument and said, with an air of absolute finality, "If you will pardon me, gentlemen, matrimony is 100 per cent fun and no work at all."

"How do you figure that?" cried the astonished bosses.

Sheffield took a deep breath. "Very simple," he said. "If there was any work in it at all, you would have me doing it."

"Yes, sir," asserted Mr. Ekhemer vehemently—perhaps a shade too vehemently, "my wife is just as beautiful today as she was when I married her 20 years ago." Then he added, "Of course, it takes her longer."

"The worst insult I ever got in radio," admits Bob Hope, "came from my pal Crosby. He phoned after my broadcast and said, 'Either you get off the air, or I stop breathing!'"

Economical Menus for Tomorrow

By Meta Given

THIS is the season when pork sausage tastes best, and the family welcomes it oftenest, provided it is well cooked. There are two problems in preparation. Thorough cooking is required to make it safe from trichinosis and to develop the delicious well-cooked pork flavor. And the extra fat which fries out in cooking needs to be turned to advantageous use if the sausage is to be made an economical meat buy. The pound rolls of sausage which most packers produce have been designed for slicing into patties of uniform thickness (one-half to one inch thickness) depending upon individual preference. For the most even cooking, they should be baked in the oven at 400 degrees F., uncovered, for 25 to 30 minutes. If preferred, they may be pan fried by placing in a skillet with one-fourth cup water. Cover, simmer five minutes over low heat.

Pour off any water that remains, and brown slowly to a golden brown. During the browning, the fat should be drained off so that the loose-textured, juicy patties will not be fat-soaked. There is usually about five-eighths cup of fat in a pound of sausage, and it has the flavor of the seasonings used, which is chiefly sage. It may be well utilized in the making of a parsley or egg sauce to be served over potatoes, green beans, or spinach that are served in the same meal. It makes good seasoning for split pea, lima bean, potato or cabbage soup. It also may be used with good effect to season bread crumbs to be used for stuffing. Its flavor makes it also well adapted for shallow frying such as eggs or potatoes.

Pork Sausage Patties.

Slice one pound pork bulk sausage into slices one-half to 1 inch thick depending upon individual preference. Place in skillet and add one-fourth cup water. Cover, place over low heat and simmer five minutes. Drain off any water that remains and brown sausages to a golden brown on each side.

Menues for Wednesday.

BREAKFAST — Apple sauce, poached eggs on toast.

LUNCHEON — Macaroni fish salad, radishes and pickles, crusty rolls, orange and banana fruit cup.

Macaroni and Fish Salad.

Heat three tablespoons shortening, add one-fourth cup minced onion and saute until soft and very light brown. Blend in one tablespoon flour, add one-fourth cup vinegar and stir until mixture boils and thickens. Add one-half teaspoon salt, a dash of pepper, one-half teaspoon sugar and one-half teaspoon mustard; stir to blend. Toss together lightly three tablespoons picalilli, two cups cooked drained macaroni (seven-ounce package) and three cups cooked, boned, flaked fish. Add hot vinegar dressing and mix lightly. Serve at once. Serves four to five.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

Why Do We Call Him a "Quack"?

OLD time epithet for a charlatan, "quack" is an abbreviation of one "quacksalaver," from the German "quacksalver"—one who "quacked" or prattled about his wares.

The term originally alluded to the faker who prated from the rostrum about the miracles wrought by his medicines and salves. About them he was said to "quack"—a word used derisively in imitation of a duck. The expression came to be used generally of a vendor of nostrums, the original type of the old American "patent medicine man." There followed its application to practitioners in any branch of healing who were not recognized in the profession, or who pursued unorthodox methods.

As to the nature of the "quack" in his original climate, whence the term comes to us, we find a reference as early as 1579 about the "quacksalver's budget of filthy receites."

My Day -o- By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Monday.

THE other day John Foster Dulles, Republican adviser on world affairs, in a speech in New York, said that our strength with foreign nations was due to the participation of the Republicans in our foreign policy. In one way, he is entirely correct. Foreign nations have learned from sad experience that, while it is the duty of the executive branch of our government, the President and the Secretary of State, to draw up treaties and deal with foreign affairs, the final agreements have to be ratified by the Senate. The array of treaties that were not ratified caused one Secretary of State—John Hay, I believe—to remark that he was tired of drawing up useless documents, or words to that effect.

THE FAILURE of President Wilson to take Republican Senator Henry Cabot Lodge with him to the conferences out of which grew the League of Nations, was probably the cause of the failure of the Senate to approve of our participation in the league. Since a little group of "willful men" can do a very effective job in preventing a policy from being adopted, it's no wonder that the representatives of other governments and the peoples of the world want our participation in the United Nations and the framing of our foreign policy to be on a bipartisan basis.

This was important while the Republicans were in the minority, and it is equally important today that the Democrats be in accord with our foreign policy, even though they may be in the minority in the legislative branch of the government. So I would like to emphasize the value of bipartisan participation in the formation of foreign policy, rather than the predominant influence of either party.

YESTERDAY I was in Cleveland to participate, on the closing day, in a conference of the educational directors of the UAW-CIO unions. Nearly a thousand people came to the conference from all over the United States. It was an interested and active group of men and women, all of whom wanted to learn how to make their unions more intelligent, and more useful not only to union interests but to the United States and the world as a whole.

The two morning speeches were made by James Patton, head of the National Farmers' Union, and by Edward L. Bernays, public relations expert. I was particularly interested in a suggestion made by Mr. Patton that a council be appointed from the UAW to work with a council from the Farmers' Union, so that they could more closely co-ordinate their interests and understand at what points they could work together.

EVER SINCE I can remember, there had been an apparent division between agriculture and labor. Yet each is a consumer of the other's productions. And of course, this is true of every individual—nearly all of us are both producers and consumers. If we could understand our mutual interests, we might wipe out a great many points of difference and work out some wide areas in which we could work together.

Beets With Orange Sauce

Two and one-half cups sliced beets, cooked; one tablespoon butter or margarine, four tablespoons brown sugar, one and one-half tablespoons flour, three-fourths cup orange juice, slivered orange peel, one-eighth teaspoon salt and paprika.

Melt butter or margarine in double boiler. Add sugar which has been mixed with flour and orange juice. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add seasonings and cooked beets. Heat thoroughly and serve.

My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM a woman in my fifties. Three years ago my husband was without work and went away from home to find employment. He came home in a few weeks, sold our home, went away again and left me with the moving to do and another home to buy, or rent. This was hard to do, especially since I had only 30 days till I had to get out. However, I managed to buy another place and moved in. He came home a few times, but always goes out of town to work, seldom finds me a place where I could stay and be with him. Once I did go and stayed a short time. When I returned I found my daughter and grandson had moved in with me, my furniture was all set back and her's placed where she wanted it. Now my home is in no way like I want it, everything is fixed her way. I love my own home but this doesn't seem like mine, though I pay all utility and coal bills and part of the groceries. Don't you think if my husband can't find me a place where I can be with him he should try to get a job here where our home is? He has been away over a year now. He says perhaps he could get me a sleeping room. I don't feel able to go out all the time for meals, and I am sure I'd have to go alone what's more. I don't like to have to live this way. What can I do?

THANKS.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest, but of course cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may inclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

It is natural that you should feel lonely without the companionship of your husband, and a stranger in your home when your daughter takes over so completely. If your husband is actually unable to find work in the town where you are living, or if he would make so much less money than where he is that he can't afford to change jobs, then it seems to me you should go to where he is, and make some kind of home for him. It might be only a room or two at first, but eventually as the housing situation clears up you would be able to find something better. Surely you could stand the inconvenience for a while, in order to be with your husband. Possibly you can sell or rent your present home to your daughter and leave her in full possession. Talk the matter over with your husband, tell him that you feel you and he should be together, enjoying each others companionship, even more now that your family is grown. I am sure if he will stop to think matters over he will realize your viewpoint is only reasonable after all, and will co-operate with you in managing to get together somehow.

Dear Martha Carr:

I AM A GIRL age 18 much in love with a man who works where I do. He is 26, married and has three children. I love him but he doesn't seem to care for me. He always treats me like a kid sister which annoys me greatly. I have gone out with boys my own age but to me they seem terribly childish, so I just sit home these days and dream about him. We went to lunch together once. He didn't mention a date and I got disgusted. Do you think I will seem forward if I continue to call this man? Tonight I intend to ask him to see me more often. I have always been very mature for my age. When I was in the eighth grade I quit school to elope with a man, but he ran off with another girl. This time my whole life is going to be ruined if I don't get the man I want. What shall I do?

IN LOVE.

Your life is certainly not going to be ruined if you don't get this man. If you start trying tricks with a view to breaking up his home, however, the chances are your life may be ruined. So stick to boys your own age and stop the silly and illicit day-dreaming. You will not only seem, but will be forward, if you telephone this man, and quite likely will rate a lecture from him, since he treats you like a little sister, and it will be well deserved. Your code of ethics needs revising. Better see to it.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A QUESTION asked almost more often than any other is this one: "When my son was half grown, his father died and soon after, my son dropped the 'Jr.' from his name. There was no real confusion between him and me until he married and now his wife lives in this medium-sized town and calls herself 'Mrs. John Smith.' This causes unending confusion, especially for the poor postman. Not long ago I decided to call myself 'Mrs. John Smith Sr.,' hoping that would serve to end the difficulty. But others keep writing me without the 'Sr.' and nothing seems to have been gained. Have you any suggestions as to how I can get this new name of mine into the consciousness of friends?"

Instead of writing "Sr." it might be better to add "senior" to your visiting cards and use it on writing paper marked with your full name and address. You also may use it in a return address on the envelope of your letters to indicate how you prefer to be written to. List yourself as "Mrs. John Smith Sr." in the telephone directory and on charge accounts at stores. In fact, add it wherever your name now appears as "Mrs. John Smith."

DEAR MRS. POST: I am 14, a freshman in high school and the majority of my friends are my age or a year or two older. At all the parties we've had up to now, we've played kissing games and some of us feel these games are getting very silly. But we're at a loss to know what else to suggest that would be suitable for our ages. Mother said she had lots of fun at their parties in her younger days, but she can't remember just what games they played. Can you tell us something?

Answer: You are quite right to feel that the time has come for a change! Girls and boys before their teens do play the "kissing" type of games at their parties, but not after that. Adult games that have come back into fashion are Twenty Questions, Charades, Clumps, etc.

All Children Love to Sing Simple Songs

By Angelo Patri

MUSIC should fill a period in the school child's day. He needs it. He needs it because music is the language of the spirit and the spirit needs expression in terms of beauty.

Children's growth, their lives, are set to rhythm. They respond to it heartily, readily and with great pleasure. When they are tired, and children get very tired at times in the classrooms, a stirring song, a marching song will restore them quickly.

The morning exercises ought to allow plenty of time for music. The children love to sing if the songs are within their experience and the music within their reach. They do not enjoy trying to sing songs for the operas, oratoris beyond the reach of their voices. They want to sing the simple songs that children have loved through the years. They should be allowed to do so for their souls' sakes, and for the sake of the teachers who must deal with them when they are wearied of lessons.

NOW AND THEN a music teacher in the schools is ambitious. She wants to put on a show that allows her to enjoy some masterpiece of music. That means that a chorus is selected, and a couple of soloists. The time that might have gone to the whole group for enjoyment of pleasant songs now goes to rehearsals with a small group. The result is just another exhibition of the teacher's skill and the children's inability to master music beyond their reach.

Teach the children to sing the songs they love. Above all, teach them to read music as easily as they read their primers. It can be done. When a song is sung, throw the music on the screen. The children will soon begin to associate the lines and the dots with the tones they sing. Keep teaching them the meaning and the value of those notes and they will read them. Few music teachers seem to understand how much pleasure can be derived out of just reading music, reading it as a book is read, for the pleasure of it.

CHILDREN should be able to write music, should be able to listen to a melody, played or sung phrase by phrase, and write it down as they hear it. They will be able to do this if they are taught music from the beginners' class onward through high school. Music is the language of the spirit and essential to the healthy growth of children everywhere.

And one of the essential features of a good school is the orchestra. The school is not complete without one. Begin if there is only the piano and one child to play it. Others will come. Nothing will so unite a group of children in harmony as their orchestra. All teachers, all supervisors should aid the music teacher because it is music that soothes the children's spirits, carries them over hard places and keeps them happily growing.

Fix It Yourself

Clothes Lines in the Cellar.

DOES it make you nervous to sit and watch the little woman wade around in the ice, snow and sleet as she hangs up the family washing? Why not put up a clothes line for her in the basement and you'll be able to nap in front of the fire with a clear conscience.

It's those concrete walls that keep lots of us from trying to hitch anything up in the cellar. But actually it's a very simple job. All you need to make holes is a concrete drill and a hammer. The drill won't set you back very much and you'll find other uses for it. You will also need some expansion bolts. This type of bolt has expanding sides that are forced against the side of the hole as the bolt is tightened. There are several types to be had all on the same general principle.

A simple way to put up several lines is to attach a piece of two by four stock to opposite walls. Use the drill to make the two holes in each wall and secure the boards firmly to the walls with the expansion bolts. Place screw eyes in the two by fours and string up the clothes lines. You can put up any number of lines depending only on the length of the two by fours.

92-Foot Ski Jump Without Snow

Siegfried Steinwall Does It Twice Daily Off 240-Foot Slide at Sports Show

By Clarissa Start

STEINWALL HAS NO AIR OF LIGHT-HEARTED LEVITY.

THE high diver who boasted he could dive 100 feet into a damp sponge has practically nothing on Siegfried Steinwall, who makes two ski jumps daily down a 240-foot slide climaxed by a 92-foot jump, all without benefit of ice or snow. This exhibition of ski skill is being demonstrated currently at the fifth annual St. Louis Travel and Sports Show at Kiel Auditorium, where Steinwall glides down a waxed canvas slide over the top balcony, takes off at the edge of the lower balcony, and skims the Minnesota Arrowhead exhibit, landing, if his navigation in accurate, on a platform six feet above the floor.

Although he has specialized in this iceless indoor skiing for the past 10 years, he has no air of light-hearted levity toward its hazards and affects none.

"Indoors is something unusual and is very difficult," says Steinwall, a small, slender, and wiry man, who at times talks somewhat like El Brendel. "Is no one place like another and is always a danger. The first time," he added, "makes you a little nervous."

The first glance at the track, a spacious 11 inches wide, made us a little nervous and we inquired if this trick took much practice. Steinwall shook his head emphatically.

"I never practice," he said. "I consider it too risky to practice."

A former amateur champion, holder of ski jumping records in America, Canada, Sweden, and Norway, Steinwall was born in Northern Sweden near Lapland, and began skiing (a sport he pronounces ski-ing rather than she-ing) at the fearless age of five.

"All the children there skate and ski and sleigh ride," he explained, "and like all children I did all three, but I happened to be best at skiing. When you are a child you don't know you're 'taking up' anything, you just do it for fun. When I was 12 I entered my first competition, a school children's meet, and happened to be successful from the start."

By the time he was 18, Steinwall had won most of the school championships and began competing in adult amateur events, among them a Norway ski meet where he was a member of the Swedish team that won the world's championship.

"In 1918, I came to America," he continued. "I had taken gymnastics, or physical culture as it is called here, and after I had graduated, I came here to practice at the Battle Creek Sanitarium, and the next winter I began entering skiing events here."

Steinwall has no idea how many championships he has won or how many records he has set, but estimates that "it must be quite many." At his home in New York City, where he and his wife, also a former ski jumper, live and where he runs an importing and exporting business between skiing exhibitions, he has hundreds of cups and trophies but most of them are packed away.

As a professional, Steinwall became ski coach at Dartmouth University and coached several college athletes who later became U. S. representatives in the 1928 and 1936 Olympic games, among them Warren Chievers and Charlie Proctor, now a professional himself. He also coached the Swedish Olympic team for the 1932 competition at Lake Placid, N. Y.

Steinwall doesn't resent the fact that cute little girls in smart snow suits now outnumber the serious devotees of the sport but think it is fine that the advent of the slalom — zigzagging between flags — and of lifts so that skiers can ride back up the slope, made skiing more popular with people in general and women in particular. He cites as evidence of skiing's present popularity the fact that 35,000 people attended a recent meet in Chicago, an event which he won several times during his amateur years.

"I think it's nice for a lot of people to take an interest in any sport," he says. "Of course in the Middlewest, Illinois, Minnesota, and Michigan, skiing has always had a following. It started as far back as the '90s and they had organized tournaments as early as 1904. At first it was mostly Scandinavian but now it's an all-American sport."

He has coached few beginners, most of his work being with those who were already proficient but he thinks anyone can learn to "ski around."

He is not the only person to do indoor skiing but his competitors use straw and an eight-foot slide and a landing only four feet wide.

This slick trick has gotten him into trouble occasionally when he zigged when he should have zagged. His first accident was at the Ice Follies in Atlantic City in 1937 when the jump was a success but his speed across the ice on which he landed increased more than he had estimated and he crashed into a fence, fracturing his ankle.

"But I had a much worse one than that in Baltimore," he said. "It wasn't my fault, just a mechanical difficulty when my ski caught on the run and I was thrown. I got a broken arm, leg, and hip, and it took me a little while to get over that."

Steinwall does gymnastics to keep in trim, never smokes or drinks, because he has never, he says, "had either of those habits." At an age when most men exercise only the wrist in a quick gin rummy deal, or occasionally the whole arm as they lift a tall glass, he doesn't intend to keep up exhibition work indefinitely, but because of the work involved in rigging up the apparatus rather than the skiing risk.

"In one city recently I worked until 3 o'clock in the morning putting up the slide," he said, "and that is too tiring. But I think I'll always ski for pleasure. It is a sport people generally keep up, to an old age. People 70 and 75 years old go out skiing just as they go out for a hike."

It was unfortunate that he mentioned hiking because that brought on the suggestion that we view the ski slide at closer range so following Steinwall's agile steps, we mushed up the ramps to the top of the auditorium, the most exercise we've had since we played left fumble on the girls' third softball team in high school.

"You can see better from up here," Steinwall explained, leaping lithely to the very top step, as we clung to a railing, panting from the Alpine atmosphere. "Now if you'll just look down there—"

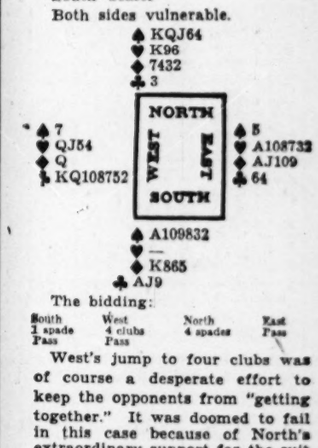

It was probably an excellent view but a slight attack of acrophobia prevented us from looking. We decided as we crept down the ramp, getting closer and closer to terra gooda that we'd prefer catching Skier Steinwall's act from a worm's rather than bird's-eye view. And we wouldn't stay in that exhibition booth with those Minnesotans for a wagon-load of arrowheads.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

BAD luck hit the declarer very early in today's deal, but he made a brilliant counter-attack and saved his contract.

South dealer
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	4 clubs	4 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

West's jump to four clubs was of course a desperate effort to keep the opponents from "getting together." It was doomed to fail in this case because of North's extraordinary support for the suit that his partner had already bid. True, the four-spade call was a decided stretch, but North probably made the bid in the spirit of not taking a dare.

When it came to defending against the four-spade contract West was still desperate and therefore opened the diamond queen, despite his singleton trump. As it happened the lead struck gold in East's hand. East put up the ace and returned the jack; West ruffed away declarer's king, laid down the king of clubs—and after winning, South apparently had two hopeless losers left in diamonds. The contract was hanging by a hair.

However, after careful thought, South saw some light. He led a low trump to dummy, returned a low heart, and when East shrewdly guessed right and played low, South ruffed. He next ruffed the club nine, ruffed another heart, led back to dummy in trumps and ruffed the heart king. Now he tossed out the club jack, and when West covered, made him a present of the trick, discarding a diamond from dummy.

Obviously, West was now "hooked." His forced club or heart return allowed declarer to discard dummy's one remaining diamond while he ruffed with his own last trump, and dummy took the fulfilling tricks with trumps.

By giving up one club trick needlessly, South had salvaged two losers in diamonds.

BOARD APPROVES TWO BILLS FOR PAVING BISCHOFF AVENUE

Two proposed ordinances for paving and widening Bischoff avenue for two blocks between Kingshighway and Hereford street were approved today by the Board of Public Service. This marks another step forward in a 38-year controversy. The bills will be introduced at Friday's session of the Board of Aldermen.

One bill would repeal an existing ordinance which provided for improvement of Bischoff by special assessment of those living in the benefit area. The other bill would be a new ordinance authorizing the Public Service Board to let contracts for improvement of the street, using 1923 bond issue funds.

The Board of Estimate already has approved an expenditure of $25,000 for the project. The street, now a dirt road, would be paved and widened from 30 to 60 feet. Residents of "The Hill" contend they need a traffic outlet into Kingshighway, whereas opponents contend improving the street would create a traffic hazard at the south end of the Kingshighway viaduct.

Flashes of Life

By the Associated Press.

Fortunato's Over Age.

PHILADELPHIA — Fortunato Fratto took the Army at its word. Urged to enlist in a letter, Fratto applied for duty as a drillmaster. The recruiting officer, however, turned him down. Fratto, who listed service with the Italian Army in Africa during World War I, is 85 years old.

Empty Honors.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—Nine residents of suburban Wyoming and Paris townships are city commissioners—without a city. The nine, still unnamed while canvassers recheck ballots, were elected Monday. But on the same ballot voters turned down by a 4 to 1 majority a proposal to incorporate a new home rule city of Godwin. Names of 23 city commission candidates were put on the ballot in an economy move to avoid another election in case incorporation was approved.

Long Wait.

CHICAGO—Mrs. Almenia Smith, 54, told Superior Judge Edwin A. Robson that her husband, George F., 57, deserted her Feb. 17, 1928, on their twentieth wedding anniversary. For nearly 19 years, Mrs. Smith told the court, she had continued to hope Smith would return, but finally decided to divorce him. Mrs. Smith, who has 20 grandchildren and seven sons and daughters, was granted a divorce.

All cotton things cost more now—

Don't bleach the HARSH WAY with uncontrolled bleaches
An uncontrolled bleach, that varies in strength from one bottle to the next, may easily cause you to overbleach your cottons and linens. This oxidizes fabric threads. They weaken and soon fray out, as shown above.

Bleach the GENTLE WAY with Controlled-Action Purex!
Every bottle of Purex has the same uniform strength, the same correct bleaching action. Used as directed, Purex never overbleaches. It provides this Controlled Action because it is purified and stabilized by the Intrafil Process, exclusive with Purex. Your white and color-fast cottons and linens come out fresh, stain-free and snowy—and give the long service so necessary. Yes, Purex bleaching is as easy on things as ordinary washing...and Purex is so easy to use! No wonder Purex is America's Largest Selling Bleach and Disinfectant! At your grocer's.
PUREX
THE CONTROLLED-ACTION BLEACH
